MELLON PROTEGE VANISHES, LEAVES GIRL FAREWELL NOTE

Today

William II, Aged Seventy.
Happy Big Steel.
How Far Yon Candle.
A City On a Rock.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN SEVEN days William Hohenzollern, once emperor, will be 70. He looks well, but disillusioned, wears a full beard, mustaches no longer waxed or turned up at the point.

HE WILL celebrate by publishing a book called "My Ancestors." It could be interesting, going back to the early money-lending family of East Prussia that got its name from high interest rates. But it's hard to write impartially about your own people.

WILLIAM decided that some things were wrong in the Hohenzollern family and blames its troubles, passion, sudden rages, bad temper, etc., on a woman, Maria Pavlowa, Russian by blood, Hohenzollern by accident of marriage. That reminds you of Adam blaming Eve.

WILLIAM says Maria was "the villain of my family." His predecessor, Frederick the Great, would know better. Maria Pavlowa, because she was wild, violent, ungovernable, may have given Prussia's ruling family its genius.

OLYMPIA, dancing naked with snakes wrapped around her body, too intimate by far with an Egyptian magician, conspiring to murder Philip's second wife and her baby, was, nevertheless, mother of Alexander the Great.

IT TAKES energy to produce energy. Sometimes ladies that seem wild simply lack an adequate outlet for superior powers.

IT'S TOO bad we know so little about violent women of the past, Dido, and Bertha of the big feet, Charlemagne's mother, the marvelous Hypatia, and Tomyris, the African queen that cut off the head of Cyrus and dipped it in a goatskin filled with human blood.

Men have written too much about themselves, not enough about women.

OGDEN L. MILLS, assistant secretary of the treasury, says the big steel company, which got an income tax refund of $15,000,000 in one year, paid in that same year $173,000,000 in taxes.

That interests "big steel" stockholders. It indicates that their property is well managed, profitable.

THE New York Central Railroad, on its 35-story office building, installs a gigantic searchlight that will so shine "in a naughty world" as to startle Shakespeare's little candle.

It will light up many inhabitants of "Easy street" as it streams up and down Park avenue and over into Fifth avenue.

"BIG STEEL" went up $21 a share last week, increasing the wealth of those that own it by $14,700,000. And that was only one little item in the week's prosperity. If you have anything good, in the United States, hold on to it. If not, as the late Collis P. Huntington would say, GET something.

SOME elderly New Yorkers worry about big buildings, convinced that "they must sooner or later cause Manhattan Island to sink."

It will comfort them to know that under New York there is solid rock going down 60 miles. All the tall buildings make about as much difference as a few pebbles on the Rock of Gibraltar.

OUR earth dwelling is substantial. Prof. Michelson of Chicago University has proved that its rigidity, which means its resistance to any power that might pull it out of shape, is as great as though it were made of solid steel.

MICHELSON established earth's rigidity by measuring the rise and fall of the tide in a pipe one inch in diameter and more than a mile long. Not everybody realizes that the tide rises and falls in your teacup or in a canary bird's drinking vessel, just as it does in the ocean, only the tide is not so high or low.

STATISTICS show that 1,223,000 houses in this country have electric refrigerators. That is only 6.4 per cent of the houses that are electrically wired and could have them. All will have them eventually.

USE of electric machinery in the home, sweepers, washing machines, fans, irons, mangles, exercising apparatus, has increased enormously in the past year.

L. J. Horowitz, head of Thompson-Starrett, biggest building concern, announces privately a new electric cooking stove that will be operated as cheaply as a gas stove. That will interest General Electric and Westinghouse.

MR. STEWART, head of Standard Oil of Indiana, is making a hard fight against the Rockefeller effort to get rid of him.

Odds are against Mr. Stewart for one reason. If he wins, as many in Wall Street predict that he will, his company will be "out of touch" with the other Standard Oil units.

THAT may be a disadvantage and big stockholders will think it over.

When little octopuses fall out the one with three to one against it may suffer. Mr. Giannini, California financier whose Bancitaly Company holds tens of thousands of Standard Oil shares, votes his stock with the Rockefellers.

90 SAVED, LINER ON REEF

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—With her 90 passengers safely removed and bound for Nassau on the steamer Pan-American, the grounded liner President Garfield was being emptied of her cargo on Manatilla reef today, with the prospects that she would be refloated with the rising tide in time to pick up the passengers at Nassau almost on schedule time.

This word was received here this afternoon by the Dollar Line offices. Not a passenger was hurt nor an ounce of baggage or cargo damaged, the message said. High praise was paid to the efficiency of the Pan-American and to the commander of the President Garfield, Capt. T. P. Quinn.

The President Garfield is believed to be but slightly damaged and is expected to continue its 'round-the-world cruise within the next 24 hours.

With the hatches empty, the cargo transferred to barges, and the ballast tanks free of their burden, the vessel will be freed from Matanilla reef by the rising tide, in the opinion of Capt. T. P. Quinn.

Former Residents Here in Shipwreck

Mrs. Lillie W. Stephenson and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Stephenson, of Hartford, Conn., both passengers on the Dollar Line steamer President Garfield, which struck off the Florida coast shoals yesterday, were formerly residents of the Darlington apartments, Pittsburgh. Mrs. Stephenson is a sister of the late W. W. Wattles, of the W. W. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sharp, of Pittsburgh, were also reported passengers.

Flier Hurt in Crash Thought Lindy's Kin

AIKEN, S. C., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Ray Barlow, New York City pilot, and Brice Gregory, of Aiken, a passenger, were seriously injured when an airplane in which they were stunting over Gaston Polo Field here crashed. Amputation of Gregory's leg was found necessary. Barlow is thought to have internal injuries. Barlow is said to be a first cousin of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Son of Jenny Lind Dead in England

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The death of Walter Otto Goldschmidt, 51, elder son of Jenny Lind, world famous prima donna, was announced today from his home in upper Norwood, a London suburb. Mr. Goldschmidt was an accomplished pianist.

Marshal Foch Gets Up for Few Minutes

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch was so much better today that his doctors permitted him to get out of bed and sit in an arm chair for a few minutes. His spirits have never once been depressed during his entire illness.

SENATE VOTES O. K. ON WEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The Senate today voted confirmation of the nomination of Roy West, of Chicago, to be secretary of the interior.

The action ended a long fight waged by the Progressives to block his confirmation on the grounds he was too closely identified with Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities magnate.

West has been serving under a recess appointment, given him by President Coolidge this summer. Recently, the President decided to bring the issue to a head and sent the nomination into the Senate. The vote for West was 54 to 27.

Severe Earthquake To North Recorded

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A severe earthquake, estimated to have occurred 3,400 miles from Washington in a northerly direction, was recorded at 5:32 a. m. today on the Georgetown University seismograph. Director Tondorf said the disturbance lasted three hours and reached its maximum intensity at 5:56 o'clock.

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Party Reaches Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller, their son, David, and Prof. James Henry Breasted, Egyptologist of the University of Chicago, arrived here today.

CONVICT STABS GUARDS, SLAIN

Springing like an infuriated tiger as the door of his cell was opened, a Negro prisoner at Western Penitentiary stabbed four guards with a crudely fashioned stiletto of his own making before he was shot down, mortally wounded.

The prisoner, John "Battleaxe" Graham, 32, a former boxer of Mercer killing a Sharon Negro, died in the prison hospital at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

TOO NOISY

The four guards went to Graham's cell to quiet him, according to Deputy Warden W. E. Rucker. The prisoner was shouting and heaving like a wild man, Rucker said, and was disturbing the other prisoners.

Unable to induce Graham to be quiet, the guards used tear gas and ammonia fumes to subdue him. The prisoner placed the mattress of his bunk against the cell door and remained defiant.

ATTACKS GUARDS

As the guards opened the door of the cell to take Graham to another part of the prison they say he sprang at them with the stiletto,

12 Hurt in Blast As Mine Caves In

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Twelve miners were burned at the Baltimore No. 5 mine of the Hudson Coal Company today in an explosion following a tremendous cave-in, believed at first to have been an earthquake.

Company officials declared at noon that no fatalities had occurred and all workers had been accounted for.

Aged Woman Burns To Death in Home

When firemen forced open the door of a first-floor bedroom in a home at 162 Stoebner way, East End, today they found the burned body of Mrs. Rose Zarelli, 80. Appearances indicated that her clothes had caught fire from a gas stove and that she had failed to extinguish the flames with a pillow. A passerby heard Mrs. Zarelli's cries of "fire."

Yesterday's Sunday Sun-Telegraph FIRST in Automotive Advertising

Yesterday, the Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in connection with its 1929 Auto Show Number, carried MORE Automotive Advertising than its competitor,

The Press LOST more than 8,000 lines over last year's figures.

The circulation of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, far ahead of the Sunday Press, and the largest ever attained by ANY Pittsburgh newspaper, is producing results for advertisers at the lowest possible cost.

JAWORSKI DIES IN CHAIR

By SHELDON REED,
Staff Correspondent.

ROCKVIEW PRISON, Pa., Jan. 21.—Paul Jaworski, who believed he could make crime pay cash dividends, collected its only wages here this morning in the electric chair.

A few minutes later, Calvin James, young automobile and liquor salesman, of Doylestown, Pa., paid the same penalty for the murder of William Dunstan, drug clerk, of Doylestown, in a bootleg deal. He also admitted killing two uncles, but this never was officially probed.

They brought Jaworski into the dim gray death chamber precisely at seven. He seemed soggy of body and spirit. His face was pasty, his eyes expressionless. His hands frittered about nervously. His feet shuffled the few steps to the chair in a fantastic half-dance motion.

WINCES IN CHAIR

They strapped him in. The cap was slipped over his head. He winced, for there was a bullet in that head. Then the mask was fixed upon him.

Executioner Robert G. Elliott stepped to the safe-like panel of switches in the wall to the side of the chair.

He pulled the switch and turned the rheostat up, then down again. Up, then down once more. There was a click, click, click.

Then Elliott pulled out the switch, and stepped back. With his own hands he unbuckled the strap across the breast of this man he had just sent into eternity.

Prison Physician Asa L. Hickok stepped forward. He leaned over this thing that had once been an arch killer, a super-bandit. He held

The Peace of Europe Is In No Way Promoted By the Kellogg Pact

The reservations imposed upon the Kellogg Personal Promotion Pact probably deprive it of its main menace to the United States, but still do not render it in any sense of advantage to this country or of actual benefit to the world.

The peace of Europe is in no way promoted by the pact. European nations do not take it seriously or regard it hopefully except as a promising opportunity for further exploitation of the United States. The most eminent and outspoken statesmen in Europe, such as Lloyd George and Mussolini, have recently stated publicly that the nations of Europe, after signing the pact, have proceeded as vigorously as ever, and even more vigorously than ever, to prepare for war.

Mussolini said:

"The truth is that the whole world is again arming itself. The number of bayonets and cannon is constantly increasing, yet everybody speaks of peace."

Lloyd George said:

"This summer we signed a pact by which we outlawed war, hurling it into the bottomless pit of infamy. What need we do more but to sing the Hallelujah chorus? Since we signed the Kellogg pact, armaments have been steadily growing. As things are now, the nations are headed straight for war."

And the readers of these papers all know from the provisions of the Anglo-French secret treaty, first published in these columns, that at the very moment when Mr. Briand, foreign minister of France, was signing the Kellogg Peace Pact with his left hand he was signing with the other hand the treaty with England providing for an increase in the naval establishment of both France and England and permitting an enormous military establishment at the command of France of over 8,000,000 men.

In fact, while apparently acceding to the Kellogg peace proposals, these European nations were merely taking advantage of the United States' desire for peace to put this country in a defenseless position, while they increased their forces of aggression, because, as Dean Inge, English exponent of Christ's brotherly love, so frankly and fraternally says:

"It is more than possible that the nations of Europe, enraged by the boasted prosperity and airs of superiority of 'the man who won the war,' will combine to draw Shylock's teeth."

It would seem in the face of these hard facts that even the most watery-eyed sentimentalists in all the United States would realize that a compact with European nations which is even a "feeble imitation of the League of Nations," is fraught with danger, and that the peace professions of war-like European nations are only made as a screen for increased armament. And would realize, too, that for this nation to depend upon open peace pacts with nations which are at the same moment making secret war pacts, is merely for the lamb to thrust itself to the mercy of the wolves. But the sentimentalists never realize anything practical. It has been said of all of us that we learn nothing from history except that we learn nothing from history. But the sentimentalists learn nothing from facts, either past or present.

They are perfectly good people, exceedingly soft-hearted as well as soft-headed, but they are constitutionally and chronically committed to meddling in other people's affairs as a national, international and individual policy.

Their program of PEACE is so completely to entangle the United States in European complications that the nation will surely be involved in the next European WAR.

For it may be set down as a proposition, self-evident to all people familiar with the facts and accessible to their logis, that entangling the United States with Europe will NOT draw European nations into the paths of peace pursued by the United States, but WILL inevitably draw the United

One of the features which impressed visitors at Pittsburgh's 1929 Automobile Show in Motor Square Garden, Baum boulevard, at Beatty street, is the sheer beauty of the ensemble. The picture, as seen on entrance to the big auditorium, has been termed striking. The show continues each day this week from 1 to 11 p. m.

In addition to the attraction of the new motor cars, more colorful than ever before, refined mechanically and with a harmony of line that is new, entertainment is being provided by the Silvertown Cord Orchestra, with Joseph Knecht, directing, and the Silver Masked Tenor each afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Other programs are given each night from 8 to 11 p. m. There are 39 makes of cars with 200 different models and 45 displays of accessories, parts and tools.

W. N. Owings, manager of the show and secretary of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, after having received many congratulations on the show, said:

"Each year the show seems to grow more and more successful. No doubt this is, in a large measure, due to the widely-spreading two-car family idea. I am certainly highly gratified at the perfectly splendid showing made by the individual exhibitors. The excellent showmanship in putting forth unusually attractive cars seems more apparent this year than in the past."

'I LOVE YOU, GOODBYE' HE SAYS

Harold Graham, 20, a protege of James R. Mellon and an employe of the Mellon National Bank, has disappeared, the Bureau of Missing Persons revealed today.

If information in the hands of detectives is correct, Harold discharged a taxicab on the Sharpsburg Bridge Thursday night, leaving in the cab this penciled note:

"Peggy—I love you. Goodbye—Harold."

Detectives said they believe the note was addressed to "Peggy" Sill, a student in Margaret Morrison School, Carnegie Tech, who lives at 5862 Burchfield street, Squirrel Hill.

Harold, who came to Pittsburgh and the Mellon Bank 16 months ago from Bolivar, Pa., where his father is a well-to-do farmer, attended night class at Peabody High School Thursday night. His instructor said he departed before the class was dismissed.

CALLED "PEGGY"

Detectives said he went from school to a telephone, called up Miss Sill and asked about the details of a birthday party to be given for him on Friday—his twentieth birthday.

He then took another girl friend to a theater. About midnight, after he had escorted her home, he complained of being ill.

WON PROMOTION

The young man made Mellon's acquaintance several years ago at the Mellon summer home near Bolivar. Mellon apparently took a liking to Harold and in September, 1927, found a place for him as messenger in the bank. Since then he has been promoted to a somewhat higher position.

Young Graham lived at 1419 Euclid avenue, the home of Miss Louise Brown, a secretary in the bank.

The detectives are puzzled over a mysterious telephone call to the home at 6 o'clock Friday morning. The caller described himself as the taxicab driver who had driven Harold to the Sharpsburg Bridge, and he read the note to Miss Brown, who instructed him to turn it over to police.

William Graham, Harold's father, from his home in Bolivar told the Sun-Telegraph he had received a letter last week from his son, who had written that he was satisfied with his position and things in general.

Miss Sill, a freshman at Carnegie Tech, was located at her home today by a reporter for the Sun-Telegraph. She said:

"I last saw Harold on January 12. He telephoned me on Thursday, the night he disappeared, and we arranged to go to a show the following night, which was his birthday."

Miss Sill said she had met Harold 10 months ago.

Col. Stewart Returns From N. Y. Confident

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Apparently confident of victory in his fight with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for control of the Standard Oil Company, of Indiana, Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board, returned here yesterday from New York.

"I am well pleased with the result of my trip to New York," he declared as he stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited. "I went there on business connected with the internal affairs of the company but I met many people with whom I discussed the annual meeting."

Question Mark Moves East on Funeral Trip

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Eastward-bound, on the second lap of her homeward flight to Washington, D. C., the Army's endurance plane, Question Mark, hopped off from the municipal airport here today for Midland, Tex. Refuelling ship No. 1 accompanied the Question Mark. The plane will discharge Capt. Ira Eaker at Midland from where he will proceed, 150 miles, to Eden, Tex., to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Y. Y. Eaker, who died yesterday.

HOOVER LEAVES FOR MONTH IN FLORIDA

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Herbert Hoover said farewell to the capital today.
Accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and a small personal party, the President-elect left for Miami Beach, Fla., at 10:37 o'clock on a special train on the Atlantic Coast Line.
Mr. Hoover did not arrive at the station until a few minutes after the scheduled departure of the train at 10:30. The departure was further delayed while Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood on the rear platform to be photographed.

DR. WORK GOES ALONG

It is a very small party that accompanies Mr. Hoover south. Besides Mrs. Hoover and her niece, Miss Janet Large, there is Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the National Committee, and Lawrence Richey, who has long been one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries.
Not many stops will be made en route to Florida, under present plans. He will reach Jacksonville tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and Miami at 2 p. m. The Hoovers will occupy the mansion of J. C. Penney, chain store operator, on Belle Isle, off Miami.

MONTH FOR REST

There the next month, Hoover will relax in Florida's sunshine, fish in tropical waters, begin work on his inauguaral speech, and complete the personnel of the cabinet which he will take into office with him on March 4.

Funds Low, Ohio Mine Workers Drop Officers

BELLAIRE, O., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The United Mine Workers of Ohio have suspended all their executive board members and the vice presidents of their six subdistricts because of the poor condition of their treasury, W. T. Roberts, secretary, has announced.
Roberts just returned from Columbus, where officials of the miners' organization met last week.
This action is an outgrowth of the new retrenchment policy of the organization, he said. A district executive committee was created to take over the duties of the vice presidents.

MISSIONARIES FROM U. S. IN QUAKE ZONE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(INS.)—In the stricken zone in Venezuela, hit by an earthquake last week, are four American missionaries of the Orinoco River mission at Cunana, American Charge d'Affaires Cornelius Engert at Caracas notified the State Department today.
The missionaries are believed to be the Rev. and Mrs. Lang, Miss Brown and Mr. Raplee, of the Bible House, Los Angeles, Cal. Engert advised the department that he has endeavored without success to communicate with them.
Latest reports, Engert said, place the deaths from the earthquake at only about 25. Injured are reported to be about 800, and nearly all buildings were destroyed. President Gomez has donated $100,000 to the relief fund raised by popular subscription.

Writer Who Killed Friend Found Dead

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Leonard Cline, novelist and short story writer, was found dead in his West Side apartment. A medical examiner said he had died of a heart attack.
Cline figured prominently in the news in 1927 when he pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in connection with the killing of his friend, Wilfred P. Irwin, on May 16 of that year. Cline was sentenced to one year in jail.

9,000-Mile Flight To China Planned

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Maj. Tien Lai Huang, 27, Chinese aviator and author, announced here today that he planned to return to his native country by flying across the Pacific from one of the California air fields. The proposed flight, he said, would not be a nonstop attempt, but landing would be made at Hawaii and the Midway Islands. He said the total distance would be about 9,000 miles.

"Pedestrian Crash" Kills Photographer

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. — (AP.) — A "speeding pedestrian" was blamed today for the death of A. W. Monfort, 70, a photographer who had won prizes at the Chicago World's Fair and the Paris International Exposition. Injuries received last October resulted in his death yesterday. Monfort was knocked down when bumped by a man in a hurry.

SUN-TELE BOYS "BEST DRESSED IN HOMESTEAD"

"Are you underpaid, or in any way ill-treated?"
Shouts of derision greeted the question when put to a gathering of Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph newsboys at the news agency of Mrs. Lillian M. Feath, 138 East Sixth avenue, Homestead.
Their happy laughter and cheerful faces furnished sufficient answer.
As they appear on Sunday morning, when they deliver the Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, these lads have the reputation of being "the best dressed boys in Homestead." Investigation of their earnings proved that this might easily be true.
About 100 Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph newsboys are served by the Feath Agency. The average pay per boy of those regularly employed is $400 a year. Some make as much as $35 or $40 a week. The lowest paid boy receives $1.25 a week, plus the regular profit on each paper sold. In addition, he is carried, free of charge, in an automobile every day, four miles to his post and back.
Here are the earnings of some of the boys questioned:

ALL WELL PAID

William Balonis, 13, of 1418 McClure street, averages about $9 a week, delivering papers after school. His brother, Anthony, 15, a freshman in the Homestead High School, makes from $15 to $20 a week.
Anthony received the prize of $10 offered by the Feath Agency to the boy having the biggest bank account last Christmas.
Edward Guydash, of Virginia avenue, Homeville, another high school boy, makes $14 a week.
Four of the older newsboys in Homestead, William Palmer, Andrew Bugan, Frank Lacko and Otto Mock, have bought automobiles. Bugan, who sells papers at the Homestead Steel Works gate, in addition has paid for his own home.

PAY OFF MORTGAGE

Four brothers, Stephen, Benjamin, William and Joseph Toboz, have paid off the mortgage on their home since they started selling papers.
Two others, Stephen and Paul Guzy, Fourth avenue and Lane street, in addition to buying their own clothes and helping with the household expenses, made a joint present to their mother of $1,000 earned in two years by selling papers.
The Feath Agency, which handles the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph alone, of the Pittsburgh evening and Sunday papers, has gained the good-will and loyalty of the boys by generous treatment.
The agency had two uniformed baseball teams and a football team.

PLENTY OF FUN, TOO

The boys have a boxing tournament every year and a picnic at Kennywood Park. All the boys were taken at Mrs. Feath's expense to the Penn State-Pitt football game last Thanksgiving Day. At Christmas, cash presents amounting to $300 were distributed among the youngsters.
The Feath Agency takes pride in the record of its boys. One of its former boys, John Palmer, a Negro, formerly of 1506 West street, Homestead, although only 21, is now assistant editor of a Negro magazine in Chicago. Many of the others have been equally successful.

Merchant Hurls Self 25 Stories to Death

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Financial reverses were blamed today for the spectacular suicide of William Burstein, 49, a local dry goods merchant. With the street below crowded with pedestrians, Burnstein late yesterday hurled himself from the twenty-fifth floor of the Barlum Tower. Burnstein leaped from the office of J. B. Beckenstein, an attorney, where he is said to have attempted to raise money on some real estate.

Hearing on Booth Injunction Today

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Court action on Gen. CHICAGO, Jan. 21. — (AP.) — Nearly 100 farmers, fighting Chicago milk distributors for higher prices, seized and dumped 6,500 pounds of milk from a train at McHenry, Ill., yesterday. A marshal and deputies who were summoned were booed by the farmers.

'Paul's Dead,' Tom Told, and Then He Yawns

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The electrocution of Paul Jaworski in Pennsylvania did not disturb the sleep of his brother Tom, in the county jail here.
At 8:30, deputy sheriffs and newspapermen went to the cellblock.
"Paul is dead, Tommy," said one of them. Tom awakened, stared blankly. He did not answer.
Not until deputies asked direct questions would he say anything about his brother.
"Oh, he wasn't my pal—ever. He was too old," was his laconic response to one question.
"Didn't you ever think his career would end the way it did?"
"Oh, yes, I expected it," he said.

CHICAGO DRIVE ON CRIME CUTS BANDITRY

By COPELAND C. BURG.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Chicago hung up a new record today.
Following one of the greatest drives against crimes in America's criminal annals, in which more than 3,300 alleged gangsters, hoodlums, gunmen, racketeers, bandits and thieves were arrested, a checkup revealed that no holdups or robberies of any kind occurred in all Chicago during a seven-hour period.
From midnight last night until 7 o'clock this morning Chicago was without a "bandit play," such as usually occurs almost hourly.
Police officials pointed to the period of inactivity by underworld characters as showing what would happen if Chicago, now undermanned with officers, had a police force large enough to patrol the city thoroughly.
In ugly contrast to today's peace record was last week's crime record of 102 robberies and four murders.
As the gigantic roundup of criminals was suspended, at least temporarily, police officials urged an immediate increase in the city's police force, asking 5,000 more policemen.
Police Commissioner William E. Russell said a check-up of the persons arrested showed that about 35 per cent of the prisoners have police records.
Poolrooms, gambling houses, cabarets, beer palaces and even "clubs" and theaters were among the places which yielded quotas in the police hoarding of criminals.

14 Trick Horses Burned to Death

IMPERIAL, Neb., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Aviator, the famous jumping horse, and 13 other trick and fancy horses owned by the Getzendaner Sisters, of Champion, Neb., perished here in a fire that destroyed a boxcar containing the animals.
The horses were being shipped to the West Coast, where Eleanor Getzendaner and her sister, Lois, planned to exhibit them.

PAUL JAWORSKI

JAWORSKI IS STOICAL AS HIS DEATH COMES

"Gentlemen, I declare Paul Jaworski dead."

FOUR MINUTES EACH

The prisoner record thus reports the executions:
Jaworski, first contact, 7:02 a. m.; dead, 7:06. James, first contact, 7:08; dead 7:14.
Jaworski refused the solace of a priest, but the prayers of Father Francis McCreesh were all the more fervent for the refusal. James died in the midst of a prayer by the prison chaplain, Rev. P. N. Osborne.
The body of James was claimed three hours later by his father, Albert D. James, of Wycombe, Pa. It was to be shipped later today to Wycombe for burial. At noon the body of Jaworski was still a public charge.

AS THEY FACED CHAIR

Jaworski held a stogie between his lips when the guards went to get him from his cell. As he passed along the corridor, it stayed there, dangling from his lax jaws. At the door of the death chamber a guard plucked the weed from his mouth. As Jaworski dropped back in the chair the glare of the huge light above it struck him. His lids closed over his glassy, shifting eyes, his lips moved, but no speech came. He was mute, broken, drab.
After a first unbelieving glance, young James raised himself erect. His blue eyes swept the gray walls, flitted over the silent watchers back there on the concrete bench, in the false twilight. His face was lit by the ghost of a smile, an awful mingling of fear and a sort of frenzied ecstacy.

NEITHER CRACKED

Neither cracked as he took his place in the chair, but so has it been with the 191 men who preceded them, their minds numbed, possibly, with the long wait.
Jaworski had slain six men, but he paid specifically for the murder of one—Isaiah L. Gump, a guard shot to death in the theft of a $47,000 payroll from the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at Mollenauer, December 24, 1925.
His crime and its punishment were all James had in common with Jaworski. Deputy Warden W. J. McFarland said James was "just a foolish kid." Jaworski was a deliberate, hardened criminal, who six times had murdered men for profit.
Before he died Jaworski admitted in a talk to Warden McFarland that crime had netted him nothing but unhappiness and suffering.
"It was hell—black hell."
That was what his life seemed to him as he turned and looked back upon it from the threshold of death. There had been no profit in it.
His last hours were spent writing the story of that life. He was unable to read or write English, so James was pressed into service as an amanuensis. Sentence by sentence Jaworski laboriously dictated the tale of his 39 years to James through the bars of their cells.
"Have you ever been happy, Paul?" asked the warden.
The wariness went out of those keen, shifty eyes. "I stayed out of the racket for a while," he said.
"I got married in 1921. My wife thought I was going straight. But you can't break away. The boys wouldn't let me alone. Somebody would come to me and say, 'We got the finger on a job. Come on in with us. I would go along.'

KILLED ROSS DENNIS

"When I'd come back with a lot of money, my wife would ask questions. I told her I was bootlegging. Another time I said it was all counterfeit. She was a good girl, and I don't blame her for quitting on me. A woman can't be happy with a guy in that racket. And she got wise to me after that Beadling job."
"That was when you killed Ross Dennis?" asked the Warden.
"Yes, I shot him. I was sorry for that one. We had him spotted for two months. Two of the boys hung around the bank in Beadling waiting for Dennis to come out. We thought he would walk down to the railroad to ride up to the mines on a caboose. But he started down the road on a motorcycle.
"When the boys saw him push off they got us, and we went around a side road and ambushed Dennis. One of the boys let him have it with a shotgun from the bushes. It knocked him off the motorcycle, but it didn't seem to hurt him much. He was trying to get up when I came up in back of him.
"I saw him reach for his hip pocket. I let him have it. When we looked him over there wasn't any gun on him. I was sorry for that one."

GOT PAYROLL

The gangsters obtained $23,000 in this holdup. It was a payroll fund of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation. That was on December 23, 1923. The slain man, Dennis, was a close friend of Warden McFarlane.
It was hard work for them both. Jaworski's life of banditry had not made him a fluent conversationalist. James, learning to sell automobiles and bootleg liquor, had not learned to be a scrivener.
With a stub of a pencil on prison paper Jaworski printed out a short farewell message to his wife and baby. He printed a letter to his sister, Mrs. Catherine Logan, and another to his youngest sister, Mary Pallas.
Prison officials came to him, and again they offered the services of a spiritual adviser. But Jaworski still did not wish such help in his last hours.
"It would not be right. I preached against religion from a soap box once. I have always believed in Atheism."
Before he had refused bluntly. Now he was explaining. Jaworski still was a hard, unhappy man, but he was softening.

ODDLY ASSORTED PAIR

While the oddly assorted pair, the tight-lipped, squat graduate in crime and the lanky "foolish kid," worked, Deputy Warden McFarlane looked on. Once Jaworski interrupted his task to explain to the Warden the highlights of his cry.
He told a lot, speaking more freely than he had at any time since his capture. His voice was flat and unemotional, but his speech was softer than you would expect from a man who says he moved in murderous ways, not for the thrill in a life of crime, but, well, here are his own words:
"I did it for the dough. I went after the big stuff. But you can't beat the racket.
"A lot of police I've run into were saps, but I guess I knew they would get me some day. I wanted them to get me right, no prison terms for mine. I'll take the chair.

AFRAID OF LIFE TERM

"That's why I never pulled a job in Michigan. I was afraid of that life law up there. I did not work on that Detroit News holdup. I had nothing to do with it. All my jobs were done in other states, mostly in Pennsylvania.
"I was always in and out of Detroit, but I never stayed away more than three days. That way it was easier to alibi."
The warden leaned forward to ask a question. Jaworski's eyes grew furtive, and his lips clamped in an ugly crooked line. But the warden's question was a generality.
"How many men were with you on that job, Paul?" the warden asked, referring to one of the many "Flathead Mob" holdups.
"There was four with me."
"Where are they now? Are any of them in jail?"
"No, there's none of the old crowd in jail but me. They never got any of the gang but me. But I don't know where the others are. Somewhere in the states, though."
"How about your brother, Sam? Wasn't he in the crowd? He helped you get out of jail in Allegheny County."
"Sam didn't get in on any of our jobs. He didn't know anything about that racket. When I wanted guns brought into the jail I just sent word to him and he brought them because he was my brother. But I made a mistake bringing him in on that."

DENIES WOMAN STORY

He did make a mistake. Sam is now serving a term of 25 years in prison for his part in that jail break last August, 1927, in which two guards were shot. Jaworski insisted that only he and Sam and John Vasbinder were in the car which bore them away from the jail. The story that a woman had held the wheel was not true, he said.
"There was nobody in the car when we got to it. We took Vasbinder along by accident. He was there and ready to go and I told him to come on and gave him a gun. He was just a dopey kid. We dropped him in Youngstown and I never seen him since."
Then another question.
"What have you done with all the money you got, Paul?"
The ugly, bluish lips curled in a smile of self-mockery.
"There ain't none. I never done myself no good," said Jaworski.
And with that admission of futility he summed himself up and turned back to his message.

MELLON DRY FUND STAND GETS METHODIST BACKING

25-MILLION ROW CAUSES NEW BREACH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The rift in the organized dry ranks over the proposed $25,000,000 prohibition increase became further emphasized today.

In a statement the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals declared that while more enforcement machinery is necessary it would be unwise to appropriate more money until an adequate system is provided for handling present prohibition cases in court. In this respect, the board, representing the Methodist Episcopal Church, supported the view of Secretary of Treasury Mellon, who opposed the appropriation.

Through Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Richmond, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, demanded the appropriation by Congress and criticised Mellon.

The statement today said that a study should be made of the whole field of law enforcement to determine the needs of the Department of Justice, coast guard and prohibition unit.

"Whatever appropriations are necessary for effective co-ordinated effort should eventually be made and no doubt will be made. Those sums, however, should cover only the legitimate activities of the federal government."

The board statement termed the "insincere proposal" of Senator Bruce, of Maryland, to appropriate $300,000,000 for prohibition enforcement a "publicity stunt in keeping with the fanatical record of that retiring Senator."

TROOPER RANKS TO BE FILLED TO LIMIT

By W. I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—The coal and iron police will come under the fire of the Fisher administration during this session of the Legislature.

Gov. John S. Fisher said today that he planned to ask an increase of the state police force from about 300 to 422 men, the number permitted by law, in order to eliminate need for coal and iron police in labor disputes.

STRIKE PROMPTS ACTION

The trouble arising from virtually unrestrained employment of coal and iron officers during the strike in bituminous coal fields of Western Pennsylvania led the Governor to this decision. In the course of that strike, he announced his intention of seeking legislation to curb employment of such police and his effort to have the state constabulary increased to the legal limit is regarded as his first move in that direction.

His attitude toward employment of coal and iron police is not new. During the coal strike it developed that the company with which Fisher had been connected for a quarter-century before becoming Governor never had employed a single coal and iron policeman.

FORCE INADEQUATE

It is employment of these untrained men in wholesale lots during labor disputes that the Governor seeks to stop.

In the past legislative appropriations to the state police have not permitted enlistment of the force to its full quota. The 300 men now on the force do not permit concentration of a large force in any district to guard against trouble without hampering work of the police in other sections of the state, it was said in the Governor's office.

CHILD BRIDES' BLISS SHORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Based on the marital experiences of 75 girls who obtained marriage licenses in New York before they were 16 in 1925 and 1926, the Women's City Club has issued a "study of child and youthful marriages in New York County."

Nine of the 75 never lived with their husbands at all, the report shows, and five of them returned immediately to the homes of their parents. Fifteen lived with their husbands two months or less, and 20 a year or less.

From reading their applications for the annulment of their marriages, compilers of the study said they were startled to learn how short a time most of the girls had known their prospective husbands.

"One had known her husband 'a few hours,' the report says, "two others one day, another two days, two more 'a few weeks,' and more than half in the group two months or less."

According to the report, only a minority of the child brides were foreign-born.

Smith Goes South; May Visit Hoover

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today was en route to Florida for his first vacation in 25 years. Accompanied by Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kenny, he left here in the Kenny private car yesterday. A crowd of more than 400 persons bade him goodby as his train pulled from the Pennsylvania Station. John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is to join the Smith party. They will be guests at the home of Carl Espy at Sarasota for several weeks and then will visit Miami. In that city Smith may visit Herbert Hoover, his successful rival in the recent presidential campaign.

Cuba Asks Sugar Treaty Revision

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Protesting that the reciprocal commercial treaty between the United States and Cuba works to the disadvantage of the latter, the Cuban government has proposed to the United States that the treaty be revised to allow free importation into this country of Cuban sugar up to an amount to be agreed upon by the two governments.

"No Time Off for Jury," Angers Judge

Employers who refuse time off to employes for jury duty were scored by Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court today.

In applying for excuse, Edgar D. Bonham, 5471 Kincaid street, clerk in the employ of the F. J. Kress Company, presented a letter from the vice president in which it was stated that Bonham was a new employe and that the job could not be held for him.

Judge Reid refused to excuse him.

"POCKET VETO" GETS TEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today granted a petition for review of the legality of a "pocket veto" by President Coolidge.

The petition for review was filed for the Okanogan and other Northwestern Indian tribes, after the Court of Claims dismissed their suit against the government on ground that the bill authorizing the suit never became a law.

The legality of the "pocket veto" assumed new importance when President Coolidge let the Norris-Morin bill for government operation of Muscle Shoal die by this method. Backers of the measure claim that it is law. The government did not oppose granting of a review.

Beaver Man Held in Capital as Fugitive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Leonard Hults, restaurant proprietor of Beaver, Pa., was held by capital police on the charge of being an escaped prisoner from the federal reformatory at Lorton, Va.

Taken to police headquarters officials contended that his identity was established as one Leonard Haller, who fled from the Lorton institution after serving only four months of a sentence for violation of the Mann act a few years ago.

Hults was accompanied by his wife, whom he married at Beaver last September, it was said. She returned to her home while her husband departed with police for the Federal reformatory.

PLANE CRASHES WITH AUTO

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Eight persons, escaped serious injury here yesterday in the collision, in a blinding snowstorm, of an airplane and an automobile on the National Old Trails highway.

Although the front of his automobile was smashed in by the landing gear of the ship, Frank Tice, of Baldwin Park, Cal., and his family of six were only bruised by the severe jolt. The aviator, Robert Crooks, crawled, also unhurt, from his plane.

Blinded by a snowstorm Crooks came down over the highway seeking a place to light. He was landing when suddenly the automobile appeared through the driving snow.

Crooks attempted to clear the car, but the propeller ripped away the radiator, a wing tilted and the plane swung around, clearing the car, and dived over into a ditch.

FORNEY, FREED, IN SECLUSION

Alfred W. Forney, alleged slot machine king, is free today after completing his term in county jail for his part in the North Side rum conspiracy, and paying a $3,000 fine.

It was expected that he would be released this morning and go before District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner to furnish bond for his appearance on the county's gambling charges which still stand against him, but the bond was quietly arranged Saturday and he left jail secretly early yesterday to avoid publicity.

He had completed five months of a six-month sentence imposed in Federal Court, when he pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges based on promises of protection to speakeasy proprietors. His sentence was cut one month because of good behavior.

Forney vanished on his release, and at his palatial Perrysville avenue home it was stated "he is not in." It is expected he will remain in hiding or at least out of the public eye until Saturday, when he will be given an opportunity to plead to the gambling charges for which he is under bond.

"KIDS," ARTIST SHOW HERE

Ad Carter, cartoonist, whose daily strip is familiar to the readers of the Sun-Telegraph, is in town this week with all his "Kids" of the comics—and they are here in person.

His advent in Pittsburgh means big times for children everywhere and those grown-up children who keep young by reading the pages of pictorial humor every day in the Sun-Telegraph.

Ad Carter and the "Kids" are at the Penn Theater this week where the cartoonist and his merry little people are the headliners in the bill. But between times and at off times they will step out of the comic page and off the theatrical stage and go to Pittsburgh hospitals to cheer the patients.

These little pilgrimages of mercy and good will begin tomorrow morning and will be continued through the week until all the institutions have been visited. The entertainments will be given under the sponsorship of the Sun-Telegraph in arrangement with the management of the Penn Theater.

Legislature Gets Budget Tonight

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21. — Gov. John S. Fisher will submit his budget to the Legislature tonight, one week earlier than anticipated. The chief interest here seems to lie in the manner in which the budget will take care of welfare institutions, State College armories, highways and forests, for which bond issues were asked at the November election and defeated.

N. KENSINGTON RAIDS NET 9

A large force of Federal prohibition agents Saturday swooped down upon a number of places in New Kensington where intoxicating liquors was alleged to have been sold. Nine persons were arrested.

Among places upon which search warrants were issued were the club rooms of the German Beneficial Association No. 24, 1141 Fourth avenue; the Polish National Alliance Club, 1101 Second street; a club at 724 Third avenue, a saloon at 1136 Fourth avenue and a building at 782 Second avenue.

Those arrested gave bond pending hearings before the United States commissioner.

WOMAN LIKES JAIL, ASKS AND GETS "MORE TIME"

Dorothy Connolly, alias Rose, Mary or Julia O'Brien, 60-year-old frequenter of the Allegheny County jail, pleaded for "more time" yesterday when told her sentence of five days was "up" and she was a free woman.

"Couldn't you get the judge to give me 60 days more," she pleaded with Warden John McNeill. "I like it here!"

Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, was told of the woman's plight. She has no home. Brandon reviewed the case and recalling that she had been sentenced for disorderly conduct, obligingly extended the sentence to 30 days.

She is happy and Warden McNeill is satisfied.

"She is a big help around here," he said. "She scrubs, sews and helps out with the work as though she were at home."

Man, 64, Falls Dead In Doctor's Office

George Zink, 64, of 1013 Cliff street, fell dead in the office of Dr W. H. Clark, at 2919 Chartiers avenue, last night, a report to the coroner says. Death was attributed to heart disease. It was Zink's first visit to the physician in three months.

Porter Trapped By "Camera-Eye" Of Sleuth

Deputy United States Marshal Edward A. Holden, "the man with the camera-eye," who rarely forgets a face, has put Fred Butler, a Negro, in jail.

Butler, in February of last year, pleaded guilty in Federal Court to violating the prohibition law and was fined $100. When he did not have the necessary sum the court allowed him until the following Monday to pay, but he neglected to return.

LEFT-TURN BAN TO BE ARGUED AT HEARING

Council will hold a hearing at 3 p. m. Wednesday on Safety Director James M. Clark's proposal to establish February 4, a 60-day trial period for the elimination of more than 40 left turns for traffic in the downtown district.

Notice of the hearing has been mailed to automobile clubs, department store owners, hauling contractors, the Pittsburgh Railways Company and civic organizations.

Left-turning vehicles intersect oncoming traffic and cause confusion and congestion where traffic usually is heaviest, according to a letter forwarded by Clark to Council.

SIX CONGESTED SPOTS

The proposed left turn prohibitions would affect six congested spots as follows: The triangle on Grant street across from the William Penn Hotel annex; Sixth avenue and Wylie avenue; Fifth avenue and Sixth avenue; Grant street and Second avenue; intersections of Liberty avenue by Ferry, Stanwix and Diamond streets, and the two short blocks on Liberty avenue between Fifth avenue and Oliver avenue.

Certain other left turns were not recommended for elimination because there was no reasonable alternate route or because they accommodate large volumes of out-of-town traffic.

Left turns to be considered for elimination are:

2-Day Liquor Hunt On Big Liner Fails

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Customs inspectors who made a two-day search of the French liner Rochambeau, announced last night that no liquor or contraband had been found, but that the cargo was to be held another 24 hours while the customs list and the ship's manifest were checked.

The search, which it was said is to be extended to other incoming vessels, was the outgrowth of the seizure on a French Line pier several days ago of 3,500 gallons of mash said to have been unloaded from the Ile de France.

TRAPPER GUARDS BODY OF MAIL FLIER IN WILDS

LA GRANDE, Ore., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Completing a 110-mile round trip journey in the Blue Mountains, a party of men with the body of Harold E. Buckner, Varney air mail pilot, reached La Grande last night from an isolated trapper's cabin, near where Buckner's plane crashed Thursday. The relief party found Buckner dead there, with both legs broken, yesterday. The trapper watched over the man while aid was sought by another mountaineer.

The relief party was forced to break a trail for the horses because of the depth of the snow, which often reached the horses' shoulders. The men rode and hauled Buckner's body on an improvised sled.

The mail and the airplane instruments were loaded on a mule, which became separated from the party. From Horse Ranch a man was sent to retrieve the animal.

Before his fatal accident, Buckner circled many times over the northeastern part of Union County, unable to get his bearings because of snow and fog. Finally his plane circled into the mountains and dived into a tree. The trappers who found him were the only persons within a radius of 15 miles.

WOMEN WORLD PEACEMAKERS, MALONE SAYS

The women of the United States have more power than diplomats and statesmen in outlawing war and enforcing world peace, President James F. Malone, of City Council, told members of the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, at the Pittsburgh observance of birthdays of Gens. Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, at a luncheon in the Hotel Roosevelt.

"They told us that women would not exercise their right of franchise," said Malone, "but they have had the vote only eight years and they are showing proportionately more intelligent interest than the men.

"If American women long ago had been granted the right of the ballot, it is doubtful if we today would be observing this anniversary because of differences of the North and South probably would have been adjusted without bloodshed.

"Women in politics means cleaner politics and honest elections. They are starting by enforcing their will for better government in their home communities, and with their power exerted there it is but multiplied to make the women's power a national power for good."

Washington County School Wins Honors

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 21.—T. C. Y. Ford, supervisor of agriculture in Trinity High School, maintained in this city by four adjoining townships, finished second in state-wide agricultural projects during the past year. Nine boys brought the honors to the local school and the board has voted to defray their expenses to the State Farm Product Show Tuesday at Harrisburg.

They are: John H. Nelan, gold medal in winners' class; James Nelan, gold medal in dairying; Floyd Morgan, bronze medal in fruit; Donald Gantz, bronze medal in sheep; Hervey Hazlett, bronze medal in bees; Donald Andrews, fourth ribbon in swine; Glenn Mannon, fifth ribbon in truck; Ellis Gray, eighth ribbon in sheep; Merle Craige, tenth in bees.

Harsh's Appeal May Go to Supreme Court

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—George Harsh's fight to escape the electric chair to which he was sentenced Saturday, may be carried to the State Supreme Court.

Attorneys of the youth, who was convicted of first degree murder for the shooting of Willard Smith, indicated an appeal for a new trial will be made before the judges who presided at the trial and that, if this move fails, the case may be carried to the Supreme Court.

States into the practices and processes of intrigue and war habitually pursued by European nations.

The purposes of the sentimentalists are undoubtedly good, but their methods are exactly the kind which involved this country in the late European war, and their policies and practices are exactly those which George Washington in his wisdom warned the people of this country to avoid.

But in addition to the impractical sentimentalists, who are innocently and ignorantly urging the United States into European complications, there are very practical and unsentimental forces which are impelling the nation in the same direction, and these forces are operating neither innocently nor ignorantly.

Chief among these other influences are the international bankers who make their fortunes out of the commissions they receive for obtaining benefits for foreign nations from the people or the government of the United States. Involving the United States in foreign complications is the stock in trade of these bankers because out of these complications come the loans and subsidies, the privileges and purchases from which the commissions of these bankers are derived. If this statement is considered in the least exaggerated, the attention of the reader is directed to the letters of President Wilson's Ambassador to England, Walter Hines Page, who relates in detail exactly how the House of Morgan received 10 per cent on all purchases made by England in this country during the World War, and how the total of these commissions amounted to $400,000,000.

It is not stated or intimated here that the international bankers promote war, but merely that they do promote the conditions and complications out of which war so often issues, and furthermore, that those complications are obviously not unprofitable to international bankers who are the agents of foreign powers.

It is obvious, too, in the light of the inside history of war finance which Mr. Page reveals, that it is the plain people who make the sacrifices in war and the high financiers who make the money.

The intervals between wars do not bring in so much money to the vaults of the international bankers, but still the very practical unsentimentalists of business have enough money on hand to finance expeditions of impractical sentimentalists, perennial busybodies and chronic and constitutional meddlers, and these expeditions descend on Washington in platoons and give our alert statesmen the excuse to do what the international banks want them to do; and to deserve the millions of dollars of campaign contributions which the international bankers so liberally bestow.

Of course, you sensible and patriotic American citizens have voted overwhelmingly against foreign entanglements in four consecutive presidential elections, and you have voted against the League of Nations and the more or less feeble imitations of the League of Nations, and you have voted against the World Court, and voted out of office nearly all the Senators who voted for the World Court.

You have done your duty, and everything would be all right and we would be safely free from possible entanglements in European wars if you only had something to say about your government. But you haven't. You have something to say about elections, of course, but between elections and the very practical and unsentimentalists of big business, the government is run by the impractical sentimentalists

ENGINEER HITS INTOLERANCE IN PULPIT

Religious orthodoxy and dogmatic intolerance of ministers were attacked from the pulpit of the East End Christian Church last night when L. D. Tracy, Pittsburgh mining engineer, delivered an address on "An Engineer's Religion." The address was in line with the policy of the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor, to encourage regious liberalism.

In his introduction, Tracy said that a psychologist probably could and would combat his ideas, that a student of philosophy might ridicule his methods of reasoning and that a theologian might call his beliefs pure heterodoxy and proclaim "my soul as irretrievably lost."

PLEADS FOR TOLERANCE

"As I see it, if a person can live a better and more useful life and leave the world better off for having lived in it, by believing in and following the teachings of Confucius or Buddha, I am sure that the Almighty will not be displeased. If by rites and ceremonies, or if by following the commands of long creeds and statements of beliefs he can better realize his duty to God and man, then, by all means, let him adhere to those practices. But, on the other hand, if I respect a man's views, although I cannot follow or agree with them, then I ask that he accord me the same sincerity of purpose and give me the same respect."

Assailing intolerant preachers, Tracy said:

"To me the greatest hypocrite in the world is the minister who, Sunday after Sunday, stands up in a pulpit preaching God's love and mercy, and then, during the week, uses all his influence to drive from the pulpit another good man who is beloved by his people, simply because he cannot view things through the same glasses."

SEES CONTRADICTION

Pointing out some of the existing theological differences over which preachers become intolerant, the engineer said that "some doctrines on which ministers lay great stress seem to me to contradict the teachings of Christ."

"For instance, all through the New Testament," he said, "we are told of the mercy, love and fatherhood of God. And then some crazy theologian comes along and insists that this so-called loving Father was so angry at his own handiwork that he demanded blood sacrifice in the shape of a young man who had never done anything but good. And preachers wonder why the young man of today is apparently indifferent to the church."

BUFFALO BILL'S RECORD DEFENDED BY GENERAL, 84

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Gen. Charles King hopes to silence for all time what he terms "mendacious and malicious" reports reflecting upon the courage and heroic acts of William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody.

The 84-year-old retired United States Army officer and a veteran of the Indian wars, under whom Buffalo Bill served as chief scout when King was a lieutenant of the Fifth Cavalry, plans to go to Washington January 26 to fulfill his mission, he told the Milwaukee Journal.

In an interview, Gen. King said he would appear before the Society of Veterans, Indian Wars of the United States, to make a record of his personal knowledge of the feats of Buffalo Bill. He was aroused, he said, by statements made in a book by Richard J. Walsh, which said "Buffalo Bill had few of the adventures invented for him later by press agents." It said there was "even doubt that he killed the young chief, Yellow Hand."

"I will present before the society such a defense of Cody that it will silence for all time the mendacious and malicious reports," Gen. King said.

"I saw Cody close in on Yellow Hand, saw him fire a shot which tore through the Indian's leg and pierced his pony's heart, bringing both man and beast to earth."

Latrobe High School Damaged by Blaze

LATROBE, Pa., Jan. 21.—The Latrobe High School building was damaged $2,000 by a fire of undetermined origin last night. The blaze originated in a waste paper chute, and was discovered by a boy passing the building. Despite the fire, the students resumed their classes this morning.

Lawrence County To Have "Road Of Memory"

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 21.—The Lawrence County Garden Club has perfected a plan by which it is expected to line the Wilmington-New Castle road with trees, which will be planted in the memory of persons prominent in the development of Lawrence County. It is to be designated as the "Road of Remembrance."

The "Eastern Sycamore" will be the tree used and it is planned to plant them 160 to the mile, 80 on each side.

Slayers of Couple Still at Liberty

RAVENNA, O., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Two men who walked into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gallo here Friday and shot them to death, today had evaded a dragnet thrown out for them.

Joseph Renatto, who was in the Gallo home at the time of the shooting, attributed the double killing to a bootleg feud. He narrowly missed being shot.

Two Taken in Raid At Washington, Pa.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 21.—Russell Martin, 28, of 76 West Spruce avenue, is being held following a raid on his "office" at 140 West Chestnut street. One five-gallon can of moonshine and 20 pints were reported found.

John Popeck, 44, of 1332 Allison avenue, also arrested, furnished bail.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO FLU

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately.

Here Are the Details Of the W. R. Hearst $25,000 PRIZE OFFER For the Best Plan to Achieve Temperance

THE HEARST newspapers in the United States today announce to their twenty million readers the conditions and rules under which a prize of $25,000 will be awarded by Mr. William Randolph Hearst for the best temperance plan offered as a substitute for national prohibition.

The offer was made by Mr. Hearst on January 2 of this year and has already been widely discussed. Here, for the first time, appears a definite and complete statement of the plan upon which the prohibition prize contest will be conducted, with all the information necessary to those who will enter the competition.

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by State and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for Prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than one thousand words.

3—This contest will close on August 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practicable temperance substitute for Prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the Temperance Contest Committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

IT WILL be noted in the announcement of this contest that the plan which is proposed as a substitute for prohibition is not limited to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The entire subject of Governmental dealing with the use of alcoholic beverages is left open to the contestant.

However, it is specifically set forth that a practicable plan is desired. This means that any visionary or impracticable solution of the problem is not likely to score high in the contest.

A practicable substitute for prohibition must deal necessarily with the facts and conditions existing in the United States today.

This is not a literary contest. It merely calls upon the citizens of a republic to exert their best thought upon one of the most important problems of national government before them. The plainest of citizens have often proved themselves the most astute statesmen.

The work of judging the enormous number of articles which will be submitted in a nation-wide contest for a prize of $25,000 promises to be tremendous. Purposely, however, no restrictions have been placed upon those entitled to be considered as contestants. Any person who reads and writes and thinks is qualified to enter.

The purpose of the contest is patriotic. It is not to set in motion merely a competition, but to secure for the public good a practicable plan that will prove of value in the development of better moral, social and political life in this country.

There must be, in the natural evolution of the human race and society, a better plan to advance temperance than that of prohibition, with its speakeasies, its poisons, its un-American espionage and its law defiance, even by those entrusted with the enforcement of the law.

The best and most practicable plan stated clearly in an article of one thousand words or less will be awarded the $25,000 offered by Mr. Hearst.

Mr. Hearst will not himself personally judge this contest. The decision will be in the hands of the committee to be announced at a later date.

The reason, however, for Mr. Hearst having offered this prize and the object that he had in mind in offering it are best expressed in his own words. His recent telegrams to Mr. Durant and Mr. Clapp, in which the proposal of the plan and the thoughts relating to it were first developed, are therefore herewith reproduced:

JANUARY 2, 1929

EDWIN J. CLAPP,
Care Durant Motors, Incorporated,
Room 2403, 250 West Fifty-seventh Street,
New York, N. Y.

We do not have to make the American people law-abiding. We only have to keep them law-abiding.

And the best way to keep them law-abiding is not to make laws which very large and reputable elements of the community consider unwise, unjust, un-American and in violation of their fundamental rights as free citizens.

I do not believe that prohibition ever will be or ever can be enforced, and I DO believe that, if a violent effort is made to enforce it during the next four years by the Republican Administration, the next President of the United States will be a Democrat.

Smith's candidacy proves nothing except that the people did not want SMITH.

Nor would the personal liberty issue have won in this campaign with any candidate.

But after four more years of snooping, spying, keyhole-peeping and interference with fundamental rights and liberties by fanatics and professional busybodies, the country will be ripe for a revolution against un-American conditions of this oppressive and offensive kind.

The opposition to prohibition is not merely by people who want to get drunk.

Prohibition is opposed by such temperance influences as the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church and the Hearst newspapers—I modestly put the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church first. The reason for this opposition is that prohibition is a failure as a temperance measure.

The more we try to enforce it, the greater failure it becomes as a temperance measure, because the only thing we can absolutely prevent traffic in is bulky drinkables like wines and beers; and these contain the least amount of alcohol, and are consequently the least harmful.

It never has been possible and never will be possible to prevent traffic in compact and concentrated alcoholic drinks; and even if the traffic could be interfered with, every man could make these in his own cellar if he should want to.

Furthermore, we must not make the mistake of thinking that the country is divided into two classes—drys who want to make the country bone-dry, and wets who want to make the country souse-wet.

There is an enormous middle class, which probably is a majority class, who believe in temperance and believe in personal liberty, and realize that temperance can be secured without prohibition, and never can be secured with prohibition.

These people do not want to be ruled by the liquor interests, nor, on the other hand, by the bone-dry fanatics.

Sooner or later they are going to assert themselves, and, personally, I think it will be sooner.

Prohibition has been repudiated by every country which has ever tried it, primarily because it did not accomplish the thing it was supposed to accomplish, and, secondarily, because it became such an unpopular measure that no government could stand up under it, not even firmly entrenched monarchical governments.

Therefore, I think that in offering a prize on how best to enforce prohibition, Mr. Durant is really offering a prize on how best to put the Republican Party out of power.

And I think Mr. Pinchot has actually won the prize, because his plan, being the most un-American and the most obnoxious, will make the Republican Party more unpopular than any other plan which has been proposed.

I did not mean to say in my previous telegram that education would get the Eighteenth Amendment obeyed.

I meant to say that education would promote a desire for temperance; but any sincere and intelligent desire for temperance will undoubtedly mean the repeal or material modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

I consider the Eighteenth Amendment not only the most flagrant violation of the basic American principle of personal liberty that has ever been imposed on the American public, but the most complete failure as a temperance measure that has ever been conceived and put into impracticable operation.

Therefore, I would like to offer, and hereby do offer, a prize of twenty-five thousand dollars for the best plan to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and substitute in place of prohibition a more liberal and more American measure, which will secure for the public more genuine temperance, with less offensive interference with the fundamental rights and personal liberties of the citizen.

William Randolph Hearst

Telegram From W. R. Hearst in Reply to W. C. Durant

JANUARY 3, 1929

W. C. Durant,
No. 250 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York:

My Dear Mr. Durant: I received your telegram and enjoyed it. We are not so far apart as might seem at first glance.

At least we are not far apart in some phases of the problem we are discussing. You are in favor of temperance; so am I.

I do not know how long you have been interested in the temperance movement, and how and to what extent you have crusaded for temperance.

Unless you might say the same thing about me, let me hurry to state that I have been a crusader in the temperance movement for something over forty years; and I have printed an enormous number of editorials and cartoons attacking the saloon and the dispensation of hard liquors.

That these editorials were at least considered effective propaganda may be indicated by the fact that many of the temperance organizations of the country asked leave to distribute them and did distribute many of them widely.

Therefore, I can assume, I think, that we are both equally sincerely interested in the cause of temperance; and the only difference between us is a difference of opinion as to what is the best means of promoting that cause.

You apparently believe that prohibition is an intelligent and practicable effort to promote temperance. I do not believe that it is.

Our objective being the same—temperance or even total abstinence—our difference is merely one of method.

I admit that I never did believe that prohibition would be effective as a temperance measure, for the reason that from the first it seemed inevitable, considering the character of our people, that a campaign of force would not be as effective as a campaign of education.

As I said in a previous telegram, paraphrasing a familiar quotation, you can lead the American people to water, but you cannot MAKE them drink it.

Furthermore, my fight had been chiefly against hard liquors, and it seemed to me from the first that it would be easier for the law-defying element to deal illicitly in hard liquor than in the milder and bulkier form of alcoholic drinkables.

This opinion seems to have been borne out by the facts; and I think it can be truthfully said today that any man who wants a drink can get one; and about the only difference between the present conditions and the condition preceding prohibition is that a man who wants a mild drink is compelled to take a strong one; and a man who wants a good drink is compelled to take a bad one.

It is true that saloons have been closed, but saloons were being closed before prohibition was enacted, being closed through the education of the public, through a high rate of excise taxation, through local option and through direct legislation.

Since prohibition, for every saloon that has been closed there is either a still or a speakeasy or a bootlegger supplying the most vicious and injurious kind of liquor that it is possible to concoct or conceive of.

You ask is anybody in favor of the bootlegger and the speakeasy? The obvious answer is—

No, nobody is, except possibly the bootlegger and the proprietor of the speakeasy.

Some of the public are sincere enough and clear-thinking enough, however, to be opposed not only to the bootlegger and the speakeasy, but to the condition which creates the bootlegger and the speakeasy.

You ask if anyone is opposed to the Constitution and the law?

Nobody except the criminal class.

But some of the public are sufficiently intelligent to realize that, when supporting the Constitution as a whole, they are also supporting that clause of the Constitution which permits the modification by amendment of that document's provisions; and that it is just as much within the rights and liberties of the people to take prohibition out of the Constitution as it was within their rights and liberties to put it in in order to see how it would operate.

You intimate that prohibition has not been given a sufficient trial or a sufficiently fair trial.

It has been tried for ten years.

And I think the facts will justify the statement that there are more bootleggers today than there ever have been during the past ten years of trial;

And that there are more speakeasies today than there ever have been during those ten years;

And that there is more hard liquor and bad liquor being distributed today than there ever has been during those ten years;

And that there are more criminals being created today by the liquor traffic than there ever has been during those ten years;

And that those criminals brought up and educated in law defiance by the liquor traffic, have become defiant of all other laws and added menaces to society in many other fields of dishonest endeavor.

PROHIBITION HAS FINANCED THE UNDERWORLD.

There is no use preaching, as we all do, that "crime does not pay," when it so obviously does pay—and pays big enough dividends to provide for the creation and employment of gangs of gunmen and thugs and murderers and bootleggers and hi-jackers, many of whom have become rich and consequently almost respectable; and all of whom are as earnestly, if not as conscientiously, in favor of prohibition as you, sir, or any other of that measure's honest advocates.

You say that those who are in favor of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment are willing to admit defeat.

Not at all.

They are only willing to admit FACTS, and to call for a more intelligent and more successful plan which will lead them more surely to VICTORY.

You imply that the Republican party has just won its unprecedented political victory on the prohibition issue, and that the principal appeal of the Democratic candidate was his promise to use his high office to urge a relaxation of the liquor laws.

The Republican party no more won a victory on the prohibition issue than the Prohibition party ever won a victory on the prohibition issue.

My contention is, and was, during the whole campaign, in which I supported Mr. Hoover, that the liquor issue was not an issue at all in a Federal campaign, and that the President could do nothing to relax the liquor laws, and that Mr. Smith was making a false appeal which no intelligent voter should pay any attention to.

Charles Evans Hughes, formerly Supreme Court Justice of the United States, and fairly familiar with the laws of the land and the legitimate issues of the campaign, took the same view.

There were GENUINE issues in the last campaign—such as the maintenance of the high degree of prosperity which had prevailed under a Republican Administration—and the voters had sense enough to recognize them.

You say that out of ninety-six members of the Senate eighty are dry and that out of four hundred and thirty-five members of the House three hundred and twenty-nine are dry.

I would like to say, if it is not disrespectful, that many of them are dry intermittently as it were, on the installment plan, and that their highest point of desiccation is reached during or immediately preceding a political campaign.

However, that has only an indirect application to the merits of prohibition as a temperance measure.

I am against prohibition for the same reasons that the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church stated that they were opposed to prohibition—because it has set the cause of temperance back twenty years;

Because it has substituted an ineffective campaign of force for an effective campaign of education;

Because it has replaced comparatively uninjurious light wines and beers with the worst kind of hard liquor and bad liquor;

Because it has increased drinking not only among men, but has extended drinking to women and even to children;

Because the most nearly universal Christmas presents displayed in the shops, the department stores, the drug stores, and practically in every emporium, during this Christmas season of good will to mankind, were the hip-flasks and cocktail shakers.

I am opposed to prohibition because it has created more and more skilful and more highly remunerated and more dangerous criminals;

And because it has corrupted our forces of law-enforcement, and to a certain degree even our judges;

And because it has made pretenders and falsifiers out of so many of our public officials.

I am opposed to prohibition because it has instituted in the Government un-American methods of spying and sneaking and snooping and keyhole-peeping.

And because prohibition fanatics, not content with that, are trying to have the Government go farther and institute a secret police system, and a system of repression and oppression almost equal to that which wrought the ruin of the Russian Government.

What has become of our cherished American freedom of action, our boasted American personal liberty?

All that we held dear in our political system, as well as our individual independence, has been sacrificed to a fetish.

Any sacrifice might be justified to further a great cause; but prohibition has not furthered the cause.

It has hindered the cause.

It has created intolerable criminal conditions and intolerable political conditions.

And it has done nothing after ten years' trial to advance the cause of temperance, in which you and I are both sincerely and deeply interested.

Therefore, I think the time has come to call for another plan, a better plan, a more practicable plan, which WILL advance the cause of temperance, and will not merely promote crime, discredit law, demoralize the citizenship and prostitute the public service.

ARTHUR W. THOMPSON

A.W. THOMPSON, ILL, QUITS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Announcement was made last night that Arthur W. Thompson had presented his resignation as president of the United Gas Improvement Company. Ill health was given as the cause.

Mr. Thompson recently took an extended leave of absence. At the time it was said he was in poor health, but that he had no intention of relinquishing the presidency. Numerous reports since then that he had been asked to retire have been emphatically denied by officials of the company. Mr. Thompson sailed from New York yesterday on a two months' cruise of the Mediterranean.

The United Gas Improvement Company operates gas and electric plants in many states. Mr. Thompson was elected president in July, 1926, coming here from Pittsburgh, where he had been head of the Philadelphia Company.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury, was credited in financial circles with having been instrumental in the election of Mr. Thompson as president of the U. G. I.

ILL-TEMPER MASKS BEAUTY

Rouge and powder useless when stomach misbehaves

The sweetest of dispositions cannot stand the strain of continual stomach distress. Nerves are drawn taut, smiles give way to frowns and beauty disappears. Nor is that all. Skin blemishes and pimples are a common cause of a disordered digestion.

Mild and gentle is the stimulation provided by Triner's Bitter Wine. It warms the stomach, whets the appetite, and encourages the flow of gastric juices upon which good digestion depends. Potatoes and other starchy foods yield quickly. Stop using habit-forming pills and physics and try this delightful laxative tonic—a blend of California wine, cascara and valuable herbs. Your druggist has it—75c and $1.25.

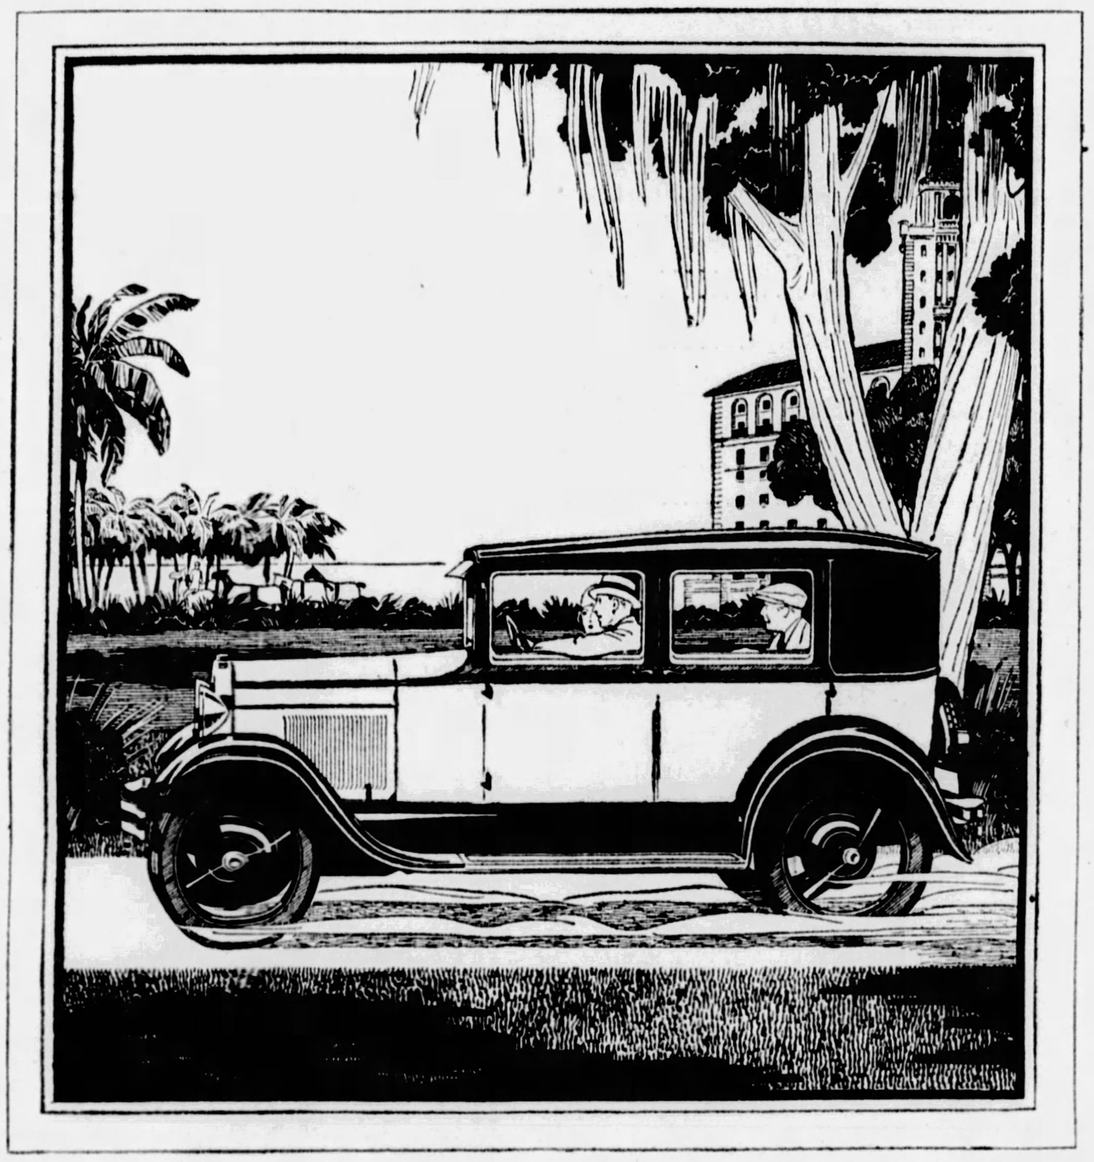
BEAUTY AND UTILITY ARE COMBINED IN THE NEW FORD



The new Fordor Sedan is impressively smart yet sturdy and substantial. An unusually comfortable car because of its wide, deeply cushioned seats, generous room between front and rear seats, transverse springs and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. Finished in a choice of beautiful two-tone color harmonies.

WHEN you see the new Ford, you are impressed instantly by its trim, graceful lines and air of sturdy strength. Its very appearance is a reflection of the alert, capable performance of the car. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing.

A particularly interesting feature of the new Ford is the way beauty has been combined with utility. This is found in the length, width and height of the body, the size and shape of the radiator, the position of the gasoline tank in the cowl, the outward flow of the body, the design of the welded steel spoke wheels, the shape and position of the full nickeled headlamps, the sweep and curve of the heavy full crown fenders.

Everything has been planned for service

When a thing perfectly fits its uses, it is pleasing to the eye. Every part of the new Ford has been designed and built not only to be attractive, but with a very definite thought of the work it has to do.

Even in the very little things you can see evidence of quality of material, careful workmanship and quiet good taste. The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing.

Attractive colors add to beauty of the new Ford

The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, selected for its enduring qualities. It is not affected by heat or cold, is not easily marred or scratched, and polishes to a beautiful luster. Once a month at least your car should be washed and polished.

The beauty of the Ford is not of the outside only, but extends deep down into every part—even to those hidden parts which you may never see. In the eyes of the engineer and technical man, the mechanical beauty of the new Ford is one of its greatest features.

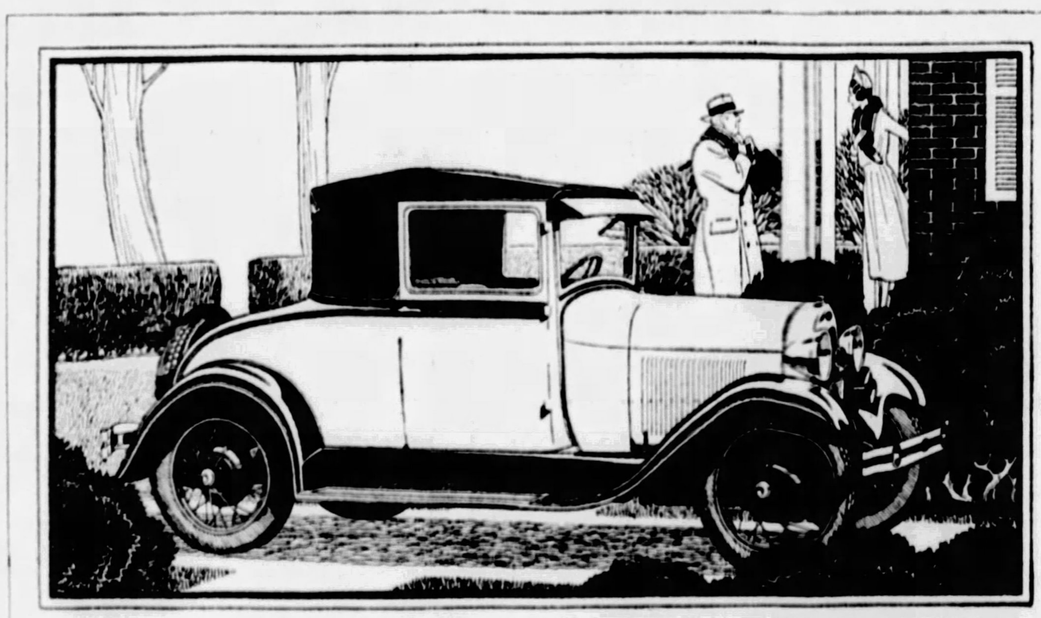
The practical beauty of a fine machine

There is beauty, for instance, in the fine steel forgings which are used everywhere in the chassis of the new Ford where there is a possibility of wear—in the manner in which electric welding has been developed to give increased strength without increased weight—in the simplicity of the cooling, lubrication, ignition, and fuel systems—in the extensive use of ball and roller bearings—in the simple operation of the fully enclosed six-brake system—in the close limits of accuracy maintained in the manufacture of important parts—in the way the engine develops its speed, acceleration and power without sacrificing reliability or economy.

To the man who drives his automobile many thousands of miles every year and who looks to it for continuous service at low cost, this mechanical beauty is of more importance even than beauty of line and finish.

For it is a reflection of simplicity of design, quality of materials and careful workmanship, which are the three fundamental factors in motor car performance.

There is indeed no greater tribute to the value of the new Ford than the simple, homely phrase which you hear so often from Ford owners, experienced garage mechanics and all who know and understand the workings of an automobile—"It is a sweet mechanical job."



The new Ford Business Coupe has been especially designed for professional men, executives, salesmen—for all who use an automobile constantly for business use. Handy package space behind seat and unusually large rear deck are welcome features.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

CREAMED CHICKEN

By LILLIACE M. MITCHELL

AUNT ELMIRA was as old-fashioned as her name. Oh, she tried to be up to the moment. She tried to look at everyone with the coolly indifferent expression which her great-niece Bab used. But the effort was a total failure. And on one point she never even tried to be up-to-date. She always urged Bab to bring home her boy friends.

"But they don't do that any more, Auntie," wailed the up-to-the-minute Bab. "Oh, this new one—I'm absolutely crazy about him, but he—why, I'd not dare to ask him to come to my house! He'd laugh in my face."

"And why?" demanded Aunt Elmira bristling. "This house is perfectly good, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes, only—only this fellow's a—a—you know—he's got lots of class. I've only met him three times and he doesn't even know my first name, but he's—oh, Auntie, he's wonderful.

Aunt Elmira sniffed. "Girls wasn't so bold in my day," she said acidly. "And what's so wonderful about him, eh?"

"Well, everything," said Bab dreamily. "For one thing he wears white shoes every day. He must golf every afternoon, I guess. White shoes and white trousers."

"Hah!" snorted Aunt Elmira. "Well, there's no accountin' fer tastes! That's sure! My Tobias, now, I shouldn't have cared if he wore white pants or green ones or—" she hesitated. "You take the bull by the horns and ask this young fellow up for Sunday night. I'll have creamed chicken and biscuits and some home-made ice cream and if between us we can't fetch him to his senses, it can't be did, that's all. Swell or no swell!" she added as an afterthought.

Bab was so unaccustomedly shy with this broad-shouldered Vick Tracy of the white shoes and trousers that she could scarcely raise her voice above a whisper or meet his black eyes with her wide ones. She felt that it was futile to ask him to her home for, wearing white trousers every day of his life, he must be wealthy? Even the university boys only wore white on occasions and they were comfortably fixed in worldly goods. But Aunt Elmira hadn't brought up Bab for nothing. She had always insisted upon obedience to the very last letter. If she went home and admitted that she hadn't suggested Vick Tracy's coming on Sunday night there would be a lengthy talk, indeed. And how silly it seemed to ask a man whom one had met so few times to come to the house! A cosmopolitan sort, too, like this Vick Tracy. It simply wasn't done! It would be better to let Maude Hansen have him. Maude had been after him tooth and nail, trying to extract some kind of date but he wasn't an easily-dated sort of chap—even for the experienced Maude.

Then when she saw him in the cafeteria at noon she stuttered out the invitation as they paid their checks at the desk.

"Did you say your Aunt Elmira?" he asked her gravely.

She nodded.

A smile glimmered over his features and for a moment an unreasoning anger smote her. How dared he—anyone—smile at the old-fashioned name!

"You tell her I'll be there," he directed. "I have an Aunt Elmira myself. She makes peach ice cream," he said baldly.

"We'll have ice cream—but I can't promise what kind," laughed Babs.

Was the day sunnier and the sky bluer than it had been? What was it made her feet dance along to the store at 1 o'clock?

That night she listened to her aunt's recital of the trip downtown when she and her niece Hannah had taken the four children to the hair-cutting department of the department store.

"Oh, it's a fine haircutting place, my dear," Aunt Elmira told her. "They sit on horses and bears and tigers and a regular circus show passes in front of their eyes as the man cuts them. In my day it was a bowl over the head and thescissors snip, snip, snipping around the edge of the bowl! Yessir! That's the way they used to do. But now it costs 50 cents a cut, if you please, and the young fellows are all dressed up fancy in blue smocks. Yessir!"

Bab hardly heard a word. He was coming! He was actually coming Sunday night.

Aunt Elmira was still finishing the frosting of the cake when Vick Tracy arrived and so it was not until supper was on the table that she met him. Bab had felt so shy that she had been almost mute. Ah, wasn't he wonderful looking! But he didn't seem to strike Aunt Elmira between the eyes at all. She looked at him sharply, pulling her gold-rimmed glasses down from her forehead to inspect him with care.

"Well, you look like a tol'able nice young fellow," she said at last. "Was that just a stall about your having an Aunt Elmira? Or—"

"Oh, I have an Aunt Elmira, all right," he said cheerfully. "Lives in Akron, O."

Bab started. How could Aunt Elmira have confused this wonderful person with a barber?

"Didn't know whether you'd remember me or not," he said. "Rules are we must never speak to a customer unless the customer speaks first. I remembered you right off. Yes, I'm going to open up a shop of my own next autumn. I thought some of opening in a small town some place."

Aunt Elmira nodded thoughtfully: "That'll be nice," she murmured. "I'm sick and tired of the rush and bustle of the city."

Bab and Vick Tracy exchanged glances. Evidently Aunt Elmira was planning far, far ahead!

"So that explains the white shoes!" Bab was thinking.

"I like gardens," said Aunt Elmira.

"Won't Bab look pretty in a pink house dress," Vick thought.

The creamed chicken had to be warmed over a few moments later, It had grown cold with waiting.

MUSIC

YOST STRING QUARTET

Schenley Ballroom

PROGRAM.

Quartet, Op. 54, No. 1 ..... Haydn
Allegro con brio
Allegretto
Menuetto
Presto

"Dr. Gradus ad Parnassum" ..... Debussy
"Serenade a une Poupee" ..... Debussy
Prelude in G major ..... Rachmaninoff
March from "L'amour des Trot Oranges" ..... Prokofieff
Pescha Kagan.
Piano quartet, Op. 26 ..... Brahms
Poco Adagio
Poco Allegro
Finale—Allegro

The Yost String Quartet gave another matinee in the Schenley ballroom yesterday afternoon before the largest audience in its history. The entire affair was noteworthy for its enthusiasm and the reverent spirit shown towards fine music. It was as genteel a gathering of music lovers as ever got together of an afternoon.

The program itself had much to do with the success of the concert. There was a lucid Haydn quartet, as breezy and gay as the out-of-doors, a group of piano numbers that piqued our curiosity with their modern wit and a massive Brahms piano quartet that fairly swept the listeners along in its net of melody.

The occasion introduced to Pittsburgh Pescha Kagan, a very talented pianist. We hesitate to judge her entirely by the miniatures which she offered as well as the ensemble number, and wish there might have been some real piano classics to do her justice. There is in all she plays a real masculinity of power and rhythm, a beautiful singing tone, and fine breadth of conception. For Debussy a more subtle flavor is desirable, for the Russian Prokofieff, the smell of the circus. But it was red-blooded Brahms. A tendency to overshadow with tone soon left the piano part, and all players pulled together as we never before have heard them. Everyone would like to hear this foursome again.

With Stars of Mimic World in Hollywood and Pittsburgh Theaters

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 21.

NORMA SHEARER has completed her first talking picture. It is Metro's screen version of "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Plans are already under way for Norma's next one. It will be "A Free Soul," adapted for the screen by Adela Rogers St. John. This, too, is to contain a hundred per cent sound and dialogue feature. No supporting cast has been selected.

Willard Mack, talented Broadway actor-producer-playwright, has been definitely selected to direct the picture. Mack has had great experience in the theater and no little success in the realm of pictures. With such story, director, player combination it looks like Metro is assured of another big hit.

Anita Page.

Director Sam Wood has sent out an S. O. S. for a girl like Anita Page and two boys like "Buddy" Rogers and Johnny Mack Brown. If they are discovered they will get the leading roles in "College Days," which is the new title of his varsity photoplay. So there may be a few new stars on the Metro lot in the near future.

Fire Threatens Movie Studio

THE half million dollar fire at the Paramount studios wasn't so disastrous as it seemed. The loss is fully covered by insurance, and there will be no delay in production. Jesse L. Lasky says that there are 10 sound stages available for immediate use, that none of the recording equipment was damaged, that no negative or film was destroyed, and that there is nothing to keep Paramount from delivering its goods on schedule. Mr. Lasky also says he was deeply touched by calls from players and directors offering to work nights in order to catch up. This, however, will not be necessary.

Clara Bow is not the only star experiencing difficulties in working in talking pictures. Work on Mary Pickford's photodrama, "Coquette," is reported to have been held up for days because of the nerve strain experienced by the star. It is said that two physicians have been in constant attendance. It is only natural that Mary should be nervous in her first talkie. For she has much at stake. However, the dialogue sequences were completed last night. So here's hoping Our Mary came through with flying colors.

Marian Nixon In "Headlines"

MARIAN NIXON has been engaged by Warner Brothers to play the feminine lead in a newspaper story which will be Vitaphoned under the title "Headlines." Marian has been having some wonderful successes since she quit the security of a pay envelope and began a free lance career.

Marian Nixon.

Again the rumor arises that Jean Hersholt is about to move from Universal over to United Artists. Jean was all set to go a few months back, but the Laemmle outfit exercised its option at the last minute and thus secured Jean's services. He now seems determined to purchase his contract and plunge into the new affiliation. Not only does the rumor tell of Jean's impending departure from the "U" lot, but it includes Mary Philbin, who is said to have come to the conclusion that she can do better elsewhere. These differences arise now and again at all studios and are generally straightened out. But in the Hersholt instance it looks as though the break may really come.

SMILING THROUGH :-: WITH FOLKS :-: OF MOVIELAND

Mme. Baclanova helps George Bancroft in "The Wolf of Wall Street."

Film Script Girl Now Star in Talkies

Alice White is to be a full-fledged star this year in First National studios.

A new contract with Miss White has just been signed, which insures her starring in four First National-Vitaphone pictures during the coming year. All will be singing, dancing and talking pictures, with a musical comedy flavor.

Miss White, exponent of flaming youth, has progressed rapidly during the two years she has been in motion pictures. She was a script girl two years ago, and got her first contract with First National as the result of a screen test, before she had acted for a picture.

Joan Bennett Now on Screen

THE youngest of Richard Bennett's brilliant daughters has been signed to a United Artists contract. Her name is Joan. Constance and Barbara, her sisters, have each gained fame in films and theater. Joan for her first role will have the leading feminene role in "Bulldog Drummond," opposite Ronald Colman. At present she is on her way West, having just completed a season as the girl in Jim Tully's stage play, "Jarnegan." It will be an all talking picture. Thus far, Joan, Lilyan Tashman and Montague Love have been definitely cast.

Negotiations are ending which will take Marie Prevost across the pond to Merrie England, where she will make a British International photoplay to be directed by A. E. Dupont, the man who made "Variety." Marie doesn't seem a bit averse to a British engagement, and British International is willing enough. So the papers may soon be signed. Marie plans to stay over awhile and tour the Continent between shots, so to speak.

Marie Prevost.

Lars Hansen, the man who never came back to Hollywood, although he won exceptional success during his brief film career, is playing a Swedish version of Eugene O'Neil's "Strange Interlude" in Stockholm. He is a great favorite there. The play is billed as "Sallesempt Mellsnspel," which looks like alphabet soup when it gets in print.

STAGE BILLS, NEW AND COMING

Vaudeville in the Davis this week has Trixie Friganza in "My Bag O' Tricks" as the headline act of the two-a-day shows. Jimmy Savo and Joan Franza in "Slow Motion" also are featured in the bill.

In the Alvin tonight "The Desert Song," musical play, will begin its farewell engagement in Pittsburgh with a benefit performance for the Dormont New Century Club. Alexander Gray, Bernard Granville and Bernice Claire head the cast. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

GUILD PLAY IN BILLS

"Porgy," fifth production of the first Pittsburgh subscription season of the New York Theater Guild Company, will be presented in the Nixon tonight and the balance of the week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. "Porgy" is a drama of Negro life by DuBoise and Dorothy Heyward.

Tonight in the Pitt Thurston, magician, enters the third and final week of his engagement at that playhouse. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

DENNIS KING STARRED

Florenz Ziegfeld's musical version of "The Three Musketeers," with Dennis King in the starred role, will be the attraction at the Nixon the week beginning Monday evening, January 28. For exactly 46 weeks "The Three Musketeers" played in the Lyric Theater, New York.

George White is sending "Manhattan Mary" back to play a return engagement in the Shubert Alvin Theater next week, with Ed Wynn as its star comedian. Doree Leslie, Margaret Ball, Nick Long, Jr., George Mayo, George Goff and the Webb sisters are a few of those who appar with Wynn.

Gilbert's Heroine May Be Miss Valli

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Virginia Valli is the probable selection as Jack Gilbert's heroine when our John stars in "Redemption," scheduled as his next drama. John is the white-haired boy again on the Metro lot. During the dark days when it looked as though he might spread his wings for a flight to United Artists he wasn't so hot.

Starring Contract For Jack Mulhall

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Following his present picture, Jack Mulhall will be made a full-fledged star. He has signed a new three-year contract with Warner-First National to this effect. It calls for a total of 10 starring vehicles to be made by him during the time of the contract.

Banky, Pickford In All-Talking Film Plays

Five all-talking pictures, three of them already in production, are scheduled for United Artists release during 1928. They are Mary Pickford's "Coquette," Roland West's "Nightstick," Herbert Brenon's "Lummox," Ronald Colman's "Bulldog Drummond" and Vilma Banky's "Childs, Fifth Avenue."

In addition, six part-talking films, four of them now in production, have been announced. These are Douglas Fairbanks' "The Iron Mask," Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights," D. W. Griffith's "Lady of the Pavements," Gloria Swanson's "Queen Kelly," Henry King's "She Goes to War" and Harry Richman's "Say It With Music."

CARNEGIE TECH MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS ON RADIO

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

PROGRAMS of exceptional merit will be offered Pittsburgh listeners tonight.

Of particular interest locally will be the Carnegie Students' Radio Hour from KDKA at 10 o'clock, featuring the Carnegie Tech Bagpipe Band, Students' Symphony, vocalists, men's and girls' glee clubs and a talk by Howard Harpster, captain of the 1928 football team and All-America quarterback. Clarence Overend will extend greetings to alumni of the school who are holding their annual "Clan" meetings in other cities throughout the states and in Great Britain. For this reason KDKA will use both its regular wave and experimental short wave which will permit broadcasting stations in other parts of the world to pick up and broadcast the program.

STAGE STAR WITH ROXY

Ethel Louise Wright, who starred as the leading lady in "Rose Marie" and "The Desert Song," will appear for the first time before a studio microphone at 7:30 o'clock when she makes her debut with Roxy's Gang.

At 8:30 p. m. the Duo Discs offer a piano novelty, "Japanese Sandman," in addition to "I Slap Ze Face" and "Venetian Nights."

"Toboggan" will be played by a Mandolin Ensemble on the Neapolitan Nights concert, 9 o'clock.

Those "Real Folks" will have a grand time tonight with an ice carnival on the old mill pond. A fast and furious hockey game will be played. Other sidelights will include skating exhibitions and music by the Firemen's Band. KDKA at 9:30.

Weede Myer's Orchestra, composed of college boys from the leading universities, will open a three week engagement at the William Penn Hotel with a 10:31 broadcast through KDKA.

THREE SOLOS BY BAUR

Franklyn Baur has become so popular on the "Voice of Firestone" program, over WCAE at 8 o'clock, that arrangements have been made to have him sing three solos instead of two. Tonight he will be heard in "Because," "I Loved You Then as I Love You Now" and "Do You Know My Garden."

As a request number the Gypsies offer Berger's "Valse Triste" at 8:30 p. m. and a special arrangement of Debussy's "Claire de Lune." Liszt's "Liebestraum" will be another number.

Headline acts at the Davis Theater will be offered at 11 o'clock. This will be a regular Monday night feature from WCAE.

The Silver Masked Tenor and the Silvertown Orchestra will be heard over WJAS twice daily from the Automobile Show, at 2:30 in the afternoon and 8 at night.

BURLESQUE BY BURBIG

Henry Burbig, comedian, will give a burlesque on "The Shooting of Dan Mcgrew" as a part of the Ceco Couriers' program at 8:30 p. m. Mary and Bob will appear at 9 o'clock and the United Light Opera Company will present "Daughter of Madame Angot" at 10:02 p. m.

"It never rains but it pours," so we have a galaxy of stars on programs from stations outside Pittsburgh tonight.

Norman Brokenshire, who is well known to Pittsburgh fans through numerous appearances at WEAF, particularly his description of the Lindbergh reception at Washington, has moved his trunk and baggage to Philadelphia and beginning tonight will be heard from WCAU. Brokenshire is one of the best known announcers in the United States. He has been teamed with Graham McNamee and Phillips Carlin on many occasions.

McNUTT BANQUET

The reception for Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, will be broadcast by WBZ at 9 o'clock from the Hotel Kimball, Boston.

"The Eligible Mr. Bangs," a one-act play, will be broadcast from WABC at 10 o'clock by the WABC Stock Company, composed of stage stars of New York City.

And the Brahms Quartet, which has been making popular gains with listeners, will be heard in "Mah Lindy Lou" and other selections from WGY at 6:30 o'clock.

To bring a glorious radio evening to a fitting climax the National Grand Opera Company will present Bizet's "Carmen" over WEAF at 11 o'clock, vieing with another Slumber Music program at the same hour from WJZ. "Chanson Triste" by Tschaikowsky, and Grieg's "Mit Einer Primula Veris," both lovely, will feature the Slumber Music.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

MOTHER, DAD'S SAXOPHONE WON'T BOTHER US ANY MORE. I THREW IT OUT AND A TRUCK RAN OVER IT!
I'M GLAD BECAUSE I WAS A WRECK!
WHAT ON EARTH IS THAT?
SOUNDS LIKE A LOST SOUL!
BAGPIPES!
DADDY! WHAT IS ALL THIS?
I DECIDED TO GIVE UP THE SAXOPHONE, YOU OBJECTED SO. BUT I THINK THE BAGPIPES GIVE ME A WIDER SCOPE! DONT YOU!

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-TWIT, no legs! I mean I'm PRACticably ready to go MAD and BITE myself at this point because it's ACtually too obNOXious the way things turn OUT, do you know what I mean? F'r instance, I'm too dePRESSED because the other day I conceived this SCINtillating idea of making aWAY with this poinsonous SAXaphone of DAD'S which has been driving I and MOTHer to disTRACtion because I mean Dad's been TOOTing on the darned thing asSIDuously ever since he had his first LESson from that .NAUseous little SAXaphone player he inSISted on bringing HOME with us from the PARty last week—can you COPE with it? So, my dear, I SEIZED upon this foul instrument of torture in a MOment of FRENzy and HURLED it GLIBly into the STREET, whereupon this great TRUCK ran over it, reducing it to a PULP, and then I conFIded to MOTHer about this deed I'd perpetrated and she was simply THRILLED, my dear, but I mean we'd no SOONer begun to conGRATulate ourselves on the PEACE and QUIet situation when we SUDdenly heard these odd NOIses that ACtually sounded like NOTHing HUman, my dear, and SEConds LAter WHO should appear but DADdy, sort of WREATHED about with BAGpipes—can you BEAR it, my dear. ACtually, we NEARly collAPSED because he anNOUNCED he'd deCIded to give up the SAXaphone, because it anNOYED us so, and take up the BAGpipes because they gave him a WIder SCOPE or something! GOSH, my dear, I'm SIMply SUNK about it—I mean I ACtually AM!"

ICE CARNIVAL.

Thompkins Corners will take on the aspect of St. Moritz tonight when a mid-winter ice carnival is to be held on the local mill pond. All the skaters, led by Judge Whipple as Father Neptune on a sleigh-throne drawn over the ice, are to appear in fancy dress costume. Following the pageant there will be a fancy skating exhibition in the approved Swiss style, by Miss Harbert, the popular music teacher of Thompkins Corners, and Fred Tibbets, the local barber. A hockey game, which promises to be fast and furious, is also scheduled.

Gas in the Stomach Is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Bisurated Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Acid Indigestion

Gas in the stomach accompanied by a full, bloated feeling after eating is almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful or four tablets in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never in liquid or milk), is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Short Talk By a Thoughtful Mother

A Pennsylvania mother speaks first: "I know the worth of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. We used it for years, and it never failed us. For croupy children, feverish colds, disturbing night coughs, it gives us a feeling of security to have Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house." No opiates, no chloroform, made under rigid sanitary control. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound carries a strong appeal to thoughtful mothers everywhere. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

NEW DODGE BROTHERS SIX

presented by WALTER P. CHRYSLER

NEVER before has the newness of a new car pledged so much to the buyer as in the new Dodge Brothers Six. ¶ Here, indeed, is important and valuable newness. Here is newness introducing more than a score of actual engineering betterments. ¶ This remarkable new Dodge Brothers Six embodies more evident originality, more beauty, more luxury, more of the power to perform and more intrinsic worth than any other car at or near its price. ¶ Chrysler genius for design and engineering and Dodge Brothers manufacturing efficiency and dependability have combined to produce in the new Dodge Brothers Six a value never before even approached. It is the outstanding triumph of Dodge Brothers long and successful career.

NEW DODGE SENIOR

Chrysler inspired, the new Dodge Senior combines the finest custom style with big car roominess and road-ease. It is the largest, handsomest, and finest of all Dodge Brothers cars.

WARNINGS ISSUED TO HELP YOU PROTECT AGAINST INFLUENZA

Many have found it expensive in time and money to take a chance with what seemed "just a cold." With influenza sweeping the country, city health departments have published warnings that deserve the attention of sensible people. These warnings are directed against all unnecessary exposure to contagion and outline some simple methods of keeping resistance to disease at the highest point.

Regular hours, exercise in the open, plenty of water, good food, fresh air—all of these are stressed by officials. Keep the hands away from the face. Wash always before eating. If busses, trolleys, etc., must be frequented it is advisable to take the greatest precautions.

Vapex will keep you free from colds and it will stop a cold at the start. It is pleasant and refreshing to use. Put a drop on your folded handkerchief every morning. Frequently during the day inhale the vapor. It reaches the innermost passages and will keep the head clear at all times. One application lasts all day, even increases in strength for several hours. Get Vapex from your druggist for $1, in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle. Each bottle contains 50 treatments.

GAS DEALERS' BOND IN VIEW

By W. I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—Retail gasoline dealers will have to furnish a bond to insure the return of the gasoline tax to the state under the terms of a bill to be introduced in the Legislature shortly, Auditor General Edward Martin stated today.

The bond, he said, probably will have a minimum limit of $2,500, with the Auditor General retaining the right to increase that, depending upon the volume of business. In return, the dealers will receive compensation for their services in collecting the tax and sending the money to the state.

There are nearly 29,000 retail gasoline dealers in Pennsylvania and the Auditor General's Department estimates that the additional amount collected by bonding them will pay the compensation to the dealers and net the state a tidy sum in addition, the sum going to each dealer being based upon the volume of business and designed to pay the expenses he incurs in keeping separate accounts, auditing them and forwarding them to Harrisburg. It is the only tax in Pennsylvania, Martin said, for which those who collect receive absolutely no compensation from the state.

The present tax is three cents per gallon, one cent of which is an emergency measure due to end May 31 unless it is extended by the Legislature.

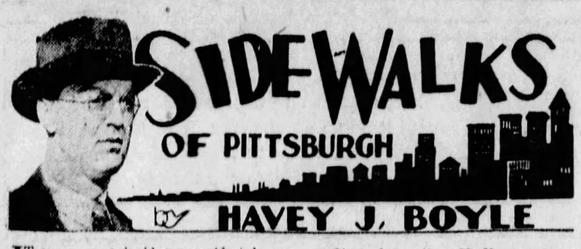
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1929



IT was a coincidence that I was reading how the Kellogg peace pact had been signed in Wasnington, a pledge, as the editorial writers have told us, which many nations are making to abandon war as an instrument of national policy, when John Lackovich wanted to take my order. John is about 17. He works at night in an Erie lunchroom—one of those imitation Pullman diner affairs—and since it was well past midnight the rush had subsided sufficiently to give John a little time to talk.

It was curious that while in my own humble way I was running over the arguments pro and con in connection with the Kellogg pact John Lackovich, unconsciously, fitted in with my reflections.

"I was just talking to a guy who was in the big war," said John. "Oh, boy, but that was sumpin' terrible." The horror of it showed in his eyes. "A fellow would be shot and dying and crying for a drink of water and what would they do? Why another soldier would come along and hit him on the skull with his gun and kill him."

"YOU mean that German soldiers did that to Americans or Americans to Germans," I asked John Lackovich. "I mean," said John, "that an American soldier would hit another American soldier like that. You know, to put the poor fellow out of his misery. It was awful. Then this fella told me they'd be walking to an attack and they'd dig that bayonet into every bush—hopin' they'd be able to stab a German. It must have been terrible."

* * *

"You don't like war, then," I asked.

"Oh, it must be awful, but I sure would go if we ever got into any trouble—but it must be fierce. Why, once this fella told me the fella sitting beside him—a good friend, too—was blown apart by a bomb or sumpin'."

"Big men are now trying to see if war can't be abolished altogether," I recalled to John. "Oh, yeah!" said John, with a cynicism not becoming to one of his age. "I don't believe they will, though, do you? It's terrible, all right, from what this guy told me, but there must be a lot of fun, too."

And I hoped that John Lackovich, from the Erie County lunchroom, would not have to remember some day on a blood-red field that once he thought there was some fun in war.

JOHN'S colleague behind the counter is Everett Andrews. Everett was engaged in supplying an unexpected group of taxi men with prodigous sandwiches, known in the trade as "combinations."

"Phew," said Everett Andrews, "that was some order—and to 'go out,' too." (It developed that there is more work in preparing a sandwich to "go out" than in preparing it for service at the counter.)

Everett Andrews, about 19, works by night at the lunch counter, and by day he takes lessons in aviation at a school in Erie. "Do you know what they do over at that school?" asked John Lackovich. I couldn't even guess. "They kid each other about which will be the first to get killed." It seemed here then that John Lackovich was one who certainly like to dally with the idea of death, not a quiet, peaceful one, either, but something sufficiently violent.

* * *

A THIRD man in the room took no part in the conversation. He was busy peeling potatoes. "Is that the boss?" I asked John. "No, he's just a pal——he comes in and peels potatoes to pass the time."

Until then I had never suspected there was much to that hobby, but when a man sits up until 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning peeling potatoes there must be something more than meets the eye. I suppose the potato peeler thinks men who sit up late playing poker or bridge ought to have their heads examined.

DECALOGUE FOR PARENTS OUTLINED BY PASTOR

Ten commandments for parents were outlined by the Rev. John Benjamin Magee, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, in his sermon, "The Prodigal Pair," the second of a series on "Our Everlasting Youth."

The commandments follow:

Thou shalt find no other parent better than me.

Thou shalt find me thy best friend.

Thou shalt discover that I was once a youth.

Thou shalt be natural.

Thou shalt be religious with me.

Thou shalt learn team-play with me.

Thou shalt find that a child's best heritage is preparation for life.

Thou shalt be clean.

Thou shalt choose thine own high purpose.

The Rev. Mr. Magee said in part:

STORY OF PRODIGAL SON

"The story of the Prodigal Son is well known. This is a story of the Prodigal Parents. Adam and Eve were prodigal with their paradise long before youth made its mistake. Cain unusually does not slay Abel unless the parents have misused their opportunity.

"The Price of Home, a happy home, is the surrender of selfishness. Because of the price many parents have abdicated and left their throne to be occupied by organizations such as the church, the school and the Christian Associations.

"Parenthood is a profession, a calling, a genuine science. Most parents need to learn psycho-parentis, the psychology of parenthood."

In his sermon, "Exhortations," the Rev. J. K. E. Horst, pastor of St. Matthews Lutheran Evangelical Church, warned against teaching and advocating religion that is not found in the Bible.

The Rev. Mr. Horst said in part:

WARNING IS SOUNDED

"If ever, today this warning is much needed. Religion is being discussed everywhere, not only in church and school and in the home, but also in the workshop, the store, at teas and other social gatherings, in the daily press and periodicals of every hue—not too much, but too glibly and lightly and frivolously, every Tom, Dick and Harry, Mary and Jane holding forth, and in speech or writing expressing and defending all kinds of unripe ideas and opinions not found in the Bible, but often in open contradiction of the eternal truths of revelation."

BEN AVON HOME'S GABLE CLOCKS

The four gables of this Ben Avon home give river captains and the surrounding communities the right time. The time-pieces have been going for 55 years. It's the Ventnor house, 7415 Brighton road. Weights and master mechanism operate the four.

CLOCK ON SEWICKLEY CHURCH

Sewickley gets its time from this—one of the few churches in this district that still has a clock in the steeple. It's the Methodist Church, Broad street.

DIAL MOVES, HANDS STILL!

Marie Antoinette, famous French woman, once owned this clock, now the property of Mrs. M. C. Wells, Sewickley. Peculiarly, the numerals move, the one hand stands still.

ODD CLOCKS HERE INCLUDE ONE OF MARIE ANTOINETTE'S

The Pittsburgh district has its share of oddities, and clocks are no exception.

For 55 years, on the River road in Ben Avon, overlooking the Ohio, the House of the Clocks has stood, its four timepieces giving the accurate time to river captains, motorists, train riders and residents of the neighborhood.

Then in Sewickley, the Methodist Church, with its big steeple clock, keeps the residents of that community in tune with the fleeting minutes and hours.

But perhaps the most unusual is the Marie Antoinette clock, once owned by that famous Frenchwoman, the clock whose numerals move, instead of its hands.

A young jeweler named Seidle built the house at 7415 Brighton road, known as the River road, where the four gables are conspicuous with a clock in each. Mrs. William Ventnor, one of the occupants of the house, declared they had kept time accurately since they were built and were wound by a master clock every eight or 10 days. The motive power is not in a spring, but in weights that, dropping, furnish power for the moving hands.

The Marie Antoinette timepiece has been in the family of Mrs. M. C. Wells, of 318 Broad street, Sewickley, for more than a hundred years. It was bought by a relative shortly after the French revolution scattered many of the relics of the French court throughout France and the world. A small arrow drops over the two circles containing the minute and hour numerals. The numerals move past the arrow, which serves as a hand.

COUNCIL SEEKS AUTO FUNDS

So that they may ask his support of a proposed legislative measure under which a portion of the motor vehicles license funds would be returned to municipalities, members of City Council are expected to confer with Gov. John S. Fisher one day this week. The bill, as proposed by a special revenue committee, headed by Councilman Robert Garland, asks 50 per cent of the fees orginating in Pittsburgh be returned.

Following long study of the subject a new bill has been drawn by City Solicitor, Charles A. Waldschmidt and a special committee has conferred with W. L. Mellon and and other leaders of the Republican party.

President James F. Malone, of City Council, says that the State League of Third Class Cities is unanimously in favor of the proposal. He said that officials in 32 cities, 81 boroughs and many townships had declared in its favor.

City Council is of the opinion that this city is maintaining hundreds of miles of streets for pleasure and commercial vehicles and that the burden on the property owner is increasing with each year so that other sources of revenue must be sought. It holds that the state is now in a position to give relief to local communities.

Policeman Chasing Boys Injured in Fall

Patrolman Joseph Napolitano, reporting at the South Side Police Station, was bruised about the body yesterday when he fell in front of 2683 South Eighteenth street extension while chasing several youths who were throwing stones and rocks. After receiving treatment at the South Side Hospital, the officer was taken to his home. Police are looking for the boys.

CHURCH DRIVE WORKERS MEET

Team workers in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church campaign to raise $75,000, the first step in the financing of the construction of a new $200,000 building, will meet tonight in the church for their first report meeting. The intensive phase of the campaign started yesterday afternoon at a luncheon held following the regular morning service at which the Rev. Edward Bleakney, pastor of the church, was the speaker.

The new church will be erected on Alabama avenue, Dormont, the site of the present structure, vacated several months ago due to the growth of the congregation. It will be of Romanesque architecture and will have a seating capacity of 800. Provision will be made for the addition, as funds permit, of the religious education department and the enlargement of the church auditorium when further growth of the congregation forces such a step.

Mt. Lebanon Bank Re-Elects Officers

The Mt. Lebanon Bank, Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, at an organization meeting held in the bank, re-elected its officers and directors to serve the current year. The officers are: Howard B. Salkeld, president; Williard Perry, vice president; George M. Hawkins, cashier and Hobson J. Mayer, assistant cashier. The directors are: H. B. Salkeld, James F. Keenan, David S. Cooper, George D. Edwards, F. E. Haller, R. L. Kelley, T. R. Knowlson, C. R. Moore, Earl A. Morton, Willard Perry, Dr. N. F. Phillips, S. A. Schreiner, W. H. Siegfred, L. T. Stevenson and N. H. Tressler.

MIFFLIN ANNEX BILL BEFORE COUNCIL

Council today received an ordinance giving the city's consent to annexation of a section of Mifflin Township containing about 4,000 people and four square miles of land, assessed at approximately $1,500,000.

The bill was sent to committee for consideration tomorrow. In the event of an affirmative recommendation the ordinance will be passed finally Monday and sent to Mayor Charles H. Kline for approval.

If the Mayor signs the bill, annexation will be consummated at expiration of 10 days thereafter, providing no objections are carried to the courts.

Petitions, accompanying the ordinance, were presented by Attorney Ralph H. Smith, assistant United States district attorney, and contained the names of 92 per cent of residents and 83 per cent of taxpayers in the territory proposed for annexation. The district contains 1,715 taxables, 1,439 of whom signed the petition.

With the acquisition of the section, the city line would be brought within a fourth-of-a-mile of the proposed City-County aviation field on Lebanon Church road and within the same distance Bettis Field.

ASK CHIMNEYS BE CLEANED

"Clean out the chimneys" is the request of Chief James Greenough, Sr., of the Bellevue volunteer fire department to borough residents. Firemen have been called out a number of times this winter for chimney fires caused by soot igniting. These runs, many times made over slippery streets, could have been avoided if chimneys were cleaned out periodically, the firemen say, and would lessen danger of homes being destroyed. Chief Greenough also urges that cellars be cleared of rubbish.

Foreign Mission Officer to Speak

Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow to speak at an open meeting in the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow night. He also will speak at two other meetings earlier in the day.

His talks are to be given under the auspices of the missionary groups of the Pittsburgh Presbytery. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney will preside at the evening meeting.

Punched, Says Girl; Jealous Swain Held

Charles Hoffmeister's "present" to his former sweetheart, Helen Weaver, 19, of 4823 Rosetta street, Garfield, was a punch in the face, according to testimony in Morals Court today.

Hoffmeister, 21, of 5316 Rosetta street, admitted he dragged the girl from an auto and two other young men yesterday because he was jealous. Magistrate A. D. Brandon held him for court.

Suit for $1,500,000 Tax Refund Starts

The suit of the Diamond Alkali Company, of Pittsburgh, against the government was started in Federal Court today with Attorney John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924, representing the plaintiff. The company charges that the government erroneously collected $1,500,000 in taxes in 1918, 1919, 1920. Government counsel is John C. McCann.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.

Mr. Hoover leaves the employment bureau today for a much-needed vacation, this time on a good will mission to Florida to personally thank them for their excellent judgment shown in the Republican primaries on November sixth last.

Train stops are only scheduled through the old rock-ribbed Republican states of Virginia and North Carolina, where they will take on enough provisions to carry them through rebel territory.

Any applicant from Pennsylvania that don't receive a cabinet appointment will know that they have been "hexed."

"NANCY DEANE" by ROY L. FOLEY

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Dean, golden-haired, dark-eyed, who has lived her 18 years with David and Margaret O'Day, foster parents, in Washington, learns she is the granddaughter of the wealthy and aristocratic Montgomery Deanes in Pittsburgh, who disinherited her father and do not even know of her existence. Through John Blair, an upstanding young man, she has learned to admire, she secures a letter to Howard Wescott, manager of the Wear Ever Mills in Pittsburgh. On the train she meets Ginger Varden, a style model who takes her to her boarding house and introduces her to her friends. One of these, Vic Flemming, makes love to her and asks her to marry him. She finally securs a job in the knitting mill where Wescott, attracted by her beauty, offers her a place in the office. She is naively delighted, but both Ginger and Vic characterize Wescott as a "big bum." That same evening while Vic, Jerry Durant, Ginger and Nancy are dining and dancing at the Golden Pheasant, Wescott comes in; Vic picks a quarrel and they have a rough and tumble fight and are arrested.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE newspapers next day were full of the story. The headlines screamed that Howard Wescott, son of William Wescott, millionaire sportsman and owner of the Wear-Ever Knitting mills, had been arrested in a roadhouse brawl over a girl.

And the girl was Nancy O'Day.

In the uncanny way they have of rooting out facts and getting information, even when it is refused, the reporters had learned Nancy's name, where she was staying, where she had come from, what she was doing in Pittsburgh. They discovered who her parents were—at least they spoke of Mr. and Mrs. David O'Day, of Washington, as her parents.

As Nancy read the story, sitting on the bedside at 5 o'clock the next morning, she was amazed at the amount of information concerning herself and the people she was with, that she read there. She blushed with shame and chagrin at the sight of her own name in print.

The reporters described both Nancy and the woman whom Howard Wescott had brought into The Golden Pheasant, as extraordinarily good looking.

The story wound up by saying that Wescott and Victor Flemming had been taken to the Central Police Station where they spent practically all the night until they had furnished bail. The story of the affair was on the front page. The headlines were in bold, black type. There was a four-column strip of pictures—Vic's, Howard Wescott's, Ginger's, and a picture of the woman Wescott had brought into the roadhouse. The name under the woman's picture was Peggy Spoffard-Boyden, and it said that she was recently divorced from Hawley C. Boyden, Chicago clubman, and president of the Boyden-McGee Importing Company.

Nancy scanned the first page, every page of the newspaper, hoping against hope that her own picture wasn't there. She didn't see how it could be because she had no picture of herself in Pittsburgh, and when the reporters had come to The Carmody, almost as soon as she and Ginger and Jerry had arrived home, Nancy had refused to have a flashlight taken.

Where the papers got pictures of the others she did not know. She forgot that those others in the party were people well known about town and that in the "morgue" of every big newspaper there are files and files of pictures of just about everybody of any importance. She had not known that Peggy Spoffard-Boyden's picture had been printed everywhere in connection with her most recent, rather sensational divorce in Chicago.

Last night the reporters had come right up to Ginger's room, asking a hundred questions, their eyes roving around the room taking in every detail. They seemed like wolves, Nancy thought. They had started setting up their cameras when they saw it was useless to secure her photograph. They were insisting that she pose for them when Mrs. Carmody had come up the stairs, puffing, and routed them.

As tired, excited and ashamed as Nancy was, she couldn't help laughing at the appearance of Mrs. Carmody must have made with her fat form in a too short bathrobe, bare feet, her skimpy hair done up in curlers.

She had made short work of them, ordering them out of her house and kicking at the tripods on which they had set their cameras. They got out, but not until they had drained the household and everyone in it of every shred of information they thought necessary.

And of course their stories played up the fact that Nancy O'Day was only a girl in humble circumstances who had worked for Howard Wescott but one day. How the newspapers discovered just what she had done in the knitting mills that one day, and how she had been taken into Howard Wescott's office, Nancy couldn't fathom. She was yet to learn of the machinery of a great newspaper and the speed with which it gathers its news.

She was dumbfounded at what she saw on the sheet spread before her.

She felt sick. She sat on the bed in the gray of the cold morning, looking at her name so prominently displayed along with the name of Howard Wescott, society man, sportsman, general manager of the Wear-Ever Knitting Mills. A son of one of the proudest families in Pittsburgh.

"Ginger, isn't this too awful. What ever will I do?

Nancy buried her face in the bedclothing, so overcome with the disgrace and notoriety of the thing that she blushed for herself. She felt cold all over. Her yellow hair was flying every which way. There were dark circles under her eyes.

"Nothing terrible about it," was Ginger's very decided reply, "it's wonderful. Why kiddo, this publicity is simply great. It's worth thousands. Me as a model, and you, a small town kid just starting in your first job. Say, we're sittin' on top of the world and I'll betcha before night we get half a dozen proposals of marriage at least, a contract to go into the movies, and a truck load of beauty preparations, if we'll just write a line saying that we think them beauty creams has made us what we are today—beautiful and notorious.

"Kiddo, you're a wonder. Who'd a thought that when you bumped down into a seat with me up there at Washington, and me so disgusted that day, too, that you'd turn out to be the little old gold brick that you are. It's that gold hair of yours, that's what did it. That's what got Vic, and that's what got Howard Wescott, and that's what got the two of 'em going at each other the way they did in the bout they put on last night.

"Nancy O'Day, I congratulate you. And as for me, I'm never so much obliged."

Ginger arose and made an elaborate bow before the bewildered Nancy.

"Ginger, how can you say such a thing," Nancy answered. "I never was ashamed of anything in my life. How can I face that factory full of girls. But then, I don't suppose that Mr. Wescott will let me work for him now. What will Mud and Darry think? This is too terrible, too disgraceful!"

Try as she would, Nancy could not keep from crying. She never cried for herself, if she could help it, but just the thought of Mud and Darry reading of her affair in the morning paper, seeing their own Nancy mixed up in the rowdyism of a roadhouse, was too much.

"Stop that cryin'," said Ginger, "you got to take a-hold of yourself. Say, you don't know when you're well off. A girl's got to have publicity nowadays or she don't get nowhere. What do you suppose all those actresses get married and divorced and breach of promisin' and all that stuff if it ain't for the publicity they get out of it.

"Say, look at Mimi May, a girl right from Pittsburgh. She'd still be dancin' in a cheap cabaret over on the south side if she hadn't got out and done something with herself. Of course she could wiggle parts of her body that nobody ever thought of wigglin, before, and they called it the shimmy. But she got the publicity too. She got herself into the Follies, and wearin' hundred dollar socks—Oh, that was a good publicity stunt—an' then she gets a divorce from the guy she had, an' married a rich guy. An' she's movie actin' and gettin' half a million a year, or somethin'.

"I tell you all a girl needs is publicity. She don't have to be so good in her line. I'll wager that J. Ginger Varden, right now at 6 bells this cold gray mornin' is worth more to Ziegelbaum's, Inc., than I was at 6 bells last night. An' I betcha I get a raise in salary out of Ziegelbaum before noon or I'll walk right over to Madame Whoosit and get me a real modelin' job.

"An' at the style show, Baby, I'll be the talk of the town. I'll get Ziegelbaum to name some of the new mink coats he's showin' 'The Golden Pheasant Wrap,' only he ought to spell it 'rap,' cause that's what Wescott got, ain't it. A rap right on the beeker."

Ginger had to laugh at her own joke. It was a mirthless, hard laugh. She walked over to the dresser, took a cigaret from the near-silver cigaret box, tapped it on the back of her hand, lit it, and began walking up and down the little room, and around the bed where Nancy lay with her face buried.

Ginger seemed so sure of herself. She was so decided. She had no misgivings about anything, it seemed. As Nancy listened to her talk and to her advice, she began to think that perhaps she, herself, was a little too soft and every worrisome. It must have been her desperation at the thought of facing the thing through, of going to Howard Wescott's office, of explaining to Mud and Darry, all her friends at Washington, that made her sit up suddenly, set her jaw, and declare:

"You're right, Ginger. Hereafter I'm going to be heard, or whatever it is that you are. I'm not going to take things so seriously. I've got to live and I haven't done anything wrong that I can see. It wasn't my fault if that hot tempered Vic Flemming had to start a row in a roadhouse over me. I don't care what anybody thinks. I'm just as good as the day I left home."

She wiped the tears from her eyes and went over to the dresser and started to comb her hair so fast and furiously, with such strokes of decision that Ginger stood in the middle of the floor, her mouth open. She was astounded.

"Hooray!" she exclaimed at last. "That's the spirit, kiddo. I knew you'd come around to it. I was soft like you once myself. I was always worryin' and fearin' what people thought, and now I don't give a continental what people think. I'm out for little old Ginger Varden, model with Ziegelbaum's Inc., an' I ain't ashamed of it. Gosh knows I'm a hundred times happier than I was when I dropped eyes, girlishly, scared, actually scared, understand, when one of them curbstone sheiks asked me if I wanted a ride. Only you're coming to it quicker than I thought you would. Shake."

Ginger held out her hand. Nancy smiled.

"Oh, I don't want to be hard. And I don't want to be posing, but gee whiz, whatshave I done? I've got less than 39 to my name and I'm living in your room until my first pay day—and now I'm not so sure that I have a job anywhere. If I got to fight to live why I'll just fight, that's all."

A telephone in the hallway on the floor below started ringing. Nancy jumped.

"See, kid, you've worked yourself into a nervous wreck, worryin' that way," Ginger said.

She didn't seem to consider that Nancy had very little sleep for three nights and that she hadn't stayed in bed until noon as Ginger had.

The telephone kept on ringing, breaking into the silence of the old rooming house, twice as loud as it would have had it been later in the day, the roomers up and about.

"I'll answer," Ginger said.

In another moment she was calling back to Nancy that long distance was calling.

"I guess she said Washington," Ginger said, "it must be your mother."

Nancy's face went white. Despite her declaration, still warm on her lips, that she wasn't going to take things so hard, and that she didn't care what anybody thought of her, the bravado of her words died when she heard that Mrs. O'Day was at the other end of the wire. She knew what had happened. Up early, as Mud and Darry always were, the first thing they did was to bring in the morning paper. They knew the whole story by now. Had found where she lived and had looked up Mrs. Carmondy's number in the phone book.

As Nancy hurried down the steps to the floor below she visioned how frantic Mud O'Day must be. Why, Mrs. O'Day had a horror of telephones and never went near one unless she could help it. She said that she couldn't hear over the pesky things. Here, now, she was calling long distance, an operation which the poor woman had never attempted in her life. She must have gone to a neighbor's telephone.

Her voice seemed to come from the other side of the world.

"Nancy, girl, is that you? Oh, Nancy, what is this that's in the mornin' paper? Do they mean you, Nancy? Why haven't you written? We've been frantic waitin' for a letter these three days."

Nancy had to confess that it was she whom the newspaper story was about, that she was the "beautiful" upstate girl over whom a young millionaire and her escort to a roadhouse had fought over.

"Don't worry, Muddy, please," Nancy said. "It wasn't half as bad as it sounds when you read it in print like that."

She tried to reassure the voice at the other end of the wire. Mrs. O'Day wanted her to come right home, then and there, but Nancy said no, she couldn't. She would write all about everything that very day.

Ginger flipped the ashes from her cigaret as she leaned over the bannister listening.

Winged Resolutions -:- By Fanny Darrell

OH, MY goodness! Why did I make such resolutions for the New Year? Here it is not the end of the month and I've broken every single one of them!

I thought they were just the grandest things in the world to resolve for this year, and I knew that I had done each and every single one of them at different times, and they only made me so blue and miserable. And I DID mean to keep them! But oh, dear! it's so hard!

They simply take wings and away they go! But anyway, I'll keep the resolutions in mind and try my very best to live up to them for the rest of the time. And I can't do more than that! So here's hoping!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

What to Wear

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My niece is being married at 10 o'clock with a mass. Is it proper for her to wear gloves with a long sleeve gown, and if so, what kind?

2. Does the maid of honor have to wear long sleeves or may she wear short sleeves with long white kid gloves? At the wedding breakfast do the maid of honor and the guests remove their hats, or just the maid of honor?

K. H.

2. Usually the bridal attendants do not wear gloves.

3. The maid of honor does not remove her hat at the wedding breakfast, for this would defeat the ensemble of her costume. And the guests do not remove their hats at the wedding breakfast.

Wedding Announcement

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please give me some information regarding wedding announcements?

I have a stepfather and have for the past three years been living in a town other than where my parents are living, and most of my friends would not know the meaning of the announcement using my stepfather's name, as they do not know my parents.

What shall I do?

READER.

THE surprise of your friends at receiving such an announcement need not worry you for the wording of the announcement would explain that. If you are fond of your stepfather and wish to give him the honor, with your mother, of making this important announcement, this is by far the best form. Then the announcement would read:

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Stewart have the honor of announcing the marriage of their daughter
Miss Mary Wood Lane
to
Mr. John Goodman
on Tuesday the first of March
Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-nine
Kansas City, Missouri.

If you do not wish to go quite so far as the third line, this line may be read (although it is not such good form): the marriage of Mrs. Stuart's daughter,

Horoscope

Tuesday, January 22

THE sidereal operations for this day make for many contradictory situations. While there will be much lively activity and keenly constructive effort, yet there may be much disagreement, wrangling and stubborn obstacles to overcome. Disruption, hazard and inharmony in both business and in personal affairs stress the need of much circumspection and restraint.

Those whose birthday it is are enjoined to be cautious and discreet in all affairs, business and personal, during the year, which will be one of much test and trial. There will be great need for cool and controlled demeanor. Personal affiliation and the physical condition need protection.

A child born on this day may have many conflicting characteristics. It should be given a rigorous training as to the happy medium in thought and action.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Adjust Your Diet to Stop Fermentation

A FEW days ago I talked with a friend in Washington about health and how to keep it. He spoke about the alkaline water and various remedies which are prescribed to overcome acidity.

DR. COPELAND

My friend is not a doctor, but he is a thinker. In my contacts with him I find he has thought through to logical conclusions many important matters.

In this conversation he pointed out how many persons of his acquaintance suffer from the effects of excessive acidity of the system. He is right about it. Many people do suffer a lot from this cause.

Why is acidity so common?

There are two chief reasons:

First—We don't eat regularly of correct combinations of food.

Second—Too many civilized men suffer from constipation. Almost invariably acidity follows.

Show me nine persons who are restless and sleepless at night. At least seven or eight of them will be victims of habitual constipation. There is no one thing so productive of disturbed sleep as constipation.

The blood, if it is normal, is either neutral or it is slightly alkaline. That is, it is neither acid nor alkaline, or else it is just a bit alkaline.

Acidity of the blood is the cause for serious disturbances. It is fundamental to many ailments.

I wish I knew how many sodamint tablets are sold every year. The number must be tremendous. It seems to me that a day never passes but I see somebody taking one or asking for bicarbonate of soda. It is sought to overcome the disagreeable acidity by taking doses of a neutralizing agent.

The vegetables and fruits carry agents which are alkaline producing. Of course this is not true of all of them, but it is of many. If you are inclined to acidity you should make a study of these matters, seeking to regulate the diet so as to get in a natural way the alkaline substances your digestion requires.

Oranges, apples and other splendid fruits have juices which contain vegetable acids. But, strange to say, they are not utilized by the system as acids. In the laboratory of the body they are converted into alkalines and have a neutralizing effect upon the acids developed by the body processes.

The fruits and vegetables possess other qualities besides the one to which I have referred. They contain a quantity of fibrous, indigestible material. This we speak of as "roughage." These substances act in a sense like brushes to cleanse the intestinal walls and to hasten the discharge of waste from the body.

If the food is too well refined it supplies nothing to give body to the intestinal content. There is nothing for the muscular walls to work upon and to drive along its course the waste substance.

In the absence of proper intestinal action constipation is sure to occur. The longer the mass remains in the bowel the greater the degree of fermentation and the greater the acidity. "Acid fermentation" is inevitable and acidity of the system will result.

In rather an unscientific way perhaps I have told you how excessive acidity originates. I hope you will govern your habits so as to avoid it.

Answers to Health Queries

E. A. Q.—Would a nervous condition cause a breaking out all over the body? If not, what would cause a rash, resembling little pimples filled with water?

A.—Yes, the trouble is very likely due to hives and may be caused by nerves, constipation, a food poisoning, which produces irritation or there may be a possible kidney condition.

M. A. Q.—My throat is perfectly normal excepting when I eat and try to swallow—what causes this?

A.—Have your throat examined—there must be a source of irritation.

E. E. Q.—What is a good eye wash for tired eyes?

A.—You might try a warm mild solution of boracic acid, using an eye cup if possible.

M. R. X. Q.—What are good foods to eat for one troubled with anemia?

A.—I would advise that you add liver and beef juices to your diet in addition to plenty of fresh green vegetables.

M. R. C. Q.—What causes a bitter taste in the mouth?

A.—This is probably due to some intestinal disturbance or constipation.

The bristles of hair-brushes that have become soft through repeated washing may be stiffened again by dipping them in a strong solution of alum and then drying them quickly.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

A Halo—Or a Wedding-Ring

MY DAUGHTER, every damsel must choose whether she shall adorn a pedestal and receive a man's admiration, or relax upon a footstool and receive his attentions.

For, lo, in theory, a man admireth dignity in woman. But the one whose doorbell he ringeth most often is she that greeteth him with all the dignity of a playful puppy. For when he seeketh a playmate, he yearneth not for a statue but for something that will unbend and romp around and put him at his EASE.

Likewise, theoretically, a man admireth reserve in a woman. Yet the damsel whose hearth he adorneth most often is she that welcometh him with all the reserve of a friendly fox-terrier, and maketh him feel at home.

Academically, a man admireth a brilliant intellect in a woman. But she whose telephone number he taketh down most carefully is the one who talketh with her EYES and listeneth eloquently with her ears.

Go to. A man admireth orderliness and neatness and domestic efficiency in woman. Yet she in whose company he longeth to spend a restful evening is the careless person who permitteth him to lounge upon her sofa cushions, and is not fussy concerning where he putteth his feet or flingeth his cigaret ashes.

Likewise, a man admireth a woman with all the strength of her moral conviction. But she to whom he goeth for consolation in his hours of trouble, and to whom he always returneth, is the woman who can smile and forgive, and who hearkeneth unto his weakest alibis with a relenting eye and a melting heart.

* * *

Yea, verily, a man admireth a fearless and capable damsel, who can tramp beside him upon the long and arduous hike and help him stake a tent or bait a hook without fainting.

Yet she whom he inviteth to walk beside him to the altar is the tender and clinging soul who teetereth upon foolish French heels, stoppeth her ears at the firing of a gun and runneth at sight of a garter-snake. For she needeth a strong man's "protection." She awakeneth all his chivalry, and appealeth to his vanity!

* * *

Then, take thy choice, my Daughter, whether thou wilt have a man's respect or his devotion; his homage or his confidences; his admiration or his attentions. For, alas, a man seldom bestoweth both a halo and a wedding ring upon the same woman!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Is Impatient to Get Back to the Hotel

I UNDERSTOOD Lillian's impatience to get to the hotel well before the hour set for our luncheon engagement with our husbands. She wished me to be unhampered in my inspection of the suite next to hers which Dicky and Harry Underwood had planned that we take for the winter. She also wanted me to have the chance for a housewifely allotting of the rooms before Dicky should parcel them out as he undoubtedly would do if he arrived first on the scene.

But I felt a bit guilty as I abetted her efforts to get Mary and Marion away from the shop where the drama of the leather jackets had been staged, and where their feet lagged before every fresh display of feminine fripperies.

"I thought I never would get through riding herd on you two," she told the girls when we were finally seated in a taxi and she had directed the driver to go straight to the hotel. "I didn't want to take the subway back. Once in a half day is enough for that experience, but there would have been no alternative if you'd lingered much longer."

"I'm awfully sorry, Mummy," Marion said penitently, "but the new things are so marvelous. I'll bet when you and Auntie Madge were our age, you were hanging over show cases, too."

Lillian hesitated only the fraction of a second in her answer.

"Yes, I suppose we were at that, eh, Madge?" she said, but there was a touch of grimness in her tone, and the smiles we exchanged held memories of the lean days of our youth when a shopping trip with the opportunities to make purchases such as those in which Marion was reveling would have seemed a vision from fairyland. But neither she nor I would have shadowed the rapturous enjoyment of the two young things opposite us by any reference to that far-off time.

I told myself, however, that before Marion went back to school I meant to set before her a vivid picture of her mother's life with its triumphs over hardship and denied opportunity and with its emotional tragedy because of the girl's father.

I shrugged my shoulders uneasily, wishing that the thought of Tom Morton had not come to me just at this time, linked inevitably as it was to my anxiety over Lillian's terrified, almost superstitious reaction to the letter from Samuel Brixton which she had received. I wondered if she had yet told her husband of the letter, decided that she had not when I remembered her comment that she meant to choose her time for the revelation very carefully. I also remembered Harry Underwood's high spirits on the trip in, and knew that he could not have appeared so carefree if he had seen the letter with its offer of restitution to Lillian and Marion of money due Tom Morton, the man whose very name was anathema to him. Something dropped in my lap—a penny and Lillian's voice pointed the silent allusion.

"I'll double the ante, if you're mean enough to hold out on us," she laughed.

I tossed the penny back to her.

"I won't cheat you," I told her. "The foggy masses floating around in my alleged brain aren't worthy to be called thoughts."

"I won't argue that premise," she retorted with a grin. "There isn't time, anyway. Here we are at the hotel."

PASTOR SCORES "JAZZ," IN CHURCHES AND ART

"Jazz" in modern literature, art, philosophy, the stage and even the church was deplored by the Rev. Dr. George H. Broening at the Greenfield Presbyterian Church yesterday in a sermon on "Jesus or Jazz—Which?"

"Why is it," he asked, "you have such men as H. L. Mencken, Sinclair Lewis and H. G. Wells, sending forth unbelieving ideas? We have no master writers like Shakespeare, Eliot, Scott, Thackeray, Hawthorne, Tennyson, Shelley, Longfellow. We have an 'Elmer Gantry,' and a 'Main Street.' We look in vain for a 'Vicar of Wakefield' or a 'Hamlet.' Ours is a ragtime literature.

"Where is there a Raphael, a Tintoretto, a Michael Angelo, a Rembrandt, a Da Vinci today? We have no great art. There are no really great artists, picturing to us the great things of history, character and life.

SHAKESPEARE FORSAKEN

"Shakespeare is forsaken. Marlowe and Sothern have left the stage. Henry Irving, Ellen Terry, Robert Mantell are gone.

"We have a jazz music. We wonder what has become of Wagner, Bach, Schubert, Sullivan, Mozart, Beethoven, MacDowell, with their splendid compositions. Our church music often has put the ragtime in the place of the great classics. The revival jingle has taken the place of the devotional hymn.

"We have a jazz philosophy. We talk about why men behave like humans. We think that man is nothing but an animal, whose whole behavior is governed by a lot of glands. There is not a ken of God. The divine sonship and creation have been made to give way to a 'monkey' philosophy.

"We have jazz thinking. There are no great thinkers like Paul, Plato, Kant, Augustine, Abelard, Erasmus. Men do not want to think. We want thought to be like dried cereal that is already digested before we eat it.

"JAZZ" REDEMPTIONS

"We have a jazz church. How often is a church rent asunder by schism and controversy? There is strife for preferment and power. Our enmities and personalities have stained our altars. We fight, fuss and contend in the very church. We have turned the church into a social center, a recreation hall, a bowling alley, a gymnasium, a cafeteria, a forum. The church has lost power because it puts secondary things first. There is too much jazz in the pulpit. It should not permit the language of the gutter.

"We are even trying 'jazz' redemption—a redemption that does not expect us to chart the rugged sides of Calvary and wash us in the sacrificial blood of the Son of God. It is a 'jazz' redemption that does away with the Lord."

As a remedy for the miasma of jazz, Dr. Broening pleaded for a return to the teachings of Christ, as revealed in the Bible, more "Christology" and less theology and more old fashioned religion.

Kaiser Receives 70th Birthday Greetings

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A party of former German Imperial Army and Navy officers gathered at Doorn House yesterday to present greetings to their late chief, the ex-Kaiser, who will celebrate his seventieth birthday next Sunday.

They assembled in the Castle Hall for divine service, which was attended by the former Kaiser and his consort. Later birthday greetings were formally tendered by Field Marshal Von Mackensen, to which Wilhelm replied with a brief address of thanks.

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

Exhausted . . . .
Because of a Cough

A STUBBORN cough can wrack your whole body—sap vitality. Each spasm not only irritates the delicate membranes of your throat but puts a severe strain upon your chest, stomach and other vital organs.

Your health demands that coughs be checked. They feed upon your strength—lower your resistance—expose you to more serious infections.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take PERTUSSIN. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. PERTUSSIN has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

PERTUSSIN is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on". It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary. At all druggists.

SUCCESSFUL METHODS FOR COMBATTING FLU AND COLDS

Follow These Rules—Do Not Fool With a Cold. Use Tried, Safe Methods.

Don't expose yourself to damp or wet weather.

THE DANGER

Cold, "Flu" and Pneumonia Germs multiply by the millions and attack the weak and the strong alike. Watch out for colds, they weaken your resistance. The greatest danger lies in that "simple cold." Kill that cold quickly.

It is of vast importance to clean out the entire intestinal tract, upper and lower bowels regularly. Keep the kidneys well flushed and [illegible]

Experience of 1918

The experience of the 1918 epidemic showed that one of the best and simplest treatments was to take a steaming hot cupful of Bulgarian Herb Tea.

Why take any chances, why not be prepared to fight off your cold or "flu?"

The right thing to do now is to go to your druggist, get a box of Bulgarian Herb Tea. Kill off your cold. Take it steaming hot twice a week. It will heat up the chilled blood, increase the circulation and rid the bowels and intestines of poisons and germs. Every family will find Bulgarian Herb Tea (purely vegetable), a real blessing to have on hand in this time of need. Keep your system clean all winter.

See your druggist at once. Your health—perhaps your very life—may depend upon taking this simple precaution. Costs but a few cents.

If you have had the flu or a bad cold already, watch out for a recurrence. A cupful of Tea twice a week is your protection age [illegible]

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

"Little Season" Popular Here to Introduce Pittsburgh Buds

THE time was when in the States debuts and autumn were synchronous. In recent years, however, English customs have had their influence with the result that London's "little season," in May and particularly June, has come to have its counterpart—modified, of course—to suit our democratic government. A few years ago debuts in June were almost unknown in Pittsburgh. Among the first of the buds of the month of brides and of roses, I recall, was Rosamond Reed, daughter of the David Aiken Reeds, who is now Mrs. Charles Denby, Jr., of Philadelphia.

During the past several years June debuts have become more and more frequent, until Pittsburgh's "little season" has become a most pleasing prelude to the customary season which opens in late September or early October and ends in mid-January, as a rule.

Already I've heard that a number of girls will make initial bows to the social world this June. And I prophesy that the coming "little season" will encompass more debuts than any other has in Pittsburgh. Furthermore, I think the little season has become an institution in the social calendar here.

I'VE just heard of a new June date. The junior William Welch Collinesses, of Sewickley, will present their daughter, Katherine, at a tea dance in the Allegheny Country Club on Wednesday, June 26.

Of course June debutantes are also debutantes during the "big" season. Among the events planned to honor Katherine during this latter period is a ball her grandfather and grandmother, the George H. Clapps, of Sewickley, will give in the Pittsburgh Club on December 29.

The Don Roses, of Sewickley, will present their daughter, Margaret and Anne Rose, on Friday, June 28, at a tea dance I mentioned some days ago.

Mollie Cullum, daughter of the James Barlow Cullums, will be presented at a June event, too, as I've said before. * * *

WHAT will probably be the last important event in society until spring is the wedding of Sally Taber Todd, daughter of the James Neales, of Pembroke place, and Tyson Nimick, son of Mrs. William Howard Nimick, of Fifth avenue, to take place February 9 in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

Sally has just named her bridal party. Her sister, Eliza Hampton Todd, will be her maid of honor, and her fiance's sister, Mrs. A. Douglas Studdiford, of New York, will be her matron of honor. The bridesmaids will include Jean Keating, Helen Louise Taylor, of Chestnut Hill; Emily Bryce, of Mt. Pleasant, and Edith Atwater, of New York. Helen Grange, of Sewickley, very youthful cousin of the bride-elect, will be a junior bridesmaid.

W. Howard Nimick, Jr., will be his brother's best man and the ushers will be A. Douglas Studdiford, of New York; Denham Young, of St. Davids; George E. Doty, W. Taber Grange, Jr., and James Todd. Mr. Todd and Mr. Grange are Sally's cousins.

NO matter how difficult it is to decide which resort one will choose of the many smart places in the South offering refuge to society folk from the northern winter, there's one satisfaction—no matter where you may decide to go, you'll find some friends from your home city there.

TOMORROW, I understand, the Junior League's bi-monthly exhibit of its work is to open in the league rooms in the Woman's Exchange Building. The arts and crafts branch, of which Mary Peebles Rhodes is chairman, and Helen Leovy is vice chairman, will be in charge. These exhibitions are held in the various cities, as you doubtless know, and the work is then sent from city to city, being finally passed on in New York, where prizes are awarded.

* * *

EVERY day the Pittsburgh colony at the Hotel Huntington, Pasadena, receives "additions." Howard Irish and William McClung are among those who've recently arrived there.

MISS ALICE E. SAUER, of Orchard avenue, Bellevue, entertained with a bridge tea Saturday afternoon in the Keystone Athletic Club to announce the engagement of Miss Loveday Estelle Johnston, daughter of Mrs. Stella M. Johnston, of North Bryant avenue, Bellevue, to the hostess' brother, Richard Charles Sauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Sauer. Twelve tables were in play. An early summer wedding is planned.

* * *

EDWARD BURNS, of Idlewild street, announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Esther Genevieve Burns, to Edward H. Mehler, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mehler, of Carver street. The wedding will take place February 6.

* * *

DR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ANDERSON, of Aspinwall, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Helen Anderson, to John J. Geise, son of Mrs. Margaret Geise, of Aspinwall. Miss Anderson is a graduate of Goucher College and the Pittsburgh Carnegie Library School, while Mr. Geise was graduated from Pennsylvania State College and the University of Pittsburgh. Both are members of the faculty at the university.

* * *

MRS. JOHN ODY, of Whitney avenue, Wilkinsburg, will leave late in the month to spend some time in Denver.

FEBRUARY 11 is the date chosen by Miss Ida Margaret Haverty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Haverty, of Aylesboro avenue, for her marriage to Joseph Girard Wagner, son of Milton M. Wagner, of Sidney, O.

THE Nurses' Alumnae of the Ohio Valley Hospital will hold a benefit card party Wednesday night, January 30, in the Sheraden Elks' Temple.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES B. KECH, of Sherman avenue, Duquesne, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Irene Miriam Kech, and Robert Finnin, of Swissvale, which was solemnized October 25 in the Burgettstown Roman Catholic Church by the Rev. William McCashin.

MISS EVELYN RISELING, of Canton, O., is visiting Miss Elizabeth Dibert, of Tacoma street, East End.

O. E. S. to Observe 20th Anniversary

MARTHA CHAPTER, No. 88, O. E. S., will celebrate its twentieth anniversary on Friday evening, February 1, with a dinner dance and card party in the Hotel Roosevelt. The general committee in charge is composed of Mrs. Sarah M. Phillips, chairman; Mrs. Sara B. Kelly and Mrs. Rose Preiss, vice chairmen. The reception committee includes past matrons, with Mrs. Mary Carothers, the present matron, as chairman.

The guests of honor will be Mrs. Jane A. Roberts, worthy grand matron; Mrs. Adeline W. Barnes, past grand matron and grand secretary; Mrs. Carrie Crisswell, grand conductress, and George Edgin, past grand patron.

"OUR ISLAND POSSESSIONS," "Honolulu, the Melting Pot," and "Bermuda's Charm," are the topics for the three papers to be given tonight at the meeting of the West View Forum. Mrs. George Dean will be hostess and Mrs. George Schuler, assistant.

OFFICERS have been elected by the Pittsburgh Girls' Club as follows: President, Miss Blanche Olliffe; vice presidents, Miss Stella Maloney and Miss Ethel Yeager; corresponding secretary, Miss Luella Straub; treasurer, Miss M. Betty Gardner; assistant treasurer, Miss May Fortwangler.

THE forum supper committee of Central Branch Y. W. C. A. will present William J. McNeil, general manager of Moore, Leonard & Lynch, who will speak at the forum supper hour tomorrow at 6 o'clock on "The Stock Market and Values in Stock." Miss Janet Dalgleish, chairman of the forum committee, will preside and Mrs. Charles Longenecker will lead the group singing, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Graham Wagner.

THE Western Pennsylvania section of the Woman's Auxiliary to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers will meet for luncheon at the Hotel Schenley tomorrow. Following luncheon, the annual business meeting will be held. Committee reports will be read and election of officers take place.

RETIRING officers of Court Duquesne, No. 659, Catholic Daughters of America, will be honored at the January social to-morrow evening in Cathedral High School. Newly-elected officers of the court are: Mrs. B. J. Hannegan, grand regent; Mrs. J. H. Clark, vice grand regent; Miss Margaret Reardon, lecturer; Miss Aileen Murray, historian; Miss Anna Heckler, prophetess; Miss Mary Dwyer, financial secretary; Mrs. Thomas Cullinan, treasurer; Miss Rose Marie Helfrich, organist; Miss Mary Fahey, sentinel; Miss Alfreda Kripp, monitor; Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Frank Collins, Miss Marie Egli and Miss Mary Mellott, trustees. The court will have a pre-Lenten bridge-luncheon in the William Penn Hotel Saturday, February 9.

COMMUNITY singing, led by Will Davis, will feature the closing dinner of the annual budget campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh this evening in the Central branch building in Chatham street.

Campaign officials are considerably encouraged by the showing of the teams to date. At the final report luncheon Friday, $85,206 was reported as result of the week's solicitation throughout the city. Committees are exerting every effort to "clean up" the remainder of the cards in their hands by tonight. The Rev. Dr. Archibald Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian church, will make the invocation.

MEMBERS of the Woman's Press Club have been invited to join with the Woman's Advertising Club at a luncheon tomorrow in Gimbel's to hear Ray Sprigle, city editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, speak on "Witchcraft."

THE Travellers' will observe their annual dramatic day tomorrow in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. J. C. Schreiner, Mrs. William C. Zeigler, Mrs. E. A. Evans and Mrs. E. T. Crowder form the committee in charge.

AIDES for the tea being given this afternoon by the Women's International League for Peace include Mrs. Selma Junge, Mrs. Hermann Peter, Mrs. George Seibel and Mrs. Paul Wright. Miss Juliet Knox is the speaker and her subject, "Mexico." The meeting is in the International Institute, Forbes street.

MRS. M. A. BITTNER, Mrs. H. M. Holger, Mrs. Walter D. Brown and Mrs. L. P. Collins will be hostesses at a benefit card party at the Council House of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women on Friday evening.

Miss Millie Kunzler is chairman of a benefit card party to be held by the Queen's Daughters at Council House, next Monday evening. The proceeds of this affair will be used to help defray the expense of furnishing Council House as a residence for young business women.

THE Twentieth Ward League of Women Voters will have Mrs. John O. Miller as guest of honor Thursday afternoon at a tea to be held in Langley High School. Mrs. Edna Jones is chairman of the social committee.

THE new platoon system that is to be adopted by Linden School next month will be discussed before the Linden Parent-Teacher Association tomorrow evening by Dr. W. F. Kennedy, new associate superintendent of schools. "The Roots, Influences and Organization of the Platoon School," is the subject of Dr. Kennedy's talk.

Facing the cruelest test a skin can meet

The huge new incandescent "sunspot" lights stream down heartlessly on the star's skin while the close-up is being taken. Any tiniest defect will be registered on the film, now more highly sensitized even than before. In consequence, of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 guard the smoothness of their skin with Lux Toilet Soap.

"Without smooth skin, no girl can be lovely," say leading directors

IT is the most precious charm a girl can have—clear velvety skin. All Hollywood agrees on this, leading stars and directors alike.

For there is something about lovely skin that sends a ripple of emotion through every heart.

And for the screen star, skin as smooth as a flower petal is a prime necessity.

"People open their hearts instantly to the appealing loveliness of exquisite skin," says Edward Sedgwick, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director, expressing the experience of 39 Hollywood directors. "Every star knows how essential it is to have beautiful, smooth skin."

JOAN CRAWFORD, fascinating Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, meets the brilliancy of the new incandescent "sunspot" close-up lights with perfect self-confidence—because her lovely face and arms and shoulders are kept beautifully smooth with Lux Toilet Soap.

"I have tried innumerable French soaps but never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth. And 'studio skin' is the all-important asset for the star who must face into the glaring lights of the close-up."

Joan Crawford

JOAN CRAWFORD finds this delicately fragrant white soap delightful both in this lovely bathroom and in her special dressing room on location. It keeps her skin in such marvelous condition.

The next time you see RUTH TAYLOR in a close-up, notice how softly smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her fair skin. This little Paramount blonde says: "No art of make-up can deceive the close-up. I guard my skin as my most priceless possession and know that Lux Toilet Soap treats it gently."

9 out of 10 screen stars guard their smooth skin this way

HOW well the lovely girls whose beauty stirs a million hearts every time they appear in a close-up, know that the skin must be kept rarely smooth!

Of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 depend on Lux Toilet Soap to guard their skin.

The very next time you see Joan Crawford or Ruth Taylor in the close-up, notice how captivatingly smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps their skin.

Following the example of the stars, every one of the great film studios has made this soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

If you haven't already discovered for yourself just how smooth this fragrant white soap keeps your skin, try it today.

You'll like it in your bath, too. It lathers so generously! Remember: 9 out of 10 screen stars use it.

YOUTH ADMITS SALOON, TAXI ROBBERIES

The shooting and attempted holdup of Peter Bubanovich, California avenue saloonkeeper, was solved today by a confession, police announced.

Ray Filmore, 20, arrested early today, not only admits the Bubanovich shooting, but also holding up 13 cab drivers and two stores, Capt. Anthony Block declared.

Bubanovich was scheduled to testify before the Federal grand jury investigating North Side booze conditions the day he was shot.

FOUR OTHERS HELD

Filmore was arrested as he was climbing into his auto in the rear of a rooming house in which he lived at 18 East Robinson street. Four others also were taken into custody later, including a woman, Mrs. E. G. Bender, 26, of 2342 Norwood street.

Mrs. Bender was accused of harboring a criminal in her home. The other three were arrested as possible accomplices. They are Roy Miller, 21, of Orchard avenue, Bellevue; Charles Mayer, 32, of 1708 Chateau street, and Roy Young, 18, of 63 North Sprague avenue, Bellevue. There was nothing to indicate that any of them accompanied Filmore on the attempted holdup.

VICTIM IDENTIFIES

Filmore confessed after he had been identified by Burbanovich, who was discharged from the hospital yesterday recovered from bullet wounds in the hand and back. Bubanovich was shot early Tuesday as he was putting away his car in the rear of his home at 3524 Sewickley road. The motive for the holdup was robbery, Block said.

MILLS ANSWERS MELLON CRITICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(INS.)—Substitution of Federal Courts for administrative officials in the collection of income taxes was held unsound by Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, in an address before the New York Bar Association Saturday.

Answering critics of the policies of Secretary Mellon, in settlement of income taxes in the treasury without recourse to the courts, Mills declared that collection is an administrative, not a judicial problem.

This shift of responsibility "violates every sound rule of taxation and good government," according to Mills.

Mills asserted that the entire furore arose over a refund of $15,000,000 and interest to the United States Steel Corporation. Admitting that the refund of $975,000,000 in 12 years was large, he called attention to back tax assessments of $4,000,000,000 in the same period.

Man Hangs Himself On Porch of Home

Charles Emory, 48, of 1011 Ravine street, Munhall, was found hanging on the back porch of his home by his wife yesterday, according to the coroner's report. Munhall police, who reported the case, informed morgue attaches that Emory, a craneman, had threatened to kill himself before. Mrs. Emory, returning from a visit with friends, found the body and summoned a physician.

Col. Elverson, Phila. Publisher, Is Dead

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Col. James Elverson, Jr., 60-year-old president and publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, was found dead in his apartment here at 7:30 a. m. today. Death was due to heart disease, according to Dr. Herbert Carpenter, Elverson's personal physician. Col. Elverson was a well-known figure in the city's civic, business and social life. He succeeded his late father as president of the newspaper and became a member of a former governor's staff, thus acquiring the title of colonel.

Gigli to Sing Arias At Mosque Tuesday

Beniamino Gigli, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Grand Opera, will give the fifth May Beegle concert at Syria Mosque tomorrow night, and his program will feature the great tenor arias from the operas "Rigoletto," "Pagliacci," "Martha," "Boheme," "Tosca," "L'Africaine" and "L'Elisir d'Amore;" also groups of English and Neapolitan songs. Margaret Shotwell, pianist, will contribute a group of solos and Miguel Sandoval will accompany Mr. Gigli.

Real Estate

Joseph H. Bowman has sold to Mary Kathryn Knapp 74x118 feet of vacant at the southeast corner of Dunmoyle avenue and Wightman street, Fourteenth Ward. The property had been held at $13,500.

Plans are in progress for a $160,000 apartment building at Walnut street and Denniston avenue, East End, for Mrs. A. M. Campbell.

A two-story brick building at 111 Brownsville road, in the heart of the Mt. Oliver business district, has been sold by Hugo Mayer to Carl Moll. The lot is 22x120 feet.

A property in Lincoln avenue, Twelfth Ward, lot 20x100 feet, has been sold by I. C. Solomon to Jacob Garber.

Neuritis and Joints Pains Go Quickly With Amazing New Treatment Sold Under A Written Guarantee

A remarkable new discovery of German chemistry called Rheunesia for the relief of neuritis and sore, inflamed joints is astonishing the medical world. This marvelous prescription seems to end the pains of neuritis and sore, inflamed joints just as effectively as these other German pain-killers—Novocaine for painless dentistry and Aspirin for headache pain.

The pain of neuritis and sore, inflamed joints is almost always due to an infection which can generally be traced to toxic poisons, such as blind pus pocket in a tooth, diseased tonsils, or the poisons set free from constipation. These poisons are carried in the blood, setting up infections which result in agonizing joint and nerve ailments. Rheunesia helps the blood throw off these violent poisons and neutralizes the toxic poisons in much the same way as Milk of Magnesia neutralizes an acid stomach, thus giving instant relief from pain.

The terrible pain of neuritis and sore, inflamed joints is often greatly out of proportion to the ailment itself because a sensitive nerve is involved. It is important that the pain be ended before the condition becomes aggravated and it is because this new treatment brings almost instant relief that sufferers have been so loud in their praises.

So remarkable have been the results from the use of Rheunesia that May's are authorized to dispense it to neuritis and joint sufferers in Pittsburgh with a positive written guarantee to return the full purchase price on the first package if it does not bring wonderful relief. All sufferers from neuritis or sore, inflamed joints should promptly take advantage of this guarantee. Get Rheunesia today at May's. Regular $2.50 package at the special introductory price of $1.95.

Mite Catchers Durable.

Spirit-Lacking Players.

Come-Back of Hoppe.
Regan's Job Is Safe.

FLAW IN BILLIARD WINNER'S TITLE

BACK in the old days of baseball the generally accepted theory was that, to be able to stand the grind of major league work, a catcher had to be constructed along the lines of a truck horse. Managers would not hire backstops of any other type. They declined to waste any time in experimenting with little fellows, contending that the latter did not have the strength or endurance to bear the burden of the strenuous duties attached to the receiver's position. So nearly all of the major-maskmen were of the ponderous, lumbering type, built for durability rather than for agility or speed.

Muddy Ruel

But the truck horse and the notion that the dreadnaught catcher is the most serviceable kind appear to have gone out together. The idea that size was the main requisite for steady service behind the bat was a mistaken one, judging from the fact that not only is the best record for endurance on the catching job held by a small man, but that the backstop now having the best chance to equal that mark also is far removed from the heavyweight class.

RAY SCHALK, standing only 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighing but 154 pounds, smashed all records while with the White Sox by catching more than 100 games per year for 11 consecutive seasons. He placed that extraordinary service to his credit from 1913 to 1923, inclusive. In his entire career he has caught 1,720 big league games, another record.

And now we find that the only catcher having a chance to equal the mark first mentioned is a man of not much greater displacement than Schalk. He is Harold (Muddy) Ruel, of the Washington club, who stands less than 5 feet 10inches in height and scales only 165 pounds. Ruel has caught more than 100 games per season for the last eight years. He must go through three more campaigns at the same clip to go into a tie with Schalk, but Muddy says he has set his heart on doing the trick, and as he will be only 33 years old when the 1929 season opens, the majority of big league men believe he will equal Schalk's figures if he does not actually surpass them.

SOME ball players would have been stars of the first magnitude from the time they entered fast company if they had possessed the true spark of aggressiveness and hustle. They had all the native ability necessary, but they didn't get the best possible results out of it because they lacked the competitive spirit.

Sammy Hale

Admittedly, Clarence Beaumont, old Pirate outfielder, was at times no ordinary performer, but imagine the heights to which he might have risen had he been filled with the spirit of Ty Cobb, Jack Miller, Pie Traynor, or players of that type, men to whom winning a ball game means everything while they are on the field.

THERE are a number of present-day big leaguers who need only that dash and determination to win, a love for baseball above everything else, to become brilliant stars. Seemingly, Sammy Hale, of the Athletics, belongs to that class. Many Philadelphia fans have soured on Hale, and have been urging that he be used in a trade, but Manager Connie Mack announces that he is going to hang on to Sammy for at least one more season in the hope that he will "snap out of it." "I only wish," says Mack, "that Hale would get it into his head that baseball is a great game. If he ever does, he'll be a real star. Sammy can hit too well to be considered a second-rate player. In the field he may not be as steady as some third-sackers, but the wallop in his bat makes up for other deficiencies. Hale has talent enough to assure him a bright future in baseball. Perhaps he will show the boys this year."

TO JOHN J. FREUND, local basketball pioneer, must be credited the arranging and putting through of three of the most notable and extensive tours of top-notch floor teams on record in this district. The three tours cover a period of a quarter of a century, and figures in connection with them show that guarantees paid to visiting attractions have trebled in that time.

The first big tour dates back to 1905, when the famous Tamaquas, with Harry Hough and his fellow stars in the lineup, played 10 games in this region for an average guarantee of $100. The second was chronicled in 1926, when Kiki Cuyler's crack team played 15 games hereabouts, the average receipts being $275, and the third is that of the Celtic-Rosenblums, who are booked for nine games at an average guarantee of $300.

AFTER the Celtic-Rosenblums have finished their Pittsburgh district tour next Saturday at Butler, they will shift to Columbus, O., for a game on Sunday. A jump to Memphis, Tenn., will follow, and then they will go farther South for eight additional contests.

When they return to Cleveland they will have played on their tour, which started on January 4, a total of 27 games—nine east of Pittsburgh, nine in this section, and nine in Southern states.

Willie Hoppe

BILLIARD followers who protested against the action of the cue powers in barring Willie Hoppe from the coming world championship 18.2 balkline tournament—though the same powers have tried to make it appear that Hoppe remained out voluntarily because he felt he was done as a balkline player—find a strong argument in support of their stand in the brilliant come-back that Willie made last week at that style of play. In a match at Boston Hoppe defeated Kinrey Matsuyama, of Japan, one of the accepted tourney entrants, 3,000 to 2,151. The victory itself would have been impressive enough, but it was made even more so by the skill and consistency shown by Hoppe after an absence of almost a year from balkline. He made high runs of 179, 178, 171 and seven others above the century mark and turned in a grand average of 50 against his opponent's 36.

SEEMINGLY, despite the views of the billiard bosses, Hoppe is far from being a dead one at balkline, and his absence from the title competition opening in New York on February 4 cannot fail to cloud the world championship claims of the winner.

Six players are to take part in the tourney, these being Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, present champion; Jake Schaefer and Welker Cochran, of the United States; Eric Hagenlacher, of Germany; Kinrey Matsuyama, of Japan, and Felix Grange, of France. No matter who wins, the argument is bound to be advanced that the result might have been different if Hoppe had competed.

THE acquisition of Hal Rhyne, former Pirate infielder, by the Red Sox from the Athletics by the waiver route, does not mean that

Former New Castle High Star Dies

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 21.—Brendan A. Hanlon, 23 well-known athlete of this city, died yesterday at the New Castle Hospital following an illness of three months. He was center on the New Castle High School team of 1923, which won the sectional championship. He is survived by his wife, his parents and several brothers and sisters.

State Floor Meet To Be Staged Here

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 21.—The annual state interscholastic basketball tournament will not be held at Penn State this year, according to an announcement today by the association officials and the college athletic authorities. The conflict in dates with the intercollegiate boxing championships, March 14 and 22, made it necessary to cancel arrangements for the high school tourney. The tourney will be held in Pittsburgh this year.

GRIP ON BALL

Jimmy has rolled 16 perfect scores of 300 in official competition in the 24 years he has been before the public. He's now in the Middle West on an exhibition tour that started in New York and will finish up in California.

RICKARD and the RING

By JACK DEMPSEY,
World's Greatest Ring Idol.

Tex Saved Philly Fight

IF IT hadn't been for my fondness for Tex Rickard, it is unlikely that I would have jumped through the ropes on that September night of 1926 in Philadelphia.

And, on the other hand, if it hadn't been for Tex, I perhaps would have gone into that ring in such bad shape mentally and physically that Tunney could have bumped me off in a couple of rounds.

As every one familiar with the history of that mixup in Philadelphia knows, I had plenty of legal worries for weeks before it took place.

At every turn some obstacle was put in my way—and deliberately—intended to put my nerves on a raw edge.

Each day brought some new difficulty; something more to get me all out of tune with physical fitness. Almost every time I turned around a process server was at my elbow and I had to have a bodyguard to push them aside—or go into hiding.

It was during those days that Tex, kindly and wise, held the old morale stuff together. Again and again, he'd get in touch with me and say to me:

"Ain't much use in telling a feller in your spot not to worry, but you needn't go to worrying about anybody grabbing your money. You will get that dough—nobody's going to take it from you."

OFFERED A POSTPONEMENT

Tex made good on his promise even though the making good cost him almost as much worry and grief and legal annoyance as I had to undergo.

And Tex, although playing no favorites in that fight, knew what I was putting up with, and always dropped around when the going was toughest and bucked up my courage.

If it hadn't been for Tex I'd have gone pretty much to pieces in a nervous way and would have gone into the ring a soft mark for even a middleweight. A man must have fairly steady nerves if he even faintly hopes to win, and if it hadn't been for good old Tex I'd perhaps have parked all of my forces somewhat outside the arena.

HAD INTESTINAL TROUBLE

Two days before the fight I became sick—plenty of intestinal trouble. A ringman can go on and put up a good battle in the face of other handicaps, but when the intestines go wrong it's almost a case of "good night." As the condition grew worse and I knew I'd have to land a lucky punch if I was going to do any winning I met up secretly with Tex and told him my newer troubles.

"Want a postponement?" he asked.

The way he asked it made me realize what such an action would mean to him. The fans were keyed up to see the fight on that particular night. If it went through, the receipts and attendance would smash a world record; if there was a postponement, it might mean financial disaster. Before I had a chance to answer, Tex cut in with:

"Jack, if you want it, say so. Just forget about me. I'd rather lose plenty than have you go in there feeling you couldn't do your best."

RICKARD SHOWED COURAGE

It was a brave and fine speech—a typical Rickard attitude. He always was that way in his dealings with me—and with others. He would rather lose a small fortune than face a sacrifice from a friend or a business associate or anyone.

"No, there'll be no postponement," I said. "You've gone through hell to help me—and protect me. I guess I'll be O. K. when fight time comes around. If I'm not I'd rather take the risk of losing the title than putting you in a bad spot. We'll go ahead."

"Sure enough?" queried Tex. "You sure mean you won't want a postponement for a couple of days—or maybe a week. I could get Tunney to stand for it."

"Nix on the postponement—we fight on schedule," I answered.

UNFIT FOR BATTLE

If the intestinal trouble could be checked I might be O. K. If not, I was sure to be out of luck when the bell rang. I could have forced a postponement, for Rickard was agreeable and Tunney had nothing else to do but accept. But I didn't—and lack of condition had lots to do with my losing the title that night.

I never regretted my action, for by doing what I did it was possible to show my appreciation to Tex—and my gratitude—for all that he had done to protect my interests and to hold my nerves together sufficiently so that Tunney's many punches never knocked me off my feet.

Rickard Tells Of Go With 35 Knockdowns

Tex Rickard refereed this battle, back in 1907, and he says it was the toughest fight he ever saw.

Jack Dempsey tells about it as he got it from Tex, in tomorrow's installment of this intimate series on the late promoter's connection with the ring.

It's a classic. Don't miss it.

State Grid Squad Resumes Practice

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 21.—With most of the regulars from last season's team reporting, Penn State football men will begin on their second week of preliminary workouts this afternoon. A call issued for candidates to report last week brought out most of the varsity men and a number of freshmen who will be eligible for next fall. In the practices held to date the backs have been drilled in handling of the ball and passing, under the direction of Coach Hugo Bezdek, while the line candidates received instruction in the fundamentals of blocking and charging. All practices are being held in the gymnasium of the new recreation hall.

Nevada Names Philbrook Coach

RENO, Nev., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—George Philbrook, head football and track coach of Whittier College in California, has been selected as head coach of the University of Nevada football team for 1929, according to announcements from the university. Philbrook's name was selected from a list of applications which were filed shortly after the resignation of Lawrence T. (Buck) Shaw, head coach in 1927-28.

BILLICK HIT BY FLU

GODFREY, PAULINO AGAIN

This Is Why They Call It "Mad Atlantic"

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A new plan for a split season will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the board of directors of the Fairmont club of the Middle Atlantic League, Jackson V. Blair, one of the directors, is the author of the plan.

Under the proposal, the first half of the season would end secretly, and the winner of the first half would not be known until the entire season has been completed.

Under the Blair plan, various dates would be noted on slips of paper and one slip drawn from a hat. This slip, which would bear the date of the close of the 1rst half, would be sealed in a vault and opened at the end of the season.

Blair said his proposal would keep interest alive all over the circuit during the entire season and still provide a playoff series for the league championship.

AND HIS DELIVERY

The ball is on its way for another strike. Starting from the right-hand corner of the alley, it will curve in and hit the head pin where all good head pins should be hit.

Virtue's Reward Seems Strange To Couch

If virtue, as often has been written, is its own reward, then virtue is not opposed to puzzling masquerading. Take, for instance, the case of one Chappie Couch:

On January 12, Pittsburgh's hockey Pirates opposed the Ottawa Senators at Duquesne Garden, and Couch presided as timekeeper at that affair. After the required 20 minutes of play had been jammed into the second period, Chappie performed his duty by sounding the bell to halt hostilities.

Couch is no Swiss bell-ringer, and his bell ringing on this particular occasion would have created no exceptional interest had it not been that Hib Milks shot a goal for the Pirates a fraction of a second after Chappie sounded the gong. Milks' goal was not allowed and the Pirates lost by the margin of one goal.

Honesty is the essence of virtue, and Couch, obviously, was entitled to virtue's reward. He got it. He has been relieved of his duties as timer at the Garden.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULT.

New Haven	3—Springfield 1

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—In one of the roughest games seen here in some time, the Pittsburgh Pirates took the measure of the New York Americans by a 2-to-0 count in the National Hockey League here last night. Fourteen penalties, including two majors, were called in the game.

All of the scoring was in the second period.

Hib Milks opened the action nine seconds after the start, getting a long drive past Worters on the first shot. The New York goalie lost the puck when it bounced high in the air from his pads and it dropped behind him into the net.

Frank Frederickson scored the second near the middle of the frame, making a brilliant individual dash to beat Worters.

Just after he scored, Frederickson collided with Leo Reise and had to be taken from the ice with a bad cut on his right cheek. Five stitches were required to close the angular gash made by Reise's stick. The lineup:

N. Y. AMER.		PITTSBURGH
Worters	G.	Miller
Reise	R. D.	McKinnon
Conacher	L. D.	Smith
Burch	C.	Frederickson
Broadbent	R. W.	Darragh
Connor	L. W.	Milks

American spares — Himes, McVeigh, Simpson, Spring, Dye, Sheppard.

Officials—Rodden and Stewart.

Summary:

First period—No scoring. Penalty, Conacher.

Second period—1, Pittsburgh, Milks (Frederickson; 9 seconds. 2, Pittsburgh, Frederickson 12:05; Penalties: Dye, Smith, Connor (2).

Third period—No scoring. Penalties: McCurry, Smith (2), (one a major), Conacher (2), McKinnon (2), Burch (major), Cotton.

COUGARS BEAT LEAFS

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The Detroit Cougars emerged from a slump in which they dropped three games and gained one tie by scoring a 2-to-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game here last night.

The Leafs presented a tight defense and the Cougar passing game was almost ineffectual, but George Hay and Carson Cooper made up the lack by scoring single-handed. The lineup:

Chabot	G.	Dolson
Smith	L. D.	Noble
Day	R. D.	Bridge
Carson	C.	Herberts
Cox	L. W.	Cooper
Bailey	R. W.	Connes

Toronto spares—Horner, Duncan, Horne, Pettinger, Blair. Detroit spares—Traub, Hay, Aurie, Lewis, Brohy.

Summary:

First period—Detroit, Hay 5:35. Penalties: Connors, Carson.

Third period—No score. Penalties: Pettinger, Blair, Noble.

HAWKS BOW TO BRUINS

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The The Chicago Blackhawks bade farewell to their home ice last night, losing their seventeenth National Hockey League game of the season to the hard driving Boston Bruins, 2 to 0, before a sellout house of 6,700 at the Coliseum.

Because future playing dates were unavailable at the Coliseum the Hawks have transferred the remainder of their home games to the Olympic at Detroit, and Buffalo. The lineup:

Chicago—3.		Boston—0.
C. Gardiner	G.	Thompson
Wentworth	R. D.	Hitchman
Taylor	L. D.	Owen
Irvin	C.	Gainer
Coture	R. W.	Clapper
Gottselig	L. W.	Oliver

Boston spares—McKay, H. Green, Roden, Delland, Dennery. Chicago spares—March, Ripley, McKinnon, Loughlin. First period—Boston 1, Owen, 9:45. Penalties—Owen, Loughlin, March. Second period—Boston 2, Gainer, 10:45. Penalty—Roden. Third period—No scoring. Penalty—Hitchman. Officials—Ritchie and Mallison, of Montreal.

MEHLHORN SETS WORLD MARK

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of New York City, established a new world record here when he won the El Paso open with a score of 271 for the 72 holes. He stroked his way 17 under par figures in his total for the four rounds. The 18-hole course is a 72 par.

The New Yorker turned in a score of 137 in the first 36 holes Saturday, and his 134 for the 36 holes Sunday gave him a total of 271. He shot remarkable golf in the last nine of his afternoon play, when he negotiated the difficult course in 31, beating par by five strokes.

In accomplishing this feat, Mehlhorn made one eagle with a long putt, four birdies, and shot two holes in par. His only bad hole was on the fifth in his first nine of his last 18-hole play. He poked on his drive, and his approach overran the green and rolled into a trap. In trying to get out he made a poor shot, and the ball stopped on the edge of the green. It took him two to hole out. He finished the first nine in 35, one under par.

Bobby Cruickshank came in second with 277; Tony Manero and Al Espinosa were tied for third place with 278; Harry Cooper was fourth with 280, and Al Watrous was next with 282.

Former Yankee Goes to Coast

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Purchase of Joe Marty, 190-pound righthanded pitcher, from the Asheville club of the South Atlantic Association, has been announced by officials of the Hollywood Pacific Coast League club.

Marty, 23 years of age, two years ago was taken to the New York Yankees spring training camp, but was found to be a bit green for the big show.

BABE RUTH WELL ON WAY TO FIRST MILLION

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Babe Ruth, once the big clay pigeon man for the great American sharpshooter, is such a sap with his money nowadays that, if he survives another five years of real stardom, he will quit baseball with a million dollars, it was declared today by the boy friend's intimate.

The latter also stood as authority for a statement that Ruth hadn't spent a dollar of his $70,000 baseball salary for the two years the contract has run and that his bank account, tied up in a trust fund, amounts to not less than $245,000. Before they got through they gave me the unfortunate impression that the young man has been spending only a lot of his time.

SAVES BASEBALL SALARY

But it seemed that I was wrong again with my customary brilliance. It was declared that he was paying $100,000 a year for the right to live and still had enough residue to send his $70,000 baseball salary along to the head keeper without a second look.

Baseball, it appears, has become only one source of revenue among many.

The so-called testimonial racket, I am told, pays almost as well and the hours are shorter. Barnstorming; pictures and vaudeville, newspaper articles and Wall street also have contributed with sufficient generosity to leave this gentleman eking out an existence from a yearly income of about $200,000, according to my trusted advisors.

Yes, the young man has had his fling in the Street and has made it pay him. Maybe it hasn't paid much, but, if they have to pay at all down there, you are a big winner.

INCOME IS VARIED

There are no blanks for Ruth in the barnstorming thing. He simply goes out there in uniform every day for 30 days after the close of the world series and they lay $1,500 on the line for him every 24 hours.

His newspaper income also is fixed and assured, thus adding a probable $25,000 to the annual harvest. Twenty weeks of vaudeville at the end of the 1927 season are said to have been worth $100,000 more and his picture venture in 1926 was good for plenty. Add to this the income derived from the fact that he simply can't get along without a number of standard articles and one finds quite a lot of wages waiting at the pay-off window.

Amateur Pomoter Prepares For Finish Fight

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Attorney T. J. McDaniel, representing Al Sandorf, local promoter, is preparing to go into the Fayette County Courts for a finish fight to determine whether the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission has the right to interfere with amateur bouts held in this district, it has been announced tonight.

McDaniel filed a suit for $10,000 damages Friday as the result of state police interference with a recent show here.

It was announced McDaniel would defer further steps in litigation, pending action by the State Legislature this week to an amendment to the boxing laws, designed to take amateur boxing out of the commission.

INJURED BOXER DIES

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—William Paul, who recently came to Ottawa from Hamilton, Ont., died yesterday from injuries received last night during a boxing bout at the Y. M. C. A. He was boxing with Chuck Agnew, Queens University, and was knocked down, striking his head violently on the floor. An operation was performed at the hospital.

POP TO TEACH COACHES

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Completion of arrangements for a football coaches' school to be conducted here August 19-31, inclusive, by Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, and Glenn (Pop) Warner, Stanford, has been announced by Southern Methodist University.

COMISH UPHOLDING LAW IN WAR WITH A. A. U.

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

A GREAT deal of fuss is being made in some quarters over the fact that the State Athletic Commission called upon the state police to halt an amateur boxing show in Uniontown a few nights ago after the local police authorities had refused to interfere. The promoter, at the instigation of the district A. A. U. authorities, has announced he will enter suit for damages against the commission, figuring his future shows, which he plans to conduct under the protection of injunctions, have been injured by the fact that the customers did not get their full program, the interruption coming during the main bout.

The quarrel between the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. and the constituted authorities of boxing in the state hinges on the amateur body's refusal to give up the 5 per cent tax and use licensed officials, as provided by the state boxing law, claiming the text of the law does not cover amateur boxing. In other words, it is challenging and flouting the law.

A. A. U. INVITES TROUBLE

The law does not specifically say that the state commission shall rule over the amateurs; however, neither does it say that the commission's authority shall not extend to the amateurs. Two bills will go before the present session of the Legislature seeking to amend the law to make it clear on this point. One will be to exclude jurisdiction over amateurs and the other to plainly include them. In defying the commission, the A. A. U., is inviting situations such as occurred at Uniontown.

The arrogance of the A. A. U., long has been a thing to marvel at. It sets itself up as the supreme dictator of amateur athletics and even seeks to tell the colleges how they may arrange their games. Now it is challenging the right of law enforcement and the precedence of a state law over its own regulations. The situation is little short of ridiculous when viewed dispassionately and stripped of misleading and beclouding statements.

MERELY ENFORCING LAW

If the amateur bouts were run for no other reason than to provide an outlet for youthful athletic ambition there might be some sympathy for the cause of the A. A. U. authorities, but it is a fact that it is the terrifying thought of yielding up to the state a percentage of the profits from the shows and tournaments that impels their stand. The A. A. U., charges admissions to its shows, pays the boxers with trophies and medals and pockets the proceeds. Shows are arranged and ballyhooed in much the same manner as professional affairs, with an eye to getting as large a "gate" as possible.

Professional promoters, boxers referees and judges are licensed by the state for the purpose of affording protection to the public, the boxers and the promoters. In return for this protection, these men are more than glad to kick in to the state in the way of taxes. Why shouldn't the rule operate the same way for the amateurs, who promote shows for profit? And why should not the commission, which is paid to enforce the law, call upon the peace authorities to enforce the law where it is challenged by the A. A. U.?

MOOSE CLUB SAVES GAME

With the calling off of the Andy Martin-Midget Mike O'Dowd show, scheduled for Motor Square Garden February 4, because of inability to get the arena arranged following the automobile show, there will be no professional boxing in the Garden until some time in April. The A. M. A., A. A. U. senior championship tournament will be held there on the only available nights, March 25-26. Were it not for the fact that Francis Flynn, of McKeesport, has jumped into the breach with his small club in the Moose Temple, down town, Pittsburgh would be in a bad way for boxing during this long stretch. And, even at that, shows cannot be run with weekly regularity, for the Moose Temple has two Friday nights booked for other affairs, which means that there will be no shows there on those nights. One of these is next Friday. Promoter Flynn now is at work on his second show, for the following week, after his great success on the opening night, last Friday, when he jammed the small auditorium and just missed the $1,800 mark in receipts at popular prices. He will have one blank week in March, but, aside from this and next Friday, is certain of running every Friday night.

STRANGLER "REFORMS"

Arriving in Philadelphia for a wrestling bout a few nights ago, Strangler Lewis, deposed heavyweight wrestling champion, made an enlightening statement. After alibiing his defeat by Gus Sonnenberg, who butted him out of the title, he said he was just as well satisfied that it had happened, because all the time he was champion he had found it necessary to be wary and to pick his opponents, while now, with the onus of defending the crown removed, he could go ahead and take on all comers in bouts all over the country and make more money.

His opponent in the Philadelphia bout was none other than Jim Clinstock. I never heard of him, either, but certainly am glad to know that the great Strangler has quit picking 'em.

GENEVA MEETS DUKES HERE TOMORROW

BY JESS CARVER.

Before going into a discussion of one or two things, the existence of which caused this article to be laboriously typed, I will take time out and give mention to the Duquesne-Geneva basketball game which is to be played here tomorrow night.

Geneva will invade Pittsburgh on the morrow leader of the Tri-State Conference, and win or lose, they'll still be leading by night. That is because they have won three games and lost none, while the Dukes and Westminster, tied for second place, have only a .500 rating. A defeat tomorrow for Geneva will give 'em a three and one standing, while the Dukes can only count two and one if they win.

You'll see a clever passing, close guarding quint in this Geneva club. Ken Loeffler was a smart player and now he is showing himself to be as smart a coach. He has some sweet ball players to work with, which always helps a lot, among them being Len Friedman, Montgomery, Ransom, Emerick and Merriman.

JIM MARKS ON DECK

But what I really want to talk about today has to do with football, football players and banquets. After attending the Pitt gridiron dinner, Saturday night, during which time Don Saunders, Max Hannum and I dodged no less than 346 poorly-aimed hank goodness olive pits, 187 half-buns, soaked in water, and about three dozen water-soaked napkins, I'm glad the season for football banquets is over.

Jim Marks, the Sage of Elder Ridge and the author of the Elder Ridge battle song was, was present, which made the evening complete. Have you ever heard the Elder Ridge song? If not, here it is. Sing it to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland."

"Oh, Elder Ridge, Oh, Elder Ridge,
I knowed you'd win, I knowed win."

Now if that is not an inspiring song, name me one of your own! Think of marching to battle to the stirring strains of such a piece. Think of twisting a foeman's ankle, or gouging the fullback's eye or giving a reclining guard the boots while the band was blaring out such music, with the maddened student body joining in lustily.

DIMEOLO ELECTION SURPRISE

The surprise of the evening was, of course, the election of Luby Dimeolo as captain for next fall. Luby will make a good leader. He is a fighter from the word go, and doesn't know when to quit. Nothing feazes him.

I remember Luby on the trip to Nebraska last fall. Coach Sutherland's psychology aids kept telling the boys how tough the Huskers were going to be and how big they were. Luby sat around making the weirdest faces you can imagine. When asked if he was suffering from the pangs of neuralgia, he replied:

"Naw, I'm fixing to scare them babies to death."

By TOM BIRKS.

Playing in a sea of mud, the Green and Gold of Heidelberg kicked in with another victory in the American League pennant race when it rode rough shod over Westinghouse, defeating the Valley team by a 4 goals to 0 score, at Heidelberg yesterday.

Manager Balsarini found time to give the Donnelli boys another workout prior to the National cup tie at Swissvale Saturday, and the Morgan combination found time to net the ball twice, while Stenzel and McCosky also figured it part of their duties to dent the net.

Westinghouse fielded its best team of the season in order to try and place its name in the race for the American League pennant, and its attempt, especially in the first part of the game, kept the cash customers well-worked up, the only score coming when Buff Donnelli hooked the ball out of Preston's reach.

The McNair boys found Villani in wonderful form, and this contribution from Morgantown to the Heidelberg ranks possibly played the best game of the season. His kicking was great and worth watching.

The second half found Heidelberg playing all kinds of tricks in the mud, and Westinghouse, with its great team, found what other clubs have found, that the Green and Gold is unbeatable on a heavy field. Preston played a great game in goal, but this did not stop Fred Donnelli from adding number two after a run, with Buff playing tag with the defense. Then Stenzel fired a hot shot in, and Clough, one of the best fullbacks in Western Pennsylvania, had the misfortune to kick the ball into his own net. Just before the finish, Johnny McCosky scored number four. That settled the scoring.

The fans had witnessed one of the best games of the season. Westinghouse played good football, but a dry field would have suited their style of play far better. The lineup:

Heidelberg 4.		Westinghouse 0.
S. Fagan	G.	Preston
Villani	R. B.	Murray
J. Fagan	C. H.	Clough
Chappell	R. H.	Walker
Mangus	C. H.	Ferguson

Kuss	O. R.	Daly
Buff Donnelli	I. R.	McNair
F. Donnelli	C.	Kinlock
McCosky	I. L.	A. McNair
Barrafoldi	O. L.	Gardner

Sharon High Grid Star Ineligible

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 21.—The new 20-year age limit ruling which was voted into effect by the state association will make John Sefrick, Sharon's star fullback, ineligible next fall. Sefrick was an all-county choice this year and was looked upon as one of the oustanding men for next season.

4,000 ATTEND AMATEUR HOCKEY GAMES

A CROWD of 4,000 or more watched two interesting West Penn Amateur Hockey League battles in Duquesne Garden yesterday afternoon when the Yellow Jackets of Roy Schooley whipped the DeMolay sextet, 2 to 0, and the Duquesne Garden Hornets tripped the Blawnox icemen, 3 to 0. No admission was charged.

By defeating the Blawnox club, the Hornets went into first place in the league standing, having won three games and remaining undefeated, while Blawnox now is tied with the Yellow Jackets in the runner-up position.

The Yellow Jackets engage the Philadelphia Company in another league game on Duquesne Garden ice at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The lineups of yesterday's games:

Jackets—2.		DeMolay—0.
Donnelly	G.	Ross

Bo Won't Quit Job Until He Makes Good

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Bo McMillin's home town university, Texas Christian U., will be without his services as head football coach this year only because the all-America Centre College star refused to quit a job until he had made good on it.

Acceptance of the post also would have brought McMillin back to his young son, who is being reared by a sister here, but he refused the proferred post because he will not feel that he has made good at the Kansas State Agricultural College.

"The only reason Bo did not accept our proposition," Dan Rogers, chairman of the T. C. U. athletic committee, said today, "was because he did not want to quit his job at K. S. A. C. without making good there. He isn't a quitter and I believe he would pass up the best job on earth rather than run the chance of someone saying he threw up the sponge."

ALEXANDER 'INT.' LEAGUE SWAT KING

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Standing out in radiant splendor in the hitting feats of the International League, Dale Alexander, new Tiger firstsacker, who played the sack for Toronto last season, amassed the tremendous total of 400 bases, according to the official batting averages of the league, which were made known today.

A right-hand hitter, the star clouter played in 169 games and hit for a percentage of .380 to lead the circuit.

SOUTHWORTH SECOND

Alexander led the league in hitting, in total bases, in total hits, 256; in two-base hits, 49; in home runs, 31, and in runs batted in, 145.

Billy Southworth, new manager of the Cardinals, who managed the Rochester champions before reaching his present post, was the second best hitter in the league, with a mark of .361 in 124 games.

TICE IS LEADER

The nominal leader of the league is a Pittsburgh boy. George Tice, who played with the sandlot clubs of this district, took part in 12 games for the Montreal club and swung a .555 bat.

Another feature performer at the plate was Tony Kaufmann, erstwhile Cub pitcher, who turned outfielder after joining the minor-league brigade.

Tony was one of Billy Southworth's aces, he taking part in games on the mound as well as in the garden. In 55 contests, Tony compiled a batting average of .402. On the strength of his performance he has been purchased by the Giants for outfield duty.

Well, anyhow, it's almost a sure bet that anybody missing, signals at second for the Giants this year will answer to the name of Andy.

Missing signs is said to be one of the big causes of Frisch's removal from the McGraw household. A member of this family must be on guard always.

Hornsby didn't miss any signals, but he missed the ball plenty as he tried to replace Frisch at second.

It's going to be hard for the Yank runners to beat Nurmi, although any Philly outfielder should be able to outrun him. They get more practice than any other athletes.

Vic Aldridge's name is missing from National League rosters for the first time in many years. Somebody ought to take Vic's holdout spotlight just to keep interest from waning along about the middle of the training season.

MORRYS, MANGANS BATTLE FOR LEAD TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

WHAT looms as one of the most important games of the season is scheduled at the South Side Market House tonight when the Morrys, of Braddock, clash with the Mangans in a battle for the top position in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League.

The Braddock passers at present are showing the way to all rivals by a margin of a half game, and must win tonight to retain that slim advantage. Should the South Siders defeat Max Berkowitz's passers the popular South Siders will take undisputed possession of first place, while the Morrys will drop to second place, tied with the Conleys of Homestead with seven victories and four defeats each.

HAD POOR START

The Mangans got off to a poor start in the first half of the race, but are making a strong comeback, having won their last six games. They are reported determined to register their seventh in a row tonight and if their recent showing means anything they stand an excellent chance of adding the Morrys to their list of victims.

Tonight's game is the first of the three important ones carded this week, winding up the first half of the schedule. Every one of the games will have a big bearing on determining the winner of the title. Wednesday night the Morrys meet the Greenfield Club at Braddock, while Thursday Greenfield will entertain the Conleys.

The second half of the Allegheny County League race gets under way tonight with the Rauhs in Duquesne to meet the Champion Lafayettes and the Goldensons at Columbus Temple to engage the Miele-Franchinas.

While the Duquesne Lafayettes enjoyed comparatively easy sailing during the first half of the race, winning nine out of 10 games, the champions likely will find the going somewhat tougher during the second round, as most of the teams now are showing mid-season form.

Inasmuch as all clubs enrolled in the league are bent on improving their showing, the second half of the race is expected to produce a number of thrilling games for the league supporters.

Another game has been added to the exhibition schedule of the Cleveland Rosenblums, who are appearing in Western Pennsylvania this week. John J. Freund, Jr., local representative of the Cleveland club, has closed negotiations with a professional club in Columbus, O., for a game next Sunday.

The Rosies started their tour in Cumberland yesterday, winning from the Caseys, 40-32. Tonight they play in Altoona, tomorrow in Homestead and Wednesday at the South Side Market House against the Goldensons. The battle with the South Siders is expected to draw a record-breaking crowd to the Market House.

DRIBBLES

Chick Hood, star guard of the Reliance Life team, has deserted the Allegheny County Leaguers for a berth with the Greenfield Club of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley loop. Hood's presence in the Greenfield lineup should bolster that team for the second-half race.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association has made preparations to handle a large crowd at its gym tomorrow night when its basketball team opposes the crack Johnstown Y. M. H. A. in the first of a two-game series. A return game will be played in Johnstown later in the season. Last year the two teams split even.

The Mangans of the South Side have registered Slentz to play center for them in the P. & O. League. The newcomer hails from Clairton and appears to be a real star.

PITT, BUCKEYES MEET IN THREE SPORTS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—The Ohio State University athletic schedule for the year 1929, which has been announced, discloses that the Buckeye athletic relationship with the University of Pittsburgh is getting closer and closer each year.

The Panthers and Buckeyes will meet in three different sports in the ensuing year and each engagement is expected to be a headline attraction.

On May 9, the Pitt tennis team will come here for a match with the Ohio skaters. Ohio expects to have a fine net team this spring and this should be a feature match.

April 20 finds Coach Frank Shea's track outfit making an appearance in a dual meet with Dr. Castleman's cinder artists. Ohio boasted of its greatest track team in history last spring and many lettermen are returning this year. Wesley Fesler, all-America end, who is a mighty good pole vaulter and high jumper, will likely make the Panthers hustle.

Two weeks after the dual track meet with the Buckeyes, the Pitt team comes back to Columbus, this time to compete in the sixth annual Ohio relays.

The biggest attraction is the football game between the Buckeyes and Panthers on November 2, at Pittsburgh. This is the first meeting between the schools on the gridiron and with Sam Willaman as head coach at Ohio, succeeding Dr. John W. Wilce, who resigned, a new era in Ohio State football is looked for by Buckeye followers.

The Ohio State rifle team has a telegraphic meet scheduled with the Carnegie Tech marksmen, February 23.

St. Francis Beats St. Vincent's, 50-23

LORETTO, Pa., Jan. 1.—St. Francis College trimmed its old rival here yesterday afternoon when St. Vincent's was defeated by a 50-23 score. The visitors were unable to keep up with a strong local attack with all the home team having a big day in the scoring records. The lineup:

St. Francis—50.		St. Vincent—23.
Van Qun	F.	Campbell
Small	F.	Ross
Sullivan	C.	Westfall
Abels	G.	Suzanski
Kupzler	G.	Yankovitch

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

the status of Bill Regan, Brookline boy, as a regular of the Boston lineup will be affected.

Manager Bill Carrigan has made it clear, by refusing to consider any trade proposals involving Regan, that he means to keep the Brooklyn citizen at second base the coming season. Rhyne is slated for utility roles and as a possible candidate for the shortstop job, at which position most big league men consider him much better than at second base.

Miller Huggins

DONIE BUSH isn't the only major league skipper who finds it advisable to try out a flock of new pitchers on this year's training trip, with a view to bolstering his slab staff. Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, appears to feel that the world champions also are going to need some bracing in that department. Among the 37 players to be taken South by the Yankee pilot are 15 pitchers, and of these many are new addition to the roster, including the following: Lee Craig, from Oklahoma City; Gordon Rhodes, from Hollywood; Roy Sherid, from Montreal; Fay Thomas, former Giant, from Oklahoma City; Floyd Van Pelt, from Montgomery, and Ed Wells, former Tiger, from Birmingham. Wells is a Bethany College product. He went to the majors first in 1923.

Trade, Stocks, Money
Form Triangle:
Two Sides Ok.

—By B. C. FORBES—

AMERICA'S economic situation has resolved itself into a triangle: Business, stock speculation, the money market.

Business is sound and doing well. Stock speculation is distinctly less sound, but is also doing well. The money market is not doing so well.

INDUSTRY and general business exhibit impressive vitality. Little or nothing is heard of serious unemployment; it, therefore, looks as if we will get through the winter without a repetition of last year's experience. Most, though not all, of our principal industries, are reasonably prosperous with some improvement indicated among the laggards.

Steel is the star performer. The automobile industry is a close rival. Building, too, continues active, though with moderate recessions here and there. Railway car loadings are running ahead of last year and two years ago. Bank clearings, which used to be a dependable yardstick, show enormous expansion, but they have become rather meaningless, owing to the abnormal turnover created in stock speculation.

RETAIL trade reports are somewhat spotty, as is not unusual. The weather is an influencing factor, in some sections it has been unreasonably warm, in others extremely cold. The feature in retailing continues to be the rapid expansion of mail order and chain store sales, particularly the latter. Accompanying this is a decrease in jobbing and wholesaling establishments.

It is perhaps significant that trade is less prosperous in necessities than in luxuries and semi-luxuries. Apparently many who have fared well in the stock market are treating themselves to things which would not have come within their normal earning capacity.

AS stated here before the end of the year, the bulls laid plans to renew their aggressive activities after the year-end monetary demands had subsided. They thought it prudent to lie low in December. When the market suffered its swift and severe setback, they did not fight furiously to uphold it. They were favorably impressed, however, by the absence of the tremendous public liquidation.

More recently they have become somewhat more aggressive. The action of the money market has been more or less of a restraining influence, but the drop in the call rate in Wall Street to 6 per cent toward the end of the week gave them fresh courage.

The indications are that they will succeed in carrying the recovery further. Indeed, they are talking more confidently than ever. And, admittedly, the opposition to a renewed advance has not been overwhelming. Nearly everybody, seemingly, believes that quotations will be carried substantially, not to say, sensationally higher.

The market has been proving an excellent one for speculators. There has been no dearth of quickly-moving stocks. Outsiders can put their money on certain issues in the almost sure knowledge that prices will go either up sharply or down sharply. In fact, the more speculative issues have been doing both with extraordinary suddenness—moving half a dozen or half a score points in both directions inside of one day.

But not many thoughtful authorities look upon the stocks most prominently in the limelight as attractive investments at current levels.

That view is thoroughly shared by the writer. Some day the movement will be thrown into reverse, and a good many people may find themselves violently jolted from seats they had come to regard as delightfully safe and comfortable.

THE third side of the triangle inspires less cheerfulness. The state of the money market has become worse rather than better.

Brokers' loans have again increased sharply. Also, the increase last week in the charge for bankers' acceptances is ominous. So, too, is the raising of the price of time money to 7½% in many issues.

Bankers are less cocksure than most bull speculators are that an advance in the federal reserve rediscount rate in the near future is entirely beyond the possible. While it is true that the manipulators paid no attention to earlier increases in the re-discount rate, it does not necessarily follow that they will again prove able to nullify such restrictive action by the financial powers that be.

THE ratio of brokers' loans to the total stock market values has again reached the traditional warning-point.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Prices in the cotton market opened at a decline of 7 to 9 points under selling and liquidation or local selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. March eased off to 20.09c and July to 19.76c during the first few minutes, or about 14 points lower, but this decline seemed to bring in some trade buying as well as covering and prices steadied up lated on rumors of bullish private ginning figures. March advanced to 20.13c and July to 20.82c with the market steady although prices still showed net declines of 4 to 6 points at the end of the first half hour.

Private cables reported London and Manchester liquidation in a dull market at Liverpool but said Manchester was optimistic with a fair demand for cloth and yarns.

The rally from the opening decline carried the market up to 20.22c for March and 19.84c for July or back to about yesterday's closing quotations. There was some trade buying as well as covering on a bullish view of a private report estimating the ginnings to January 16 at 13,685,267 bales. Demand tapered off on the advance, however, and the market was quiet late in the morning with prices at midday showing setbacks of 4 or 5 points from the best.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Turn Irregular — Plate Glass Sells Higher

DROP IN STEEL TURNS STOCKS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A drop of 5 points in U. S. Steel unsettled speculative sentiment on the stock market today, and price trends turned sharply irregular. Coppers, merchandising shares and some of the rails, however, made substantial progress.

The drop in steel was regarded as a natural result of the sharp rise of more than 20 points in late sessions of last week, but it upset the plans for the present, at least, of those who were looking for another major bull movement under its leadership.

There was little in the day's news to affect the market, but the uncertainties surrounding the credit situation, overlooked during the vigorous bidding up of selective issues late last week, again were viewed with misgivings. It was pointed out that brokers' loans, only about $10,000,000 below their record figure early last week, are now undoubtedly at a new high for all time.

Continuance of a 6 per cent rate for call money encouraged a generaly steadying of the market around midday, but announcement that one dealer had further increased his rates for bankers' acceptances marred the credit outlook. Time money held firm.

COPPERS RISE

Anaconda led the coppers with an advance of more than 5 points to a new high at 127¼. Kennecott mounted about 3 points, and Calumet and Hecla improved on declaration of another quartely dividend of $1. It rose 4 points to 58, only to fall back to 53.

A 17-cent price for domestic copper is expected this week, and numerous rumors of important mergers went the rounds.

Dupont was a high flier, spurting ahead 20 points to 570, which is 220 points above the low of last year. Motor products went ahead nearly 10 points.

Rails were stimulated by a report from Washington that the Senate may act on the railway consolidation bill unless too much time is taken on the cruiser bill. Chicago Great Western preferred mounted 4 points to 53, the highest price in many years. Erie approached its previous high with a gain of more than 2 points, and New Haven touched 88¾, the highest price since 1915. Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific, and Chesapeake and Ohio moved up 2 points and more.

BYERS ADVANCES

Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Real Silk Hosiery, Commercial Investment Trust, A. M. Byers and National Bellas Hess went ahead 4 to 5 points. Skelly Oil improved on reports that the Fisher interests, also interested in Sinclair, would be given representation on the board. Studebaker touched 91, the highest in five years.

National Cash Register made a gain of more than 4 points, only to cancel it. Wright Aero, Chrysler, Radio and Allied Chemical fell back 3 to 4 points, and New York Central, American Can, International Telephone and Bordens were among issues losing 2 points or more.

Miller, Grogan To Fight Feb. 1

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Ray Miller, one of the outstanding challengers for the lightweight crown of Sammy Mandell, and Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, who 10 days ago met in a bout which Miller won by a knockout in the fourth round, have been matched for another meeting here February 1, it has been announced.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Little change was made in the prices of fruit and vegetable at the local wholesale produce district. The demand was fair.

The poultry market was rather weak, with the demand fair, supplies liberal and quotations unchanged.

Car lot supplies were liberal, a total of 615 cars being on track. Arrivals included 27 cars of apples, 21 cabbage, 19 celery, 4 grapefruits, 2 grapes, 8 lemons, 19 lettuce, 13 onions, 24 oranges, 2 peas, 6 spinach, 2 turnips, 3 kale, 3 chicory, 1 parsnips, 21 potatoes, 11 sweet potatoes, 1 tomatoes, 1 parsley, 6 cauliflower and 8 turnips.

PROFIT SHOWN FOR YEAR BY PGH. COAL

By GEORGE B. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh Coal Company has established its operations on a profitable basis in spite of the fact that average prices received from the sale of coal are lower than in any year since 1916. In the last quarter of 1928 net earnings of $487,186 were shown after all charges except federal taxes had been paid.

THIS was made known in connection with the offering by the Union Trust Company and the Mellon National Bank of $20,000,000 of Pittsburgh Coal Company 20-year, 6 per cent sinking fund debenture gold bonds, dated February 1, 1929, at 100 and accrued interest.

IN 1928 a profit was shown before interest and taxes for the first time since 1924. Net earnings after depletion and depreciation for the year were $469,472. This compared with a deficit of $1,222,813 in 1927.

EARNINGS for the year were somewhat less than total interest requirements on the funded debt, which bears out the prediction made in this column that the annual report will show a loss after all charges.

THE proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used for the redemption of the outstanding 5 per cent debenture bonds aggregating $1,746,500, for the payment of indebtedness incurred in modernizing the plants and for improvements.

IN the past four years $12,000,000 has been invested in electrical equipment, cleaning plants and the improvement of mining towns. A special fund of $3,000,000 has been set aside from the bond issue to provide for further improvements. Three modern cleaning plants are in operation. With the completion of a fourth cleaning plant early this year, 60 per cent of the output in Pennsylvania will be prepared and cleaned for market in the most modern manner.

WITH the completion of the present financing, the company will have a total funded debt of $8,286,000 against physical properties of $134,542,002. The present financing and the plans indicated for the improvement of the company's operating and marketing position definitely put an end to the repeated rumors that a portion of the physical assets are to be sold.

CHAIRMAN W. G. WARDEN states:

"The Pittsburgh Coal Company owns 168,013 acres of high grade bituminous coal, 88 per cent of which is in the Pittsburgh district of Pennsylvania. This acreage contains a substantial portion of the unmined reserves of the celebrated Youghiogheny gas and by-product coal of this field. The company also owns the Montour Railroad, Pittsburgh, Lisbon and Western Railroad, steamboats and steel barges on the Ohio River, and fueling docks and storage docks on the Great Lakes. The company has 22 producing mines with present average daily output of 45,000 tons. An extensive program of modernization of facilities, which was started in 1925, is nearly completed, effecting substantial operating economies and a notably superior mechanically cleaned product. The company has adopted the open shop policy with its labor at all plants with marked success.

"The consolidated balance sheet of the company as of December 31, 1928, after giving effect to this financing shows net assets of $135,562,467 after all indebtedness and all reserves, including depletion and depreciation. Current assets, not including $3,000,000 set aside in special fund for further improvements, amount to $21,695,386, or 6½ times current liabilities of $3,311,895.

"Consolidated earnings after depreciation for the 10 years 1919-1928 averaged $3,309,190 per annum, or more than 2.13 times the annual interest charges on the funded debt.

"Beginning with 1924, conditions in the coal industry were decidedly unfavorable and earnings declined sharply. In the five years 1924-1928 the average loss after all charges, but before interest on debt and federal taxes, amounted to $345,970 per annum. The loss was greatest in 1926, since which year there has been steady improvement. Notable progress was made month by month during 1928."

THE bonds are free of Pennsylvania 4 mill tax and are subject to redemption at 105 and accrued interest in whole or in part for sinking fund on any interest date upon four weeks' notice. Provision is made for a sinking fund of $500,000 payable each December 1, from 1929 to 1931, both inclusive, thereafter 7 cents per ton for each ton of run of mine coal mined payable each December 1, except 1948, the minimum payment to be $1,100,000 whether any coal is mined or not. Sinking fund minimum payments increase 10 per cent if bonds in excess of the amount to be presently issued are authenticated. The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh is trustee.

Fall from Scaffold Fatal to Worker

A fracture of the skull suffered Saturday when he fell from a scaffold while at work in the plant of the Rust Engineering Company, McKees Rocks, caused the death yesterday in the Ohio Valley Hospital of Albert Ferris, 21, 504 West Ohio avenue, Coraopolis, according to the coroner's report.

DRINKING LEADS IN AUTO BANS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Driving while intoxicated has constituted the chief cause for withdrawal of operating licenses of motorists in Pennsylvania for the last five years, statistics of the Department of Highways reveal.

A total of 3,904 drivers' permits were revoked last year and of that number 1,592 were charged with drunkenness. In addition, 48 others faced charges in addition to intoxication, making a total of 1,640 withdrawals for that cause.

During the preceding four years the precentages of licenses recalled for drunken driving either nearly equalled or excelled one-half of the total withdrawals. Prior to 1924 the withdrawals were not classified as to cause.

Ten years ago when theautomobile was beginning its climb to the plane it occupies today, a law providing revocation of the operating licenses of violators of the motor laws was passed by the legislature. During that year 1919, there were 10 revocations.

Only six years before that first revocation penalty went into effect, the original motor code was enacted. From that time on the "horseless carriage" ceased to be a curiosity.

Germany Prepares For Stinnes Trial

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The public prosecutor has forwarded to the Berlin provincial court a complete record of the charges against Hugo Stinnes, Jr., and others, with a demand that Stinnes be tried by jury for "attempted frauds upon the state." The trial will be held probably in March.

The charge asserts that Stinnes placed large sums at the disposal of his private secretary, Von Waldow, with which the latter bought German empire war loan securities in London, later to be registered here as having been in unchanged ownership since before the German revolution.

Couple Beats Taxi Driver, Steals Car

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 21.—After taking a man and woman to Pittsburgh from here, Ralph Danley, 30, driver for the Central Taxi Company, was attacked and beaten unconscious at McGovern, five miles north of here, and robbed of his automobile and $20.

The young couple threw Danley along the roadside and drove away.

Weather Conditions.

A high pressure area centered over the central plains yesterday morning, and which produced low temperatures over the Plains states, moved rapidly eastward yesterday and last night. This morning it is centered over the Middle Atlantic coast. The barometer is falling rapidly over Ohio and Western Pennsylvania due to a disturbance which appears to be developing over that section. It is causing cloudy weather over the Ohio valley and Lake region, and rain in Tennessee. Low pressure is centered in the Southwest and in the Northwest, with a high over the Plateau section. The precipitation for the last 24 hours was light and was limited to the southern states and to the far Northwest. The temperature is about normal or slightly above over most of the country.

River Conditions.

The rivers are now falling throughout the district. The highest stage reached at Pittsburgh was 23.2 feet at noon Sunday. Stage at Pittsburgh this morning is 21.2 feet; Dam No. 2, 15.5, and Dam No. 6, 20.3. At Wheeling the stage is about 27.0 feet on the old race. The rivers will continue to fall.

Husband Held on Wife's Accusation

Instead of money to support the family, Elmer Cassidy, of 1008 North Lang avenue, gave her beatings, Mrs. Loretta Cassidy, 29, testified in Morals Court today. Cassidy was turned over to Desertion and Non-Support Court.

OBITUARY

Lewis Hill Funeral.

Funeral services for Lewis Hill, 60, professor of English at Peabody High School, who died Saturday at West Penn Hospital, will be held at 4 p. m. today in Moreland's Chapel, North Highland avenue and Rippey street. Burial will take place tomorrow from the home of his sister, Miss Bertha M. Hill, in Ottawa, Ill. Mr. Hill was born in 1869 in Ottawa, where he attended public school. After graduating from University of Michigan in 1891, Mr. Hill took post graduate courses at the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, University of Michigan, University of Syracuse and University of Louisville, attaining a master's degree at the latter institution. Mr. Hill also studied at Heidelberg, in Germany, and at Grenoble, in France. Before coming to Peabody High School, Mr. Hill taught in Ottawa, Ill., and in Louisville, Ky. Besides his sister in Ottawa, he leaves another sister, Mrs. William Hoccinger, and a brother, Dr. Frank A. Hill, both of Chicago.

William R. Smith.

William Roberts Smith, 76, retired veteran of 52 years' service with the West Penn division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died Sunday afternoon at Laketon, Fla. He was a member of the Sons of Veterans, Heptasophs, Pennsylvania Railroad Veterans' Association and the Presbyterian Church. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Alma Huntley Smith, of Laketon; a daughter, Mrs. Harry B. Conner, of Aspinwall, and a son, Bert H. Smith, of Brookline.

George Wirt Say.

George Wirt Say, 44, of 514 Hervey street, Mt. Oliver, died Thursday in his home. His wife, Henrietta Dietz Say, one daughter, and his parents survive him. Mr. Say was a member of Monongahela Lodge, No. 269, F. & A. M.; Good Cheer Council, No. 96, Jr. O. U. A. M.; Ancient Order of United Workmen, Union Lodge, No. 86; director of Knoxville and Mt. Oliver Building and Loan Association and the Knoxville Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Emma E. Young.

Mrs. Emma Elizabeth Young, widow of Samuel Young, died Saturday at her home, 1309 Sheridan avenue. She was born in Wood street, April 5, 1853, the daughter of John W. and Elizabeth Schaffer Tim. Her father was one of the pioneer businessmen and bankers of Pittsburgh. The family moved in 1856 to property adjoining Highland Park. The home in which she died is on part of the old homestead. Mrs. Young married Samuel Young in 1877, her husband having been founder and president of the Young Mahood Company. She had been a member of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church for the last 44 years. She leaves these children: Mrs. William J. Williams, Mrs. John Paul Cameron, Jr., Mrs. Harry Bynon Patterson, Mrs. T. Chalmers Duff and John W. Young; a brother, John G. Tim, and five grandchildren.

4 Robbers Hold Up Brooklyn Theater

The four men purchased tickets at the door of the State Theater, one of Brooklyn's largest movie houses, and went to the balcony where the manager's office is located. When Irving Berman, the manager, appeared with the money in a box they held him up and escaped through a side entrance.

NO. 6.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the Pittsburgh Railways Company the right to enter upon, use and occupy Thirteenth street, between Liberty avenue and Etna street, for the purpose of constructing, operating and maintaining transmission lines to carry and transmit electric power for the operation of its cars, subject to the terms and conditions herein set forth.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall have the right and they are hereby authorized to enter upon, use and occupy Thirteenth street, between Liberty avenue and Etna street, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a transmission line on both the easterly and westerly sides of Thirteenth street aforesaid, to carry and transmit electric power for the operation of its cars.

SECTION 2. Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, is authorized to erect, maintain and use such posts, poles and other supports, and such wires and cables and all other connections and appliances necessary for that purpose, and commonly used with an overhead electric transmission system, subject, however, to the provisions of an ordinance approved February 25, 1890, entitled "A General Ordinance relating to the entry upon, over or under, the use or occupation of any street, lane or alley, or any part thereof, for any purpose, by passenger or street railway companies, or by companies operating passenger or street railways, and providing reasonable regulations pertaining thereto, for the public convenience and safety."

SECTION 3. The rights and privileges herein granted shall continue for a period not to exceed fifty (50) years from and after the acceptance of this ordinance by the Pittsburgh Railways Company; provided, however, that the right is hereby reserved to the city to cause the removal of said poles and transmission lines, at the cost of the Railways Company, its lessees, successors and assigns, at any time when the City Council by proper Resolution or Ordinance shall direct such removal.

SECTION 4. This ordinance shall be accepted by the Pittsburgh Railways Company within 60 days after its passage or approval by a Certificate of Acceptance of all the conditions and provisions thereof. The said certificate shall be executed under the corporate seal of the company, duly attested by the President or Vice President, and the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary thereof, and filed with the Controller of the City.

SECTION 5. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

NO. 22.

AN ORDINANCE — Establishing the grade of Leath way, from Hobart street to a point distant 220.96 feet southwardly therefrom.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the grade of the east line of Leath way, from Hobar street to a point distant 220.96 feet southwardly therefrom shall be and the same is hereby established as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING on the south curb line of Hobart street at an elevation of 377.72 feet (curb as set); thence falling at the rate of 1% for the distance of 130.0 feet to a point at an elevation of 376.42 feet; thence falling at the rate of 5% for the distance of 90.96 feet to a point distant 220.96 feet southwardly from the south curb line of Hobart street at an elevation of 374.60 feet.

SECTION 2. That any ordinance or part

BUGS BAER Says

ALL towns will be interested in New York's efforts to make jay-walking punishable by amendments.

It is the general idea among traffic engineers that all pedestrians should be treated as spies.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Still, they cannot make walking a crime provided that you can prove you were wearing your own shoes at the time.

"I tried your stagger plan, and was arrested for intoxication."

Mrs. Sam Dink wrote in:

"My husband went out for a walk last Monday and came home dangling on the crane of a wrecking car."

When interviewed in an endowed bed in the emergency ward of the hospital, Mr. Kerblatt said:

Walking is not a crime, yet.

The Kellogg-Briand treaty reduces the cruising radius of ambitious ankle excursionists. We were seriously thinking of joining the Army just to take a legal stroll.

There is still a wire-walker in the Ringling Circus. But he is taking bicycle lessons.

The old proverb about fools rushing in where angels fear to tread was written about city traffic.

When the fool leaves one side of the street he is an angel before he gets to the other.

GOOD MORNING, MISTER ZIP, ZIP, ZIP!

This week we continue our national broadcast of "The Bottle, or the Drunkard's Children," as etched by Mr. Cruikshank. Plate VII. shows a deplorable situation. Little Willebrandt, lower right, has a toothache. Mama and papa fight over the bottle, both, of course, being anxious to see what is good for a toothache. The bottle falls to the floor and breaks. Its contents drip down from apartment to apartment. The neighbors rush thirstily in and find that mama has fainted from grief. Then papa resorts to profanity and is arrested for impersonating a traffic officer.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

It Is Oddie's Duty to Name Senators He Charges Are Forming Filibuster to Defeat Naval Replacement Bill

SENATOR ODDIE, of Nevada, charges that a group of senators whom he does not name is organizing a filibuster to prevent a vote at the short session of Congress upon the naval replacement bill now pending in the Senate.

This bill authorizes the building of fifteen 10,000-ton cruisers and one aircraft carrier to take the place of ships long since obsolete.

An unofficial poll of the Senate shows that 68 senators are in favor and only 18 senators against the passage of this bill. And of the senators listed in opposition to it, it is believed that not more than 12 would be willing on a roll call to vote against the bill in open Senate.

To filibuster this bill to defeat would continue indefinitely the crippled condition to which our navy has been reduced since the Republican party entered power in 1921.

It is the neglect of Congress, under control of the Republican party, which makes the building of 15 modern cruisers and one aircraft carrier necessary at this time. Congress has not been maintaining our navy since the Republican party entered power after the great war.

Now the President and the Secretary of the Navy, the General Board of the Navy and all our naval experts agree that our navy is urgently in need of new cruisers to take the place of old ones.

Nearly a year ago the House passed this bill by a vote of 5 to 1. And a poll of the Senate shows that the Senate is ready to pass this bill by an overwhelming majority if only senators get the opportunity to vote upon it before adjournment.

Under these circumstances it is the duty, as we believe, of Senator Oddie to tell the American people forthwith the name of each and every senator whom he charges is now organizing a filibuster to prevent this bill from coming to a vote.

Here is one of those legislative proposals where "all artifice is out of place."

Here is a legislative proposal involving our national security. To put that in jeopardy is to jeopardize alike our independence and our honor as a nation.

And let us not forget that the responsibility for bringing the naval replacement bill to vote in the Senate before the present session adjourns rests squarely upon the shoulders of the Republican leaders of the Senate.

This bill would have passed the Senate before the Christmas recess if the Republican leaders of that body had not displaced it with their feeble imitation of the League of Nations—the Kellogg-Briand treaty.

And for that displacement these leaders gave in return their promise that the naval replacement bill should be brought to a vote after the Kellogg-Briand treaty was out of the way.

It is the Republican party that is responsible today to the American people for the surrender of American supremacy on the seven seas. We had that when the Republican party came into power eight years ago. We have lost it under the leadership of the Republican party. And our navy is now a second-rate navy and will soon be in third place unless Congress begins to build it up.

If the naval replacement bill is filibustered to defeat at the present session, the blame for that disaster will lie with the Republican party. Because its leaders in the Senate can bring that bill to a vote whenever they really try to bring it to a vote.

Democratic senators are ready to join with Republican senators to authorize the building of 15 modern cruisers and one aircraft carrier without delay and to authorize also the necessary appropriation. All that they are waiting for is a chance to vote their convictions on this measure.

If the Republican leaders of the Senate do not give them that chance the people should elect enough Democratic senators to change the leadership.

Livingston Case a Farce Before Our Service Board

It is evident that Murray G. Livingston, deposed as chief spector of weights and measures, "for the good of the serve," as stated by Mayor Kline in his dismissal of Livingston, ill receive no aid from the Civil Service Commission. The aring on his appeal, grudgingly granted after the commison had exempted the position from civil service jurisdiction, pening the way for Mayor Kline to fire Livingston again, was othing but a farce.

The commission refused to permit development of the inuiry along lines that would indicate in what specific way ivingston had failed to perform his duties "for the good of ie service." It just accepted a phrase as sufficient reason and ppeared to be positively afraid to allow any light to be shed pon the matter at all.

Of course, the commission knows, as the public knows, hat the reason Livingston was fired was because he had permitted it to become known that Mayor Kline had resorted to etty political revenge in ordering the ousting of a man under ivingston who would not take his political orders.

The commission, with a laudable show of real principle, estored the man to his job, but it is quite evident that it exausted all of its courage in that one stand. After deciding nce that political service had no bearing on public service, it ow ridiculously tries to maintain the same attitude while balkng every attempt to have Mayor Kline come into the open nd make a specific charge against Livingston.

With the record established in this matter before it, the ublic can only regard the Civil Service Commission, so-called, s nothing but a time-serving, pay-drawing body of little use the public or the public servant.

Rockefellers Give While Living

There's a Difference.

The Rockefeller gifts to public purposes during 1928 ...aled $30,000,000, not counting real estate costing $100,... by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for a musical ... New York City. The Rockefellers' thirty gifts for 1928 were exceeded by the late ...yne Whitney's bequests of $45,000,000 to various charities.

The Rockefellers give their money away while they are ive, and there is a difference. An ancient Jewish saying ten quoted by Nathan Straus goes: "What you give in health gold, in sickness, silver, after death lead."

In all, John D. Rockefeller and his son John D., Jr., have ven to the public in gifts outright and "foundations" holding gantic sums permanently devoted to public purposes close to ie thousand million dollars.

If any family had to have so much money, Providence ems to have chosen the family well.

In their scientific work for the public health alone, here nd in other countries, the Rockefellers have earned at least) times all the money they ever had—and not merely in gurative terms, but in actual value.

If the Rockefeller Institute succeeds, as doubtless it will, wiping out yellow fever forever, it will have saved billions money, endless lives.

Paper From Cornstalks

Important to Farmers and Publishers.

Recently Messrs. Ramsay and O'Bannion printed their ipton Daily Tribune on excellent news paper made from ornstalks. The Tipton Tribune is first in Indiana and the econd in the world to use the cornstalk paper. The Commerial News, of Danville, Ill., used it first.

These newspapers are to be congratulated on their enterrise, that may render great service to bigger, SLOWER newsapers, and to farmers.

The Tipton Tribune is to be congratulated on setting a ood example to bigger and richer newspapers. Everything as to be tried for the first time.

Enough cornstalks are wasted every year to print many ig newspapers, and save thousands of acres of wood. Also, hich is more important, the use of cornstalks for white paper ight help the farmers. The only way to help the farmers is make the farms MORE PROFITABLE.

But you can help EVERYBODY by utilizing to the full he value of his labor.

Tales That Are Told

Modern Methods

MUDDLECOMBE was one of the very latest model villages and all the houses were brand new.

A prospective resident was being shown over a small "old-world cottage" she hoped to buy by a very enthusiastic estate agent.

The agent consulted his plan of the first floor. Then he looked up quickly.

"Oh, you provide that yourself!" he answered blandly. "Any really good shop will sell you a combination kitchenette and dining table."

No Need

A WOMAN had bought a new piano and was proudly displaying it to a friend. This friend knew that the woman, being of a somewhat frugal disposition, never had a fire lit in the room in which the piano was, and she therefore advised the piano owner to have a fire occasionally to prevent the instrument being damaged by dampness.

"Oh," exclaimed the other, "we don't need a fire. You see, we've put the piano against the wall where our neighbor's fireplace is."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

FOR some reason or other they keep right on buying things at the Stock Exchange, no matter what happens to 'em. Some guys lose all they got, and then come back after more punishment.

Well, there was a fellow that was a good church member, and he had had hard luck in Wall street. He was talking to the minister the next Sunday about sin, and he says, "By the way, Reverend, is there anything wrong about playing a little with Wall street?"

"Oh, about thirty thousand bucks. I ain't got any more just yet."

"Why, I reckon it's mighty wrong to play with Wall street—anyhow, the way you do it."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ARE you possessed by secret fear which constantly drains you of strength and pride?

Do you envy "brave" people?

Yes? Then perhaps this letter will interest you:

"DEAR ELSIE ROBINSON:

"I want to tell you how much I like your column. The attribute I admire most is bravery. The first thing that comes to my mind when I think of you is the word 'brave,' and that is the reason I admire you so tremendously.

"All my life, Elsie, I have been afraid. To use your own words, I have not been able to 'stand the gaff.' 'What people will think' has been my whole trouble. It has crippled my life. I try to say to myself that I don't care, but I do care. I am 25 years old and I could be so happy if only I wasn't haunted by cowardice. Oh, Elsie, I want so much to be brave. Do you think that when one has had a habit of wrong thinking for years they can learn the right way again? ALICE."

So you're afraid? And you envy me my "courage."

Well, I admit a reputation for courage is a fine thing to have. And it isn't as difficult to acquire as you think. Take me, for instance. I'm nearly six feet tall, I have a spunky line, a snappy walk, an indomitable eye and a general TNT personality. If anyone were to be cast for the role of Heroic Hannah I'd be picked. But there's the truth.

I am not brave.

All my life I have been afraid.

I am afraid of people.

When I have a fight to fight I want to run away.

When I am confronted with the necessity of making some change—I grow actually sick with fear and bewilderment.

I am naturally as craven a coward as ever lived.

Yet I walk nonchalantly through life, whistling through my teeth, thumbing my nose at fate and not one of my friends ever suspects my condition.

I do this because, although I am a coward, I love courage. To me it is the noblest ideal in human life. I hate my natural cowardice—I hunger fiercely to be brave—and I have found that if I cannot really be brave I can at least look and sometimes act the part.

And this, I suspect, is the secret of most courage.

Humanity is still too near its savage source to be really brave. But it has seen a vision of courage, shining like a star through the darkness. And that vision has heartened it to rise from its shambling fear and walk upright like a man.

So don't be discouraged, little Alice. Your fear isn't an abnormal blight. It's as natural as hunger. You can control it by thinking of courage, loving courage, desiring courage, acting courage.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IF YOU don't know, say so, and learn something.

Making a bluff of knowing more than you do may be the reason why you are not more enlightened.

Those from whom you might gain important facts are averse to discussing subjects upon which you pretend to have knowledge—if after all you succeed in deceiving them.

Often you only think you have misled.

In either case they consider that you are not worth explanations.

A bluff carries up to a certain point—then it becomes a decided flop.

Those with a superficial knowledge might attempt to expose you.

But it is unwise to indicate that you are well informed on any subject when you are in the presence of an authority who might give you good pointers.

Perhaps you have been going along on a bluff.

If so, you must realize when you have reached your limit.

And now you know that it would have been better for you if you had bluffed less and tried to learn more.

Bible Passages

Judas Betrayeth Jesus

(John 18; 1-14)

WHEN Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into which he entered, and his disciples.

And Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place: for Jesus oftimes resorted thither with his disciples.

Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons.

Jesus therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood with them.

As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

Jesus answered, I have told you that I am he: if therefore ye seek me, let these go their way:

That the saying might be fulfilled, which he spake, Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none.

Then Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant name was Malchus.

Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up they sword into the sheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

Then the band and the captain and officers of the Jews took Jesus, and bound him.

And led him away to Annas first; for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was the high priest that same year.

Now Caiaphas was he, which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

O. O. McINTYRE

AT SEA—Just before starting with my wife, mother-in-law and dog to the pier to embark in the Ile de France for a short trip abroad, a slick gentleman tricked me into stopping on the way to make a movietone talk. They ran suddenly out of celebrities and decided to use me for one.

They'll be more careful after this.

I not only gummed up a couple of reels trying to say "recalcitrant," but stood in the wrong spot twice and blinded by the lights, was only saved from breaking my neck down an elevator shaft by the quick yank of a workman. And what he said!

So I was in no mood for a fidgety ocean. We had scarcely lifted anchor until it snapped into its dance—not a soft shoe affair but one of those old-fashioned hoe downs. In such trying moments, with doors slamming and port holes closing, one needs most of all a symbol of courage.

I rang for the steward. I needed nothing, but just wanted to see him shrug his shoulders and hear him say: "It is nothing, monsieur!" He turned out to be one of those plump, blonde, wine-cheeked Frenchmen with violet eyes and a thin piping tenor. A lot of help.

When he spoke I thought he had stepped on a kitten. He kept watching the door and I made up my mind if he made a dash to trip him. He would not beat me to a life boat. And then, like dawn in the movies, came the calm. There is only one interesting ocean trip and that is the first. Take it from one on his sixteenth crossing.

The rest have a rubber stamp monotony—the same tweedy pipe smokers, giggly flappers and lounging room bores. The minute you realize there is no turning back you would give your hope of Heaven to be home. But folk will be ridiculous and go abroad, so here we are.

It is amusing to watch people creep out on deck following a storm. Their manner is so nonchalant—chirping like sparrows after a sudden shower. The seasoned voyageur knows they likely donned life belts and sat about in their cabins in white-faced terror while the waves rolled high. How I know!

There are two heroes aboard with their breasts cluttered up with so many medals Mr. Sousa would look naked. Adulation is always dangerous, and these lads are no exceptions. They came aboard with a heavy list and have been that way ever since. We are not indulgent with heroes any more. There are too many, and we want them sober. Either that or they must hide their medals. An East Indian prince, who looks like Otis Skinner, wearing a white robe and a diamond bracelet on each wrist, is in the cabin next door. I wonder if he tells fortunes.

Nothing is quite so "mental" as seasickness. In the Olympic one time I saw a man deliberately talk another into it. The victim was boasting of many crossings made without a tremor and his friend winked at the group about the table. I don't know what he said but when I passed by later everybody was convulsed with laughter and the immune fellow was galloping for the rail—the gray of a flounder's belly. And he did not show himself again.

* * *

Old seagoing captains many years at the wheel are never entirely free from twinges of seasickness. And there are some people who actually cross the ocean solely to be ill. They believe it is a sort of panacea, I prefer castor oil raw.

As one who has had his share of mal-de-mer, one thing is certain. Food never tastes so good as after an attack. The illness vanishes ps-s-s-st!—like that. One moment you think you are dying and hope you are, the next you are aching to tear into a three-inch steak with all the trimmings. There are no regrets either when you look back on "sickiest" of all sickness. You do not mind having been a victim at all. If that were not true, liners would go into bankruptcy.

The liveliest thing on the ship during the sway of the drunken wind was my pooch. As the plunging liner poised in mid air and shivered down, he ran joyously in circles, barking his head off. A wan and annoyed gent next door rapped twice, but he need not have been so fussy. He was making funny noises himself. Perhaps another way of making whoopee.
